1	Jean Alexandre Joseph Falguière, Art Bronze "Junon et Paon." (Juno And The Peacock) - 21" with masterful design and composition - smooth body finish and elegant form of nude woman contrasted by the detailed lines of peacock feathers, Smelted by one of the most important foundries in France "Thiebaut Freres Fonderie et Gavignot, Paris" Early script mark on base. His first bronze statue of importance was le Vainqueur au Combat de Coqs (Victor of the Cockfight) (1864), and Narcissus the Christian Boy-Martyr followed in 1867; both were exhibited in the Luxembourg museum and are now in the Musée d'Orsay. his more important monuments are those to admiral courbet (1890) at Abbeville and the famous Joan of Arc. among more ideal work are eve (1880), Diana (1882 and 1891), woman and peacock (a. k. a. Juno and the Peacock), and the poet, astride his Pegasus spreading wings for flight. he sculpted the dancer, based on Cléo de Mérode, which today is also in the Musée d'Orsay. his triumph of the republic (1881-1886), a vast quadriga for the Arc de Triomphe, Paris, is perhaps more amazingly full of life than others of his works, all of which reveal this quality of vitality in superlative degree. - local pick up only OR buyer arranges ALL packing and shipping through third party (will need to be crated, heavy)

15	Jundy Larson In Spirit Only Framed, Matted, Signed and Numbered Limited Edition Print W/ COA - "Symbolizing sacred power to the Native American the Eagle was honored more than any other bird. As two Indian ponies race through the forest, decorated with eagle feathers, is the air filled with the shrieks of eagles or do they exist in spirit only?" signed and numbered 19" X 26", professionally matted in " x " frame - Judy Larson received a Bachelor of Science degree in Commercial Art from Pacific Union College in Northern California, then spent the next 17 years as a commercial artist, illustrator and art director. In 1988, influenced by her love of nature and animals, Judy devoted her time to wildlife art. Her primary focus in each of her paintings is the animal, with the horse as a recurring subject. Her unique approach to her work is through the use of scratch board-a technique that can render magnificent detail but one requiring infinite patience. Scratch board, an old, but little used medium, consists of a smooth, thin surface of hardened China clay applied to a board. The subject is then painted solidly with black India ink to create a silhouette. Now the exacting work begins, engraving the image into the surface of the artwork. Once the subject has been totally scratched, it is a finished black and white illustration, ready for the artist to add color. Judy uses a combination of airbrush, gouache or acrylics for finishing, with frequent re-scratching for detail. For Judy Larson, whose underlying message is always passionately ecological, her medium of scratchboard, as well as her "art of concealment," allows her "to take the viewer with me." Explains Larson, "My desire is to engage viewers on three levels: first, by revealing the beauty of animals through intricate detail; second, by concealing a hidden image that draws the viewer to examine the painting more closely and through which I can tell a story; and third, by promoting a deeper awareness of the environment on a level that will hopefully have an impact. - Local pick up only OR buyer arranges ALL packing and shipping through third party

The TV Lamp is unmarked but is Phil-Mar. The Phil-Mar Corporation of Cleveland, Ohio was one of the major players in the TV lamp market, producing them in a tremendous variety of styles. In the early '40s they manufactured fiberglass products for the war effort, but 1946 saw all their attention focus on production of lamps and their "Glastron" lampshades. They soon purchased Royal Hickman Industries, a company Hickman formed following his 1944 departure from Haeger Potteries, renaming it Ceramic Arts, Inc. Frank Petty had worked with Hickman at Haeger and followed him to Hickman Industries, but opted to remain with Phil-Mar after the sale. Petty was well acquainted with the glazes and designs used by Hickman at Haeger Potteries, which is why there's such confusion today...is it Haeger or Phil-Mar? The products can be very similar. Today many Phil-Mar products are unattributed (or thought to be by Haeger), as their foil labels are no longer present. {local pickup or in house shipping available}

