11	Bill Mack Alto Relief Plaque of Female Nude on White Ground - 26" x 20" cast female verso nude plaque with incised signature, mounted in 36"X30" frame - Bill Mack is the world's preeminent relief sculptor, primarily working in "alto relief" form that originated in ancient temple friezes and marble sepulchers and is virtually nonexistent in galleries anywhere. To excel in this exacting form, in which foreshortening poses daunting technical challenges, Mack is also a master draftsman. Each relief derives from painstaking studies of the foreshortened figure-a classic skill that is a major factor in to the quality of his reliefs. For over twenty years, Mack paid his dues, working mostly as a commissioned artist — from miniature medallic works such as the Bicentennial medals for the State of Minnesota and the cities of St. Louis and Baltimore, to reliefs and full-round sculptures for corporations such as General Motors, Pillsbury, and 3M. Then, in the early 1980s, Mack made a venturesome artistic move and entered the competitive gallery world with his Alto Relief' sculptures. Today, in the popular contemporary arts, he has developed a major following. in a remarkably short time for a contemporary artist, Mack has achieved worldwide acceptance, with exhibitions from New York City to Beverly Hills, and from Tokyo to Frankfurt. His work is in the collections of former Presidents, Sylvester Stallone, Elizabeth Taylor, and Tony Randall. Major public pieces reside in the Statue of Liberty National Monument on Liberty Island, in the NBA, NFL International Tennis American and Canadian Hockey and United States Figure Skating Halls of Fame Exhibits - in house shipping available, boxing charge

14	Phyllis Trager Hyman (1936-2011) Acrylic On Canvas 2005 It's Magical" - From The Estate Of Phyllis Trager Hyman 30" X 30" signed bottom center and on verso -Phyllis was a sophisticated outsider artist whose imagery - lyrical, whimsical, nightmarish, puzzling, and penetrating - reveals a life fulfilled by creativity .Daughter of eastern European Jewish immigrants, her work was shaped by the melting pot of NYC post-WWII, urban social realism and the mind-quest of the Beat Generation, as well as the vibrancy of modern art, contemporary literature and world music. Painfully shy, she was isolated by and struggled with the stigmas of disability from polio and paranoid schizophrenia, from which grew profound awareness of paradox. Despite her challenging reality, she was buoyed by an enormous intellect. She absorbed aesthetic influences in palette, brushwork and line from artists as diverse as Chagall, Arp, Leger, Hans Hofmann, Ben Shahn and illustrators Ronald Searle and Al Hirschfeld. Acutely aware of the enigma that was her mind, she teased the viewer with a personal iconography of letter and number shapes, phrases and visual puns. Faces (both human and creature) peer slyly from her canvases. Though her disorder prevented her from the social mingling necessary for notice in the art world, Phyllis worked with strictly professional materials (oils, acrylic, canvas, paper, watercolor, pencils and ink). Living her art, she found joy in life and left a legacy of art worth preserving. Her vibrant color owed to her Gulf-coast Floridian residency. Gifted with a wry sense of humor and a steely gentleness, she depicted compassion, sense of place, love of the wild, vulnerability, and freedom versus confinement in kaleidoscopic, stream-of-consciousness drawings and paintings.. She was an avid follower of the art world and was registered with NARSAD Artworks, an outlet of what is now the Brain and Behavior Research Foundation. {in house shipping available}

65	Phyllis Trager Hyman (1936-2011) Acrylic On Canvas 2005 "Delphinium" - From The Estate Of Phyllis Trager Hyman 30" X 30" signed bottom center right and on verso - Phillis was a sophisticated outsider artist whose imagery - lyrical, whimsical, nightmarish, puzzling, and penetrating - reveals a life fulfilled by creativity .Daughter of eastern European Jewish immigrants, her work was shaped by the melting pot of NYC post-WWII, urban social realism and the mind-quest of the Beat Generation, as well as the vibrancy of modern art, contemporary literature and world music. Painfully shy, she was isolated by and struggled with the stigmas of disability from polio and paranoid schizophrenia, from which grew profound awareness of paradox. Despite her challenging reality, she was buoyed by an enormous intellect. She absorbed aesthetic influences in palette, brushwork and line from artists as diverse as Chagall, Arp, Leger, Hans Hofmann, Ben Shahn and illustrators Ronald Searle and Al Hirschfeld. Acutely aware of the enigma that was her mind, she teased the viewer with a personal iconography of letter and number shapes, phrases and visual puns. Faces (both human and creature) peer slyly from her canvases. Though her disorder prevented her from the social mingling necessary for notice in the art world, Phyllis worked with strictly professional materials (oils, acrylic, canvas, paper, watercolor, pencils and ink). Living her art, she found joy in life and left a legacy of art worth preserving. Her vibrant color owed to her Gulf-coast Floridian residency. Gifted with a wry sense of humor and a steely gentleness, she depicted compassion, sense of place, love of the wild, vulnerability, and freedom versus confinement in kaleidoscopic, stream-of-consciousness drawings and paintings.. She was an avid follower of the art world and was registered with NARSAD Artworks, an outlet of what is now the Brain and Behavior Research Foundation. {in house shipping available}

