2	Phyllis Trager Hyman (1936-2011) Acrylic On Canvas "Parrot Snake" 2003 - From The Estate Of Phyllis Trager Hyman 19 3/4" X 19 3/4" unframed signed on verso Phyllis was a sophisticated outsider artist whose imagery -- lyrical, whimsical, nightmarish, puzzling, and penetrating -- reveals a life fulfilled by creativity. Daughter of eastern European Jewish immigrants, her work was shaped by the melting pot of NYC post-WWII, urban social realism and the mind-quest of the Beat Generation, as well as the vibrancy of modern art, contemporary literature and world music. Painfully shy, she was isolated by and struggled with the stigmas of disability from polio and paranoid schizophrenia, from which grew profound awareness of paradox. Despite her challenging reality, she was buoyed by an enormous intellect. She absorbed aesthetic influences in palette, brushwork and line from artists as diverse as Chagall, Arp, Leger, Hans Hofmann, Ben Shahn and illustrators Ronald Searle and Al Hirschfeld. Acutely aware of the enigma that was her mind, she teased the viewer with a personal iconography of letter and number shapes, phrases and visual puns. Faces (both human and creature) peer slyly from her canvases. Though her disorder prevented her from the social mingling necessary for notice in the art world, Phyllis worked with strictly professional materials (oils, acrylic, canvas, paper, watercolor, pencils and ink). Living her art, she found joy in life and left a legacy of art worth preserving. Her vibrant color owed to her Gulf-coast Floridian residency. Gifted with a wry sense of humor and a steely gentleness, she depicted compassion, sense of place, love of the wild, vulnerability, and freedom versus confinement in kaleidoscopic, stream-of-consciousness drawings and paintings.. She was an avid follower of the art world and was registered with NARSAD Artworks, an outlet of what is now the Brain and Behavior Research Foundation. {in house shipping available}

Despite her challenging reality, she was buoyed by an enormous intellect. She absorbed aesthetic influences in palette, brushwork and line from artists as diverse as Chagall, Arp, Leger, Hans Hofmann, Ben Shahn and illustrators Ronald Searle and Al Hirschfeld. Acutely aware of the enigma that was her mind, she teased the viewer with a personal iconography of letter and number shapes, phrases and visual puns. Faces (both human and creature) peer slyly from her canvases. Though her disorder prevented her from the social mingling necessary for notice in the art world, Phyllis worked with strictly professional materials (oils, acrylic, canvas, paper, watercolor, pencils and ink). Living her art, she found joy in life and left a legacy of art worth preserving. Her vibrant color owed to her Gulf-coast Floridian residency. Gifted with a wry sense of humor and a steely gentleness, she depicted compassion, sense of place, love of the wild, vulnerability, and freedom versus confinement in kaleidoscopic, stream-of-consciousness drawings and paintings.. She was an avid follower of the art world and was registered with NARSAD Artworks, an outlet of what is now the Brain and Behavior Research Foundation. {in house shipping available}

229	4 Victor Lavasseur 1852 French Map Engravings of Dept/ Counties of France with Full Illustrated Borders - Steel-engraved map of Department du Doubs, France, from the Atlas National Illustre, Region de L'est No. 24. Map sheet is smoothly glued onto cardboard, with glue marks on the margins which do not extend into the plate mark or map border area. The plate mark has a toned border. Map border measures 11 1/4" x 16 1/2". The two inset texts are Statistique and Celebrities of the region. Bright hand-colored outlines. The hand-colored illustration by A. M. Perrot surrounding the map is finely detailed, depicting all the attractions of the region....Dept de L'Ain REGION l'EST n 1, ...Dept. de L'Aude. Description English: This is a fascinating 1852 map of the French department of Aude, France. This area of France is famous for its wide variety of vineyards and wine production. In the east are the wines of Corbieres and la Clape, in the center are Minervois and Côtes de Malpeyre, and in the south, blanquette de Limoux. The whole is surrounded by elaborate decorative engravings designed to illustrate both the natural beauty and trade richness of the land. There is a short textual history of the regions depicted on both the left and right sides of the map. Published by V. Lavasseur in the 1852 edition of his Atlas National de la France Illustree. 294	Hall Didjeridu/Didgeridoo 1996 Hall Crystal Flutes, Inc. With Original Carry Case - 47 1/2" long made from Pyrex® glass. I which allows the didgeridoo to produce a tone while using less air. Softer materials actually absorb some of the sound produced. With glass, more of the sound is bounced off of the walls to make a brighter, more 'alive'. The Hall Didgeridoo weighs less than two pounds. The mouth piece is shaped directly out of the glass as an integral part of the didgeridoo. The traditional method is to use bee's wax shaped to form a lip plate on the didgeridoo that can become unstable in warm weather or during sustained playing periods. {in house shipping available}