She Works with The Greenwich Workshop to produce fine art archival limited edition prints of her intricate original camouflage art. "I am not a prolific painter," Bev explains. "My art style prevents that. Reproducing my painting in print was the perfect answer. I was able to concentrate on my most important ideas while still having my work represented in galleries around North America as well as abroad. My relationship with The Workshop and its extended family of artists, galleries and their customers has been a joy for me for more than twenty-five years." Nearly all of Bev's prints have been sell-outs and five books of her art have been released. Bev's work reflects her love of horses, passion for the natural world and her affinity for the Native American's spiritual relationship to the land. Bev and her husband, Jay, both graduates of the Art Center College of Design, began married life as art directors for an advertising agency in Los Angeles. Five year of living in the city made them more aware of what they were missing: the outdoors and creating their own art. "We hoarded our savings and struck out on our own, living out of our camper for a year. Calling ourselves, 'Traveling Artists,' we painted our way through the West. For me, success followed my passion. Passion is what drives me." Bev, Jay and their son Jayson live close to nature in the California high desert. In 1988, influenced by her love of nature and animals, Judy devoted her time to wildlife art. Her primary focus in each of her paintings is the animal, with the horse as a recurring subject. Her unique approach to her work is through the use of scratch board-a technique that can render magnificent detail but one requiring infinite patience. Scratch board, an old, but little used medium, consists of a smooth, thin surface of hardened China clay applied to a board. The subject is then painted solidly with black India ink to create a silhouette. Now the exacting work begins, engraving the image into the surface of the artwork. Once the subject has been totally scratched, it is a finished black and white illustration, ready for the artist to add color. Judy uses a combination of airbrush, gouache or acrylics for finishing, with frequent re-scratching for detail.For Judy Larson, whose underlying message is always passionately ecological, her medium of scratchboard, as well as her "art of concealment," allows her "to take the viewer with me." Explains Larson, "My desire is to engage viewers on three levels: first, by revealing the beauty of animals through intricate detail; second, by concealing a hidden image that draws the viewer to examine the painting more closely and through which I can tell a story; and third, by promoting a deeper awareness of the environment on a level that will hopefully have an impact." - print mint, some light scuff marks to front of folio cover local pick up or in house shipping available

Edition Size: 27,416 of 65,000 in protective 32 x 21 1/4 folio with back support, tissue front cover, Coa Anddocumentationsheet plus list of all the hidden animals and birds "If you spend a long time in a wild place, you hear things, you see things you didn't know were there. In this wild place you might hear Chief Eagle Feather's prayer. He is thanking the Great Spirit for the wild creatures that share his world with him. The four-legged ones. The ones that swim in the water. The ones who fly though the air. Hidden, but near, the animals and birds Pray with the chief, but not in words. How many creatures can you find? 26 species represented by 34 animals and birds that move, flow, fly and hide in this tremendous landscape." - Bev Doolittle's phenomenal success has been a by-product of her desire to work hard at what she loves to do most – create art with meaning. "My love for nature, as well as man's relationship with it, is the driving force behind all of my artwork. She Works with The Greenwich Workshop to produce fine art archival limited edition prints of her intricate original camouflage art. "I am not a prolific painter," Bev explains. "My art style prevents that. Reproducing my painting in print was the perfect answer. I was able to concentrate on my most important ideas while still having my work represented in galleries around North America as well as abroad. My relationship with The Workshop and its extended family of artists, galleries and their customers has been a joy for me for more than twenty-five years." Nearly all of Bev's prints have been sell-outs and five books of her art have been released. Bev's work reflects her love of horses, passion for the natural world and her affinity for the Native American's spiritual relationship to the land. Bev and her husband, Jay, both graduates of the Art Center College of Design, began married life as art directors for an advertising agency in Los Angeles. Five year of living in the city made them more aware of what they were missing: the outdoors and creating their own art. "We hoarded our savings and struck out on our own, living out of our camper for a year. Calling ourselves, 'Traveling Artists,' we painted our way through the West. Published: May 1993 in presentation protective folio cover with care card and artist info card- "Wilderness is a place where natural forces prevail. It is more than a beautiful 'postcard-perfect' landscape. Each missing plant or animal, seemingly insignificant in itself, creates a vacuum over time. That ethereal ambiance, the essence of true wilderness, slowly drifts away. We are then left with a beautiful landscape which was once so much more." - Bev Doolittle Is it still wilderness without wildlife? That is the message of "Wilderness! Wilderness?" by Bev Doolittle. Her fine art poster has the unique Doolittle artistic approach that invites you to look beyond the obvious. Whichever way you view it, her message is clear in the reflection. What do you see there? 263	Antique 'Zulu' Breech Loading Shotgun - This is a very hard to find Snider Breech-load Conversion 'Zulu' 12 ga. Shotgun. These type guns were originally French military percussion muzzle loading rifle-muskets that were then converted in Belgium with the Snider Breech system, bore reamed to smoothbore, half stocked and sold as surplus in the African trade mainly to East African natives to harass the British. Years later, some entrepreneurial Belgians bought up all those old breech loading muskets and converted them to shotguns for the American market. Settlers heading out west needed a gun to get food more than defending against Indians, and lots of them were bought up by these pioneers. "The history of the Zulu Shotgun goes back to the end of the muzzle loading era. With the civil war ushering in the era of the breech loading metallic cartridge firearm and with large stocks of muzzle loading weapons on hand, countries needed a way to convert these weapons to a breech loading weapon. One of the first methods was the Snider or Tabatiere conversion. By the late 1870's large quantities of French converted rifle were on the surplus market with no buyers. A decision was made to convert them to an inexpensive shotgun. This was accomplished by reaming out the rifling in the barrels to make them smooth bore, scrubbing all the original marks off the rifles and then proof them with Belgium proof marks, cut down the stocks to a sporter configuration and removing the rifle sights and installing a front sight bead."