163	Ken & Ingrid Hanson 1998 Hand Blown Charger - 4 1/4" Tall X 19" wide. Ken and Ingrid Hanson have worked together since their early college years. Although traditional Italian and Swedish glass-blowing techniques inspire them, they employ a bold and innovative color palette to create their unique and contemporary art glass. "We constantly strive to evolve our ideas to create unique and exciting works of art in glass. It is the intensity and unpredictability of hot glass that inspires constant change in our work. Through collaboration, we are able share our visions and skills to create one-of-a-kind works of art." Ken and Ingrid melt sand and other raw materials into glass at temperatures exceeding 2300 degrees Fahrenheit. They gather the molten glass onto blow pipes, then through the use of heat, gravity, and centrifugal force, they manipulate the glass into beautiful works of art.see photo small pin size chip on rim. {in house shipping available}

Dewey Albinson was born in Minneapolis, March 9, 1898. He began painting at the age of 15, and studied at the Minneapolis School of Art, the Art Students' League of New York to which he had a scholarship, in Paris and Italy. He has received many awards, and has exhibited widely in this country and abroad. Mr. Albinson has executed a mural for the Cloquet Minnesota Post Office under the program of the Section of Fine Arts. He brought an expressionist approach of bold brushstrokes and strong colors to upper Midwestern subjects like farmsteads, towns and cities, Native American life, and the North Shore region of Lake Superior. He directed the St. Paul School of Art back in Minnesota. During the Depression he painted Minneapolis and University of Minnesota scenes for the Public Works of Art Project; painted for, and directed the Education Division of, the WPA Federal Art Project in Minnesota; and painted murals for the post offices of Cloquet, Minnesota and Marquette, Michigan. Albinson spent his final years in Mexico, where he painted a series of canvases based on Miguel Cervantes's story of DON QUIXOTE. Albinson's typescript memoirs are in the Minnesota Historical Society library. {in house shipping available}

197	Peter Robert Keil "Devil Inside" 1975 - 20" X 16" unframed on masonite signed right bottom and titled and signed on verso. Peter Robert Keil was born to an artist blacksmith father whom he lost very early in his childhood during World War II. During the end phase of the war, Keil's mother, also an artistically talented woman, took her son and struggled her way to West Berlin where they settled. This is where Peter Robert Keil grew up in the working-class neighborhood of Berlin-Wedding and where he discovered his interest in painting – particularly in expressionistic artists and in Pablo Picasso's work. From 1954 on, the East Berlin-based painter Otto Nagel became his mentor and taught him first craft skills and painting techniques. In 1954, he began his traineeship as an artist metalworker and between 1959 and 1961, he studied at the University of Arts in Berlin. When the Berlin Wall was built, he lost contact with his mentor Otto Nagel and from the early 60s on, Keil started to spend more and more time abroad. During his studies at the University of Arts in Berlin, he came in contact with numerous other artists who later became influential artists of their generation, like Georg Baselitz, Eugen Schönebeck, Markus Lüpertz and Joachim Schmettau. During his time in Mallorca, he also met with Joan Miró in his studio several times. From the early 60s on, Keil established studios in Paris, London, Berlin and in the US. Today he mainly lives and works in Zimmerau (Bavaria, Germany), Berlin and Los Angeles. In the beginnings of his artistic career, Peter Keil's style was influenced by German expressionism. In the works from his early Berlin years, he mainly focused on typical big city settings and characters on the fringes of society. However, his style changed visibly at the beginning of the 60s when he lived in Paris for a while and emerged in the city's nightlife. Keil increasingly parted with his realistic approach and developed a new, much more spontaneous and dynamic painting style which he developed further during his years in London and finally during his time as one of the "Berliner Neue Wilden" at the beginning of the 80s. Since then, the use of intensive to lurid colours and the absence of realistic representation have become characteristic of his painting style. In his paintings, the colour is applied with quick brushstrokes and occasionally with impasto techniques and the images are additionally abstracted by the use of Graffiti elements. Keil prefers to paint human figures, portraits, big city scenes, landscapes and still life images of flowers. His emotional way of painting is mainly driven by a desire for freedom from social constraints and conventions. In the past 50 years, he has created numerous large- and small scale paintings in oil and mixed media on canvas but also some sculptures in wood and steel and a great number of majolicas. {in house shipping available}

