1	MCM Googie Rocket Comet Sculpture by California Artist Richard Ralph Roehl (1946-2021) - Click for Shipping Quote or Free Local Pick Up - Weight: 22 lb 4 oz, Size: 31" x 21" x 14" Own a Piece of American Art Rebellion: Standing a commanding 31 inches tall, this exceptional 1979–1980 kinetic assemblage sculpture captures radical counter-culture artist Richard Ralph Roehl at the definitive turning point of his career. Meticulously handcrafted right as he joined the legendary 1980 Venice, California art scene, this space-age comet fuses masterful industrial metal-plating, dense electrical wiring, and fine woodworking—the exact caliber of visionary craftsmanship that earned Roehl a prestigious National Endowment for the Arts (NEA) Fellowship just months later in 1981. With Roehl's defiant legacy permanently preserved in the Smithsonian Archives of American Art, this rare, signed museum-grade piece is not merely a stunning retro-futuristic focal point; it is a museum-quality investment and a laughing challenge to the traditional art establishment. BIO: Richard Ralph Roehl (1946–2021) was an anti-establishment sculptor and walking piece of performance art. Born in Milwaukee, he earned an MFA from UC Boulder in 1974 after studying Italian. He briefly taught art in Texas, mastering everything from woodwork to metal plating, before the rigid university system clashed with his eccentric spirit. In 1980, Roehl dove into the rebellious Venice, California art scene alongside Ed Moses and Bill Czappa, winning an NEA Fellowship in 1981. He fiercely despised the pretension and greed of the commercial art world. To mock it, he crashed gallery openings in heavy theatrical makeup under pseudonyms like "Vincent Van Go," ran a fake corporation called R.R.R. Enterprises, and stamped his pieces with a custom surfboard logo. He spent weeks crafting intricate kinetic sculptures out of clockwork and fine wood, only to paint absurd punchlines on them like "Dinner Is Served: 3 Million Dollars." It was a direct, laughing challenge to elite collectors: is art valuable because of the craft, or because of the price tag? He spent his final 23 years working quietly in Dunedin, Florida. Today, his lifetime mission to make the art world nervous is permanently preserved in the Smithsonian Archives of American Art.
2	Signed Amanda Brisbane (1964–2016) Sand Cast Art Glass Fish Sculpture - Click for Shipping Quote or Free Local Pick Up - Weight: 19 lbs 10 oz. Size: 21 1/2" W X 16" T X 13" D - Amanda was a visionary British studio glass artist who revolutionized the medium through her mastery of the dynamic sand casting technique. After honing her craft across prestigious institutions in London and the United States, she established her studio in Shropshire, where she pioneered a method of pouring molten glass directly into sculpted sand molds to lock raw motion into solid form. Her internationally acclaimed sculptures—deeply inspired by the fluid rhythms of marine life, coral reefs, and moving water—are defined by a striking contrast between smooth, fire-polished interiors and coarse, tactile exteriors. Brisbane's innovative use of raw oxide color mixing and her contribution to large-scale public installations earned her global recognition, cementing her legacy as a transformative force in contemporary glass art whose unrepeatable, organic vessels remain highly coveted by collectors worldwide.

As Found 1824 James Monroe Signed US Land Patent - Joshua Morris - Brookville, Indiana -
Click for Shipping Quote or Free Local Pick Up - Weight: Size: See Photos. Condition: The General Land Office Seal Is Missing, This Original, historically significant United States Land Patent dated June 1, 1824. This document marks a piece of early American history during the "Era of Good Feelings," issued during the presidency of James Monroe, the fifth President of the United States. READS; "THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA. To all to whom these Presents shall come, Greeting. Whereas Joshua Morris of Pasquotank County State of North Carolina has deposited in the General Land Office of the United States a certificate of the Register of the Land Office at Brookville State of Indiana whereby it appears that full payment has been made by the said Joshua Morris according to the provisions of the Act of Congress of the 24th of April 1820 entitled "An act making further provision for the sale of the Public Lands" for the South East Quarter of Section Thirty-four in Township Sixteen of range Ten, in the District of Brookville and State of Indiana, containing One hundred and Sixty acres according to the official plat of the survey of the said Lands returned to the General Land Office by the Surveyor General which said tract has been purchased by the said Joshua Morris. Now Know Ye, that the UNITED STATES OF AMERICA in consideration of the Premises and in conformity with the several acts of Congress, in such case made and provided, have GIVEN AND GRANTED and by these presents do give and grant unto the said Joshua Morris and to his heirs the said tract above described. To have and to Hold the same together with all the rights, privileges, immunities and appurtenances of whatsoever nature thereunto belonging unto the said Joshua Morris and to his heirs and assigns forever. In Testimony whereof, I, James Monroe PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, have caused these Letters to be made PATENT and the Seal of the General Land Office to be hereunto affixed. (Seal Is Missing) Given under my hand at the City of Washington the first day of June in the year of our Lord One thousand eight hundred and Twenty four and of the Independence of the United States the forty eighth. By the President, James Monroe Geo. Graham Commissioner of the General Land Office." HISTORY; The life of Joshua Morris (1773–1824) was defined by his family's deep Quaker roots in North Carolina and his eventual ambition to settle in the newly opened American West. Born into the established Morris family of Pasquotank County, he was a member of the Symons Creek Monthly Meeting and married Margaret Henley in 1794. His family lineage traces back to early 17th-century settlers who were among the first Quakers converted by George Fox in the Carolinas. This land patent, issued on June 1, 1824, under the authority of President James Monroe, represents Joshua's acquisition of 160 acres in Brookville, Indiana—a move reflective of a broader migration pattern where settlers from the Eastern Seaboard purchased public land to build new lives in the Northwest Territory. Although Joshua passed away the same year the patent was finalized, his legacy continued through his descendants who helped settle areas like Henry County, Indiana.

