Lot Number	Title & Description
1	The Vendo Coca-Cola "Vendo 6-CV" 6 case vertical cooler & Appliance Dolly - Local Pick Up Only Runs But will not get cold. What A Beauty For Any Fan Or Collector. It is a cooler because there is no coin mechanism. Even though it looks like a vendo 81 except for the glass door on the right side. Vendo did make a version of this machine with a coin mechanism and it was called the vendo 110. There are no coin or vending mechanisms to mess with on this machine and because they were self-service coolers and not vending machines, they were usually kept indoors. the shelves inside are adjustable so it will hold different size bottles, including longneck beer bottles. The Coca Cola 6-CV was Vendo's first multi-drink upright soda machine. This machine holds 6-cases of bottled soda. The Coca Cola Vendo 6-CV machine was manufactured from 1948 - 1956 and was built in two different versions. The late version had an external removable cap catcher where as the early version had the cap catcher internally, like this one. [missing cap catcher box] The 6-CV's are really nice machines, not only do they hold 6 cases of bottles but they will accept bottle sizes from the new small 8 oz Coke bottle up to a 12 oz long neck bottle. They can also easily accept 12 oz cans. The 6-CV does all this with 10 selections to choose from. They truly are a very nice versatile machine.

8	Victor Moscoso 1967 Neon Rose Psychedelic Concert Poster #12 Chambers Brothers Masterpiece - IN HOUSE SHIPPING AVAILABLE ROLLED IN TUBE -Matrix 3/28-30/67 & 4/4-6/67 NR-12 Chamber Brothers - one of the icon images of the era, this poster was printed only once. The image was later used for two different handbills that were used to promote exhibitions of psychedelic posters. The original poster was printed on white index stock and measures approximately 14½ x 20.in Near Mint condition with only mild corner issues. Moscoso's Neon Rose posters for The Matrix brought his work international attention during the Summer of Love 1967. He had pioneered the use of vibrating colors to create the 'psychedelic' effect in poster art. About that Moscoso said, "The musicians were turning up their amplifiers to the point where they were blowing out your eardrums. I did the equivalent with the eyeballs . . ." Victor Moscoso also was the first of San Francisco's "Big Five" psychedelic poster artists to have his posters shown in the Museum of Modern Art in New York. His work is in the Victoria and Albert Museum in London, and in the Library of Congress. The Neon Rose Series of posters is one of the crown jewels of the psychedelic poster era.

10	Rare 27 Inch Double Comb Regina Accordion Case Music Box - {local pick up or buyer arranges 3rd party packing and shipping} Size open 26 1/2" wide, 38" long with crank in, 11 1/4" tall. size closed without crank 19 1/2" wide x 34 1/4" long and 10 1/4" tall. It isn't often that we are privileged to offer a 27" Regina mahogany case music box -- this is the largest disc size that Regina made. Regina advertised the combs as embracing over seven octaves. This and the 20" Regina are the only two machines that Regina ever designed as double comb single strike -- meaning that while the music box featured two combs, each star wheel struck one and only one tooth at a time. Most 27" Regina's were of imposing physical size, housed in giant cabinets for commercial settings, but this rare machine is a little different, not only because it is a table top model, but also because it shrinks in size when the lid is closed. It was technically known as a Style 6, but is commonly referred to as an accordion case, folding case, or casket case Regina. When the lid unfurls it reveals the dishing wheels for the disc on the underside of the lid. The accordion case Regina was made in limited quantities and has always been a favorite of collectors. The Music Box has not been restored, but it is playing quite decently. There are no broken teeth and the motor is functioning properly. The case is missing a few pcs of wood trim and the accordion lid could use some care. See photos for details Has one disc "Cavalleria Rusticana (Rustic Cavalry) By Giacomo Puccini"

She painted in England and Canada participating in many shows and works and in 1912 had a solo show of watercolors of Badminton House and its surroundings in Bristol. Following her marriage to the architect and artist, Ernest Hampshire, in 1913, she turned increasingly to flower studies, landscapes and townscapes. In 1914, they held a joint exhibition of landscapes of the Isle of Man with Yeend King at their London studio. By 1927, Maria had become a member of the Society of Miniaturists. Working increasingly as a painter of landscapes and flowers, Maria exhibited at the Society of Women Artists (from 1919), the Salon des Artistes Françaises, Paris (from 1928), and especially the Royal Institute of Painters in Watercolors (from which Queen Mary bought Spring Flowers in 1922). Continuing to exhibit until 1937, Maria Eaton died in 1944. She was a member of the Society of Miniaturists, England, and exhibited at the Royal Academy and at the Royal Institute of Painters in Watercolor. She had completed works for and sold to: Their Royal Majesties Queen Mary and Queen Alexandra, H.M. Queen Maud of Norway, H. R.H. Princess Royal and many others. Framed 19 1/2" X 15 3/8". 275	Working Standard Model A Talking Machines / Phonograph With Hand Painted Floral Horn - {local pick up or buyer arranges 3rd party packing and shipping}]This Machine is one of the Midwestern brands of disc talking machine at the turn of the 20th century "Standard Disc" of Chicago. Standard instruments were in fact designed and built by the Columbia Phonograph Co., who were justly famous in their own right as high quality manufacturers. We believe the "Model A" taking machine is about the most pleasing, plump, peppy and perfectly balanced instrument you can find! The original flower horn has been carefully repainted creating a translucent finish. Plus, cheerful cabbage roses have been hand-painted in the manner of times past, capturing the precise look of the early twentieth century.. The outstanding condition of all the components makes this delightful instrument enormously appealing. Original factory cabinet finish and decal.

575	Victor Moscoso 1967 Neon Rose Psychedelic Concert Poster N-5 Sopwith Camel Original - IN HOUSE SHIPPING AVAILABLE ROLLED IN TUBE - Super example of Surrealist/ Psychedelic imagery, this was the original poster run with "c Neon Rose Moscoso" embossed lower right on 20" x 14" paper. Moscoso's Neon Rose posters for The Matrix brought his work international attention during the Summer of Love 1967. He had pioneered the use of vibrating colors to create the 'psychedelic' effect in poster art. About that Moscoso said, "The musicians were turning up their amplifiers to the point where they were blowing out your eardrums. I did the equivalent with the eyeballs . . ." Victor Moscoso also was the first of San Francisco's "Big Five" psychedelic poster artists to have his posters shown in the Museum of Modern Art in New York. His work is in the Victoria and Albert Museum in London, and in the Library of Congress. The Neon Rose Series of posters is one of the crown jewels of the psychedelic poster era.

His work is thought provoking and capable of arousing strong emotions regardless of ethnic, gender and generational affiliation. Although he may have an idea or vision in mind when painting a particular piece, Charles prefers each individual who views his work to gain a personal vision from his artwork. Across the board, his renderings convey a deep sense of spirituality, majesty, dignity, strength and grace. It is sufficient to say, however his works are viewed, whatever individual emotions they may evoke, they remain characteristically and recognizably Bibbs.
