96	Vintage Joan Slifka Black Onyx Heart Pendant / Pin - {shipping arranged by auction house or free local pick up} Joan Slifka is a renowned artist and jewelry designer known for creating limited edition, one-of-a-kind whimsical jewelry with a distinct "cowgirl" flair. These bold, highly collectible pieces have gained her a following all over the world. Originally from New York, Joan moved to Denver in the 1970s, where her passion for jewelry led her to take jewelry-making classes. In 1988, she officially founded Joan Slifka Designs in Albuquerque, New Mexico. The magic of her designs lies in the details, like the delicate stamping on the silver. Her motto has always been, "The bigger, the better!" and those who collect her jewelry agree! Joan's pieces incorporate semi-precious stones such as turquoise, spiny oyster, dolomite, denim lapis, and onyx.

Shona is the name of a multi-clan group of people who constitute the largest ethnic community in Zimbabwe, Africa. The modern movement has its roots in the early stone carvings of the Shona people, produced more for functional and decorative purposes, in the construction of dwellings. The best example of which is the Great Zimbabwe Settlement, an 11th -15th century city of sixty acres, housing up to 18,000 people, at its height. You Can View Many Of These Sculptures At Watford Museum, A local museum in Watford, Hertfordshire, in the United Kingdom. It is owned by Watford Borough Council and is located on the Lower High Street in Watford. The museum opened in 1981 and is housed in a Grade II-listed Georgian town house which was previously the premises of Benskins Brewery.

203	1963 U.S. Cold War Civil Defense CD V-777-1 Shelter Radiation Kit with Radiation Detectors & More - Shipping Arranged by Auction House or Free Local Pick Up - According to the 1962 and 1963 annual reports of the Office of Civil Defense (OCD), the CD V-777-1 set, first produced in 1962, was intended for use in public fallout shelters. recommended composition of the CD V-777-1 set is: one CD V-700 GM detector, one CD V-715 ion chamber, six CD V-742 pocket dosimeters and one CD V-750 charger-reader. The original makeup of the set as described in the 1963 annual report of the OCD was exactly the same except that it had two dosimeters, not six.The older boxes (with the word "kit" on them) were produced when the CD V-777-1 served its original role as the primary set employed in fallout shelters. The Defense Civil Preparedness Agency's Radiological Defense Preparedness pointed out that instrument sets issued after 1978 included six dosimeters. As found in estate, probably never used, see photos for details and conditions

366	Used 1976 Seiko Diver Watch (Ref. 6105-8110) "Captain Willard" - {shipping arranged by auction house or free local pick up} Working sold as is no warranty expressed or implied. ser # 620555 For Oct 1976. Condition; Crystal Is Scared, Case Has Overall Scratches And Small Dings. Never Been Buffed. With Stainless Steel Bracelet The Seiko 6105-8110 series replaced Seiko's original professional diver, the 62MAS, in 1968 and was produced until the year 1977. The 6105-8110 was the first Seiko diver to use an asymmetrical case and integrated crown guards which can still be seen in the modern Seiko Professional divers today which makes the 6105 an icon. If you have ever owned a vintage Seiko Diver then you will know that the build quality and finishing of the Seiko 6105-8110 is exceptional, and without a doubt definitely on par with dive watches of the same period, like the Omega Seamaster 300 and the Rolex Submariner. The Seiko 6105 measures 44mm and came on a rubber dive strap, although robust and solidly built, the watch when on the wrist doesn't wear bulky or oversized. The 6105 is powered by the Seiko caliber 6105B, a 17 jewel self-winding movement which is hackable but does not support hand winding, much like the variants that would follow it in the future. The dial of the 6105 is no-nonsense and simple. The largely applied indices that are filled with lume surrounded by a white and visible minute track which pairs perfectly with a handset that allows for an easy read of the time at a glance even in low light conditions adding to the tool like build and feel.

Zarei (1957-2014) crafts psycho-sensual magic-realist works recalling surrealism and the works of the Latin muralists. These personal cultural fables heave with imagery teeming with animals, Egyptian ankhs, human faces, vehicles of flight, religious prophets, ever-present eyes, and man-animals, twisting and turning about the visual plane, nether-worlds tumbling from the psyches of beings lost in the circuitry of the minds dreamscapes. L. Zarei is a self-taught artist, an accomplished musician, and boasts a Masters in Engineering. Of his work he intones, There are no coincidences or accidents, the balance of universe is kept by the purpose that each molecule has been assigned and serves. My paintings carry messages from beyond that are intertwined with feelings of chaos and un-explainable pleasures that I pour onto my canvases.