15	Large 36 Pound Natural Colombian Emerald Stone Carving Of A Pair Of Lizard Iguanas. - Click for Shipping Quote or Free Local Pick Up - Weight: 36 lbs 8 oz Size: 11 1/2" T X 14" W X 9 1/2" D. Natural Colombian emerald carvings of iguanas are exceptionally rare and prestigious works of lapidary art, often showcasing the rich, vivid "Muzo green" color synonymous with the world's most famous emerald mines. Because emeralds are naturally brittle and prone to internal fractures (known as the jardin), carving a complex, detailed figure like an iguana—with its delicate spines and scales—requires a master craftsman to carefully navigate the stone's structural weaknesses. These pieces are typically carved from "trapiche" emerald or high-carat matrix rock, where the green emerald is still embedded within its host stone, providing the necessary stability for such an intricate design. Due to the inherent value of the raw gemstone material and the extreme level of skill required to prevent shattering during the carving process, these sculptures are highly sought after by high-end mineral collectors and can command prices ranging from several thousand to tens of thousands of dollars depending on the stone's clarity and saturation.

Designed for Nikon F-mount systems, this rectilinear lens features a robust, often all-metal construction with 12 multi-coated elements and a large $\backslash(77\text{mm}\backslash)$ filter thread. While early versions were manual focus, later autofocus variants like the AF-D mount version are compatible with Nikon DSLRs featuring a built-in focus motor. It features a fast f/2.8 maximum aperture, making it a capable choice for low-light landscapes, architecture, and astrophotography, though it relies on the camera body's motor for autofocus, meaning it will only autofocus on mid-to-high-end Nikon DSLRs like the D7500, D750, or D850. Built with two hybrid aspherical elements and internal focusing, the lens offers excellent center sharpness even wide open, while corner softness and vignetting can be reduced by stopping down to f/5.6 or f/8.

80	Rare Pilgrim Glass Artist Signed Mario Sandon Hand Blown Fish - Click for Shipping Quote or Free Local Pick Up - Weight: 9 lb 3 oz, Size: 20" long - Mario Sandon (1924-2011) was an Italian glass artist known for his exquisite and playful glass clown figurines. Born in Venice, Italy, Sandon began working with glass at the age of 14, following in the footsteps of his father who was also a glassworker. Sandon's early career was spent working for various glass factories in the famous Venetian island of Murano, where he honed his skills and developed his unique style. In the 1950s, he began designing and creating his own glass artworks, including his iconic clown figurines. In addition to his clown figurines, Sandon also created other glass objects, such as vases and bowls, but it is his clowns that have become his most recognizable and beloved works. Each of his clowns was unique, and Sandon would often spend weeks or even months perfecting the details and colors of each piece. Sandon's work was exhibited in galleries and museums around the world, including the Museum of Decorative Arts in Paris and the Corning Museum of Glass in New York. He also received numerous awards for his contributions to the art of glassworking. In the 1950s Knobler hired two Italian glassblower brothers, Alessandro and Roberto Moretti, the latter of whom had apprenticed at Murano glass factories and had executed sculptures designed by Marc Chagall and Pablo Picasso before he came to Pilgrim. The Moretti brothers brought to Pilgrim a wide repertoire of techniques, foremost among them the ability to create solid-glass figurines. In 1963, the brothers' brother-in-law, Mario Sandon, joined the firm; all three Italians worked at Pilgrim until the mid-1980s.

