Roderick Tenorio was an award winning Santo Domingo artist. A 1981 graduate of the Institute of American Indian Arts, Roderick was accomplished in sculpture, painting and music. Roderick's unique symbolic interpretation and high degree of detail earned him jewelry awards at Santa Fe Indian Market, Eight Northern Indian Pueblos Show, the New Mexico State Fair, and the Gallup Inter-Tribal Ceremonials, including the prestigious "Best of Show". Roderick loved creating jewelry. "I'm a very lucky man," he had said quietly. "I was born with a certain amount of talent in art, and I had family, friends and teachers who encouraged me to develop my abilities. Today, I have the advantage of incorporating many centuries of tribal history, religion, myths and characters into my designs. I'm far less interested in defining my jewelry as traditional or contemporary than I am in striving for beauty...and I'm willing to let my work follow any direction needed to realize that end." {in house shipping available}

317	9" x12" Enamel on Copper Plate Landscape by Charles Edward Parthesius in 17 1/2" x 20" Frame - (1921-1977) - Signed Parthesius lower right. Idyllic country landscape with 2 boys fishing and town roofs in background. The following biography is taken from an interview with the artist in Glass on Metal magazine, February 1, 1990. Charles Edward Parthesius was born on April 25, 1921, in Maspeth, Queens, New York City. His father was from Dutch-German extraction and mother was born in Switzerland. He dabbled in art at an early age with his brothers, copying characters from the comics. He pursued an art education in high school, where he graduated in 1939 with honors. Watercolor was his favorite medium. He entered local art exhibits, picking up ribbons along the way. While participating in an outdoor art show on Long Island, he was approached by a man running a private art school. He thought so much of his work, he asked him to teach art at the school. Later he became interested in enamels. Parthesius worked in the style of French impressionists such as Manet, Pizzarro, Boudin, Monet, Renoir and others that have a lot of color in their work. He tried to bring out the nostalgic times of the turn of the century. The ladies in his paintings are dressed in lovely tresses and the men have derbies or high hats. Sometimes he used a standard background which includes children playing ball, flying kites, or carrying balloons. During his lifetime his enamels became very popular and the artist's works were known to have been owned by such notable celebrities as Sammy Davis, Jr., Barbara Eden, Dean Martin, Paul Mellon, Ethel Merman, Liza Minelli, Princess Jacqueline Oblinsky, Prince Philip of England, Merriweather Post, Vincent Price, Mario Puzzo, Ronald Reagan, Frank Sinatra, Sr., Red Skelton, and John Wayne. Charles Edward Parthesius died in Lindenhurst, New York on April 19, 1997. - In House Shipping Available

602	Stefan Gommerman Gomy 3-D Cutwork Collage 5/495 of Granny in the Kitchen - Great image of Jewish grandmother in the kitchen, 21"x17"x1.5" shadowbox frame, S. I. G. Fine Arts 1993 embossed seal, pencil signed Gomy and numbered 5/495 Stefan (Steven) Gommerman or Gomy artist. SIG is the name of Gallery Steven and Ida Gommerman. Hand colored, plate signed, 3 dimensional artwork. Gomy, a multi-talented Hungarian-born artist, has enjoyed a variety of creative pursuits in many different mediums and countries throughout the world. With his European education, GOMY studied music, writing and drawing - and became successful in all three "loves" of his life. By the age of 23, he was the most popular poser in his native Hungary, authoring some of the biggest hits. He moved to Germany and in just a few years, established himself as one of the top ten screen writers - writing and selling over 100 movie and television scripts. Several won international awards. After moving to the United States, he returned to his first love - the fine arts. This led to his venture in art publishing. When the 3-dimensional cut-out-art mania swept over the art landscape, Gomy became fascinated with this intriguing new art form and developed a unique concept. Instead of using serigraphs and/or lithographs as components for the 3-D's - like the other cut-out artists do. Gomy introduced the HAND-COLORED and HAND-CUT, MULTI-LEVELED 3-D's. Gomy's use of vibrant and lasting colors make the works vivid and intensify the 3-D effect. Although each piece is classified as part of a signed and numbered limited edition, none of them are exactly identical. Each image has its own flavor and character because of the individual hand coloring and mixed media. {in house shipping available}

611	Zamy Steynovitz A/P Pencil Signed Serigraph "PEACE IN JERUSALEM" - Born in Liegnitz, Poland in 1951, Zamy Steynovitz (1951-2000) spent the first few years of his life in Poland before immigrating to Israel with his family in 1957. When he was a child he developed his interest in art, beginning his artistic endeavors before leaving Poland. Her\ studied at both the Art School in Tel-Aviv and at the Royal Academy of Arts in London, and developed his artistic style through his travels around the world, exhibiting internationally. Although he frequently featured Jewish themes and tradition, he was also inspired by other subjects, such as his time in South America, still-lifes, Paris, and landscapes. Much of the evolution in his work was related to his use of color and texture, with brighter and more vivid hues and contrasts. Known as a passionate supporter of world peace, Steynovitz had many admirers in the social and community circles associated with the Norwegian Nobel Institute, and aspired to become acquainted with such Nobel Peace luminaries as Anwar Sadat, Menachim Begin, the Dalai Lama and Desmond Tutu, among others. A meeting with Pope John Paul II at the Vatican, where they had a wonderful conversation in their native Polish tongue, was one of the highlights of Steynovitz's life. Sadly, he passed away at a young age in September 2000, leaving behind a prodigious body of work that is extremely collectible and sought after worldwide.