405	JJ Enwright Oil on Canvas Board Gloucester Harbor Scene - Shipping Arranged by Auction House or Free Local Pick Up - J.J. Enwright (Pseudonym for C Hjalmer "Cappy" Amundsen, American 1911-2001) - 8" x 10" canvas board in 12 1/2" x 14 1/2" period gilded carved frame with some minor wear, see photos for details and conditions Born Caspar Hjalmar Emerson III in New York City in 1911, and in 1946 legally changed his name to Hjalmar Amundsen in honor of his great-uncle, explorer Roald Amundsen, who located the center of the South Pole the year his great-nephew was born. Casper Hjalmar Amundsen III, who was also known as "Cappy," used several aliases, one of which was F.H. McKay. His other pseudonyms included, J. J. Enwright, W. Hughes, Wm Ward, Jr., Sven Sagg, J.C. Bennett, J. C Bonac, John Dune, and others. Cappy's father, Casper Emerson, Jr. (1878-1948) was a renowned artist, famously known for creating "The Emerson Girl" for the Broadway Magazine in the New York Herald-Tribune. Born in 1911, Cappy learned much of his basic drawing and painting skills in his father's studio. After graduating from Blair Academy, Cappy attended the Grand Central School of Art studying illustration and painting. In 1932, he founded the Washington Square Outdoor Art Show, along with Jackson Pollock, William de Kooning, Beaufort & Joseph Delaney and others. As an adult, the young artist moved back to New York and spent time painting in and around Gloucester and Provincetown, Massachusetts. In his early career, he is believed to have created up to 275 paintings a year over a period of six years under the name of Enwright. Living in Greenwich Village, he was one of the founders of the Washington Square Art Show in New York, where he sold many of his works, and he painted covers for Motor Boating Magazine, which brought in $100 each. In 1946 he moved to Sag Harbor, Long Island, New York, with his second wife Nancy. Amundsen opened a studio and lived in the same building, becoming a well-liked figure in the community. He painted waterfront images, sailing ships, fishing boats, and the New England coastline. He died in Brookhaven Memorial Hospital on January 18, 2001. (Bbio from vareikafinearts.com)

Williams (Proctor) 2 Paintings On Plywood - 1 -Title "The Tired Of Being The Good Guy" June 6th 2001, 36" X 18" And 1 - Title "Shout; Shout; To The Lord" Nov 6th 2004 Inscription On And Signed On Verso. AKA Ruby Mary Williams Proctor. Williams' career as an artist began when a passer-by noticed her brightly painted signs advertising her fruits and vegetables. Williams uses unmixed acrylic paint directly on surfaces like wood, sometimes spreading the paint with brushes. Her artwork was described as "buoyant, immediate, whimsical, charming, humorous, vivid, unpretentious, audacious, sly and joyous" by the Lakeland Ledger. Philosophical or whimsical sayings and a colorful variety of characters often appear in her paintings. Her works frequently depict animals, fruits, and people, often accompanied by imaginative phrases like, "Piano playing cow I give better buttermilk" and "I am slow but I will win". One of her popular motifs is a cow with piano keys on its back. Her work is sometimes characterized as naïve or outsider art. Recognition and impact Williams' artwork is collected and exhibited in museums throughout the United States, including the American Visionary Art Museum. Her work has been featured in books and exhibitions around the nation, including the Smithsonian Institution. She received the Florida Folk Heritage Award in 2005. She was also honored with the Folk Art Society of America's Award of Distinction in 2009.

Zarei (1957-2014) crafts psycho-sensual magic-realist works recalling surrealism and the works of the Latin muralists. These personal cultural fables heave with imagery teeming with animals, Egyptian ankhs, human faces, vehicles of flight, religious prophets, ever-present eyes, and man-animals, twisting and turning about the visual plane, nether-worlds tumbling from the psyches of beings lost in the circuitry of the minds dreamscapes. L. Zarei is a self-taught artist, an accomplished musician, and boasts a Masters in Engineering. Of his work he intones, There are no coincidences or accidents, the balance of universe is kept by the purpose that each molecule has been assigned and serves. My paintings carry messages from beyond that are intertwined with feelings of chaos and un-explainable pleasures that I pour onto my canvases.