296	Tenner Buescher Silver Plate Saxophone & Hard Case - True Tone low pitch T 28908 Saxophone with Selmer Goldentone mouthpiece, C. G. Conn. LTD pat 1921 mouthpiece, Used Condition some small dents {see photos} hard case "AS IS" The company was founded by Ferdinand August "Gus" Buescher (born Elk Township, Noble County, Ohio 26 April 1861; died Elkhart, Indiana 29 November 1937). He accompanied his family to Goshen, Indiana and then to Elkhart in 1875. In 1876 he found employment with C.G. Conn's fledgling band instrument factory. By 1888 he was promoted to foreman. After being shown an Adolph Sax model saxophone in possession of E.A. Lefebre in 1888 he produced Conn's first saxophone prototype. In 1890, while still employed with Conn, he began producing band emblems at home and was setting up his own shop. In the fall of 1893 he opened the Buescher Manufacturing Company at 1119 N. Main Street, which made band instruments and other metal products, in partnership with John L. Collins, a clothing merchant, and Harry L. Young, a salesman. In 1894 his company began production of saxophones, becoming Conn's main competitor over the following two decades. In March 1901 he patented a cornet unusual in that the valves were of unequal lengths. True Tone became the trademark name for band instruments made by the Buescher Manufacturing Company. { in house shipping available}

355	Dahlgren By Denix Civil War Cannon & Civil War Miniature Limber - Mostly employed in the period of the American Civil War, Dahlgren guns were muzzle loading naval artillery designed by, and named after, Rear Admiral John A. Dahlgren USN. Dahlgren's design philosophy evolved from an accidental explosion of a 32-pounder that actually killed a gunner. Dahlgren thought that a safer, more powerful naval cannon could be designed by simply applying more scientific design criteria. Dahlgren guns were designed with a smooth curved shape, equalizing strain and concentrating more of the weight of the metal in the gun breech to keep the gun from bursting. This miniature cannon reproduction of the famed 12 Pounder cannon. features include a wood carriage, 6" metal rimmed wheels, and a detachable ram and powder rod. Its 7.5" cast metal barrel. Limber 6" wheels with cast metal and wood box .8" wide at wheels. this set is truly a distinctive display piece for your home or office. total length 20" {in house shipping available}

563	Phyllis Trager Hyman (1936-2011) Acrylic On Canvas 2001 - Form The Estate Of Phyllis Trager Hyman signed on verso on stretched canvas 24" X 20", framed 28" X 24" Phyllis was a sophisticated outsider artist whose imagery -- lyrical, whimsical, nightmarish, puzzling, and penetrating -- reveals a life fulfilled by creativity. Daughter of eastern European Jewish immigrants, her work was shaped by the melting pot of NYC post-WWII, urban social realism and the mind-quest of the Beat Generation, as well as the vibrancy of modern art, contemporary literature and world music. Painfully shy, she was isolated by and struggled with the stigmas of disability from polio and paranoid schizophrenia, from which grew profound awareness of paradox. Despite her challenging reality, she was buoyed by an enormous intellect. She absorbed aesthetic influences in palette, brushwork and line from artists as diverse as Chagall, Arp, Leger, Hans Hofmann, Ben Shahn and illustrators Ronald Searle and Al Hirschfeld. Acutely aware of the enigma that was her mind, she teased the viewer with a personal iconography of letter and number shapes, phrases and visual puns. Faces (both human and creature) peer slyly from her canvases. Though her disorder prevented her from the social mingling necessary for notice in the art world, Phyllis worked with strictly professional materials (oils, acrylic, canvas, paper, watercolor, pencils and ink). Living her art, she found joy in life and left a legacy of art worth preserving. Her vibrant color owed to her Gulf-coast Floridian residency. Gifted with a wry sense of humor and a steely gentleness, she depicted compassion, sense of place, love of the wild, vulnerability, and freedom versus confinement in kaleidoscopic, stream-of-consciousness drawings and paintings.. She was an avid follower of the art world and was registered with NARSAD Artworks, an outlet of what is now the Brain and Behavior Research Foundation. {in house shipping available}