Armenian-born in 1947, Martiros Manoukian's talent emerged at an early age and he began painting seriously at age 11. He entered the Academy of Art in Yerevan in 1967, directly from high school, traveled to and studied at the academies in Moscow and Leningrad and completed his studies in Yerevan in 1972. Martiros' first exhibit as an adult was in 1972 in Armenia, in the Young Artists Exhibit sponsored by the Union of Soviet Artists – an exhibit later seen in Moscow. At 26, he had the prestigious honor of qualifying to become a member of the Union of Soviet Artists. He participated in numerous exhibits under the auspices of the Union during the years 1974-1986 and received many honors and awards. Martiros holds great fondness for the people and rich culture of Armenia, Russia, and the rest of the former USSR. In the USSR, he flourished not only as a painter, but also as an artist and designer in many other disciplines. However, his material success and outspoken defiance of Communist dogma continually brought him serious difficulties. Through his art, he found a means of expressing his freedom in symbolic ways, still within the parameters of politically acceptable images. Since immigrating to the United States in 1987, Martiros has experienced the artistic freedom and success of which he could only dream under the communist political system of his homeland. In his artwork, Martiros likes to mix materials that aren't often considered comparable in painting. His philosophy is if you can put people together and they can get along, you can do the same in art.

348	Rare 19th Century Persian Qajar Period/ Ottoman Pocket Astrolabe - 3" to end of eyelet, comprising eight pieces including the mater, the rete, three double sided plates, The rule, brass center peg and pointer lock. Top quality old world craftsmanship, the mater decorated in the with lobed palmettes and Arabic inscriptions. The plates are similarly engraved with stereo graphic projections and additional Arabic inscriptions. A fine interlocking pattern graces the outer edge. Traditionally, astrolabes were used by astronomers and navigators to determine the position in the sky of a celestial body. Astrolabes can be used by day or night, and can be used to identify stars or planets, to determine local latitude, to survey, or to triangulate. Throughout history, astrolabes have served a crucial and often overlooked purpose in the navigation and exploration of the world: astrolabes were used in Classical antiquity, the Islamic Golden Age, the European Middle Ages and the Renaissance for all these purposes. The present, 19th century example embodies a revival of this earlier time, when astrolabes were essential for navigation.

479	Phyllis Trager Hyman (1936-2011) Acrylic On Canvas 2005 "Trapped In My Youth" - From The Estate Of Phyllis Trager Hyman 30" X 30" signed on verso -Phyllis was a sophisticated outsider artist whose imagery - lyrical, whimsical, nightmarish, puzzling, and penetrating - reveals a life fulfilled by creativity .Daughter of eastern European Jewish immigrants, her work was shaped by the melting pot of NYC post-WWII, urban social realism and the mind-quest of the Beat Generation, as well as the vibrancy of modern art, contemporary literature and world music. Painfully shy, she was isolated by and struggled with the stigmas of disability from polio and paranoid schizophrenia, from which grew profound awareness of paradox. Despite her challenging reality, she was buoyed by an enormous intellect. She absorbed aesthetic influences in palette, brushwork and line from artists as diverse as Chagall, Arp, Leger, Hans Hofmann, Ben Shahn and illustrators Ronald Searle and Al Hirschfeld. Acutely aware of the enigma that was her mind, she teased the viewer with a personal iconography of letter and number shapes, phrases and visual puns. Faces (both human and creature) peer slyly from her canvases. Though her disorder prevented her from the social mingling necessary for notice in the art world, Phyllis worked with strictly professional materials (oils, acrylic, canvas, paper, watercolor, pencils and ink). Living her art, she found joy in life and left a legacy of art worth preserving. Her vibrant color owed to her Gulf-coast Floridian residency. Gifted with a wry sense of humor and a steely gentleness, she depicted compassion, sense of place, love of the wild, vulnerability, and freedom versus confinement in kaleidoscopic, stream-of-consciousness drawings and paintings.. She was an avid follower of the art world and was registered with NARSAD Artworks, an outlet of what is now the Brain and Behavior Research Foundation. {in house shipping available}

He was able at a very early age to help his family financially with the earnings from his work in glass. During the 1950's and 60's, the most famous and important firm in Murano island was Seguso Vetri d' Arte where many glass artists began their careers.. It was here that Arnaldo started to work alongside masters such as Alfredo Barbini, Angelo Seguso, Ermanno Nason, Pino Signoretto and many others. Angelo Seguso decided Arnaldo, with his experience working with Angelo Seguso and Pino Signoretto, was now ready and able to become an independent maestro (master glass blower) at the highest level. In 1985 he along with some friends, opened a glasswork-studio called "Andromeda". With a predilection for brightly colored opalescent glass he became a true innovator in the field of sculpted glass. Arnaldo Zanella is a poet of his generation and his work is much appreciated by the connoisseurs all over the world. Since 1991 he has been working with a friend, Oscar Zanetti and Zanetti Vetreria Artistica."
