It is authentic and in great condition and has not left the building.) Diagonal scenic and type design sections, "T.P.A. Convention Denver, Colorado 1890 Pass Bearer Denver Rio Grande R.R., Colorado Midland R.R. and Union Pacific R.R." in lower/right half, embossed "Toltec Gorge" mountainous design with train upper left emerging from tunnel and TPA moniker embossed in middle (signed Beddo middle at bottom of scenic design) - Excellent condition, one of the rarest and most decorative 1800s railroad silver Railroad passes - Issued at the 1890 Travelers' Protective Association (T.P.A.) annual convention in Denver, Colorado, this thin, embossed card is struck in silver and measures 3.25" x 2." It was used to "Pass Bearer" on all Colorado rails including the Denver & Rio Grande RR, Colorado Midland RR, Union Pacific RR, as well as the Santa Fe RR (although not specifically shown on the card). Delegates attending the annual event were entitled to other benefits such as special concessions at hotels and other transportation agencies. Info page from collector's estate describes the origins and use of this flat pass and reasons for it's rarity. The Colorado Midland Railroad, not mentioned on that page, traveled up Ute pass around Pikes Peak to Cripple Creek and is presumed to have offered the attendees of the Convention a trip through those scenic mountain passes (see last photo). A faint additional inscription "COLO GOLD AND SILVER M.F.G. CO., Denver. PURE COLORADO SILVER." appears at the bottom of the card. The card is nicely engraved and ornamented. Very few are known to exist and the few that have made it to the secondary market have reached a high premium with heavy bidding. see photos for details and conditions

David Budd attended the School of Architecture at the University of Florida at Gainesville from 1946 to 1948, and afterwards moved to New York. He joined the Art Students League in 1954, and frequented the Cedar Street Tavern, where he befriended fellow artists Jackson Pollock, Willem de Kooning, and Franz Kline. Budd worked in the Abstract Expressionist style until the 1960s, at which point he turned to more monochromatic work with highly textured surfaces. His first solo exhibition was held in 1956 at American University in Washington DC, followed by significant shows at Betty Parsons Gallery, New York in 1958 and Galerie Stadler, Paris in 1960. In 1960 Budd became disillusioned with the art scene in New York and moved to Paris, where he remained for much of the next decade. Later, he lived in the Hamptons, working and exhibiting as an active member of the East End scene. Budd was the recipient of grants from the National Endowment of the Arts in 1973 and the John Simon Guggenheim Fellowship in 1984. Budd's work is included in many prominent collections including the Museum of Modern Art, the Guggenheim Museum, the Whitney Museum of American Art and the Corcoran Gallery of Art. A retrospective exhibition is planned for 2009 at the Gulf Coast Museum of Art in Largo, Florida.

186	Original Haku Maki (1924-2000) Embossed "Poem 68-20" Signed & Numbered 1968 Limited Edition Print - {self arranged packing & shipping or free in house pick up} 14 /66 Limited Edition artist signed and titled Poem 68-20, mated under glass in 27 3/4" X 21 3/4" frame. Haku Maki, originally named Maejima Tadaaki, was born in 1924 in Asomachi, Ibaraki Prefecture. His life took a dramatic turn in 1945 when, as part of a kamikaze pilot squadron, he narrowly escaped death due to Japan's surrender on August 14, 1945. Following this pivotal moment, Haku Maki pursued a career as a high school teacher. It wasn't until 1950 that he adopted the artistic name Haku Maki, subsequently gaining renown as the celebrated print maker and painter recognized today. Haku Maki is renowned for his abstract prints, featuring enigmatic hieroglyphic-like characters reminiscent of ancient inscriptions found on unearthed stones, awaiting interpretation by archaeologists. These "odd hieroglyphics" are, in fact, refined versions of ancient Chinese kanji characters meticulously re-imagined by Haku Maki to enhance their visual appeal. Often titled as "poems" accompanied by numerical identifiers, these prints embody his artistic vision. Throughout his career, health challenges often impeded his artistic endeavors. In 2000, Haku Maki succumbed to cancer, leaving behind an indelible legacy in the art world.

In 1974 he created a video called the Florence Tapes, which includes a section entitled Walking. The artist's bare feet were shown on a television monitor and the viewer was encouraged to walk on the screen, so that their feet touched. Feet to Feet is one of a set of six prints from the Keeping Time series, created in 1976 and influenced by the Florence Tapes. A television monitor and feet can be seen at the center of the image, underneath the darker footprints. Davis used a variety of printing techniques to create the effect, including his own hands and feet. Each print in the series also includes the dates and times when each stage of the process was undertaken, thus emphasizing the time-based nature of the work. 1 - 30 X 22 3/8" Hand Made Paper "Printed Conversation From; Arturo Umberto Samuele Schwarz, He was an Italian scholar, art historian, poet, writer, lecturer, art consultant and curator of international art exhibitions.