Size: See Photos, Bronze #1 - Bronze post-war expressionist sculpture by Chicago sculptor Abbott Pattison, structured around a central, soaring biomorphic form resembling a stylized leaf or a flickering column of flame. At the base, Pattison's signature handling of the human form is fully realized. The figures are not rendered with anatomical precision; instead, they are modeled and heavily abstracted to emphasize universal human relationships and raw emotion. The deliberate isolation of a single figure at the edge of the polished green marble base introduces a poignant narrative of spatial tension, alienation, and community. #2 bronze finish Art Deco figural desk paperweight, sculpted by an artist signed "Mitchell" in 1926, captures the streamlined elegance of the "Roaring Twenties". 4 ¾" H x 6" W x 4" D of a kneeling young woman reading a book, a motif showcasing the iconic sharp bobbed hairstyle and drop-waist dress of mid-1920s fashion. copper-clad electroforming process, a technique popular among desktop decor companies of the era where a pure copper shell was electrically grown over a dense plaster or white metal core and chemically treated to achieve its rich, dark patina.

Struck at the Philadelphia Mint (identifiable by having no mint mark), it is composed of 90% gold and measures just 15mm in diameter—smaller than a modern dime. On the front, it depicts Liberty wearing a feathered headdress, while the reverse shows the date and denomination encircled by a wreath of agricultural staples. Because gold was hoarded or exported during the economic uncertainty of the Civil War, these coins are physical artifacts from the very year the conflict began, making them popular with history buffs as much as coin collectors.

237	Richard Roehl "Portrait of Mohammad-Man" - Click for Shipping Quote or Free Local Pick Up - Weight: Approx 37 lb, Size: 52" tall (48" board) x 24" x 12 1/2" This striking 2006 mixed-media assemblage by legendary Venice-scene prankster Richard Ralph Roehl (1946–2021) seamlessly fuses classical academic tradition with aggressive anti-establishment irony. The visual elements breakdown centers on a mosaic-patterned horned cow skull shooting a lightning bolt over a modified red "DEAD END" street sign, accented by a fixed-blade steak knife, a toy pig stamped "US," and sculpted flames. Roehl utilizes his formal background in Italian and fine arts to directly mock high-brow culture, stamping the bottom frame with the solemn Latin phrase Ecce Signum ("Behold the sign") to demand classical reverence for a chaotic collage of junk. By slicing a kitchen steak knife straight through a sculpted head of Jesus against a street sign, titling the piece on its verso as "Portrait of mohammad- man," and scrawling a defiant hand-written warning that it is "worth at least $5,000,000.00," Roehl delivers a laughing, cynical punchline to elite collectors—intentionally cross-contaminating religious iconography to question whether art derives value from sacred cultural reverence or merely an arbitrary, commercial price tag. BIO: Richard Ralph Roehl (1946–2021) was an anti-establishment sculptor and walking piece of performance art. Born in Milwaukee, he earned an MFA from UC Boulder in 1974 after studying Italian. He briefly taught art in Texas, mastering everything from woodwork to metal plating, before the rigid university system clashed with his eccentric spirit. In 1980, Roehl dove into the rebellious Venice, California art scene alongside Ed Moses and Bill Czappa, winning an NEA Fellowship in 1981. He fiercely despised the pretension and greed of the commercial art world. To mock it, he crashed gallery openings in heavy theatrical makeup under pseudonyms like "Vincent Van Go," ran a fake corporation called R.R.R. Enterprises, and stamped his pieces with a custom surfboard logo. He spent weeks crafting intricate kinetic sculptures out of clockwork and fine wood, only to paint absurd punchlines on them like "Dinner Is Served: 3 Million Dollars." It was a direct, laughing challenge to elite collectors: is art valuable because of the craft, or because of the price tag? He spent his final 23 years working quietly in Dunedin, Florida. Today, his lifetime mission to make the art world nervous is permanently preserved in the Smithsonian Archives of American Art.

249	Used Sigma DG 50-500mm 1:4.5 - 6.3 APO HSM Lens For Sony A Mount & Case - Click for Shipping Quote or Free Local Pick Up - Weight:5 lbs 5 oz. Size: 1 - Sold as is no warranty expressed or implied, Sigma 50-500mm for Sony A-mount features a variable maximum aperture that shifts from f/4.5 at 50mm to f/6.3 at 500mm, requiring decent lighting for the best results at the long end. On Sony bodies, the aperture typically transitions to f/5.0 around 55mm and f/5.6 near 113mm, eventually hitting its narrowest wide-open setting of f/6.3 once you cross the 244mm mark. While the lens can close down to f/22 or f/32 for deep depth of field, most Sony shooters find the "sweet spot" for sharpness at f/8, particularly when trying to capture crisp wildlife or sports shots at the full 500mm extension. Because this lens was designed for the older Sony A-mount DSLR system, using it on modern mirrorless cameras (like the A7 or A6000 series) requires a dedicated Sony LA-EA adapter to maintain aperture control and autofocus. Her family relocated to New York City when Wilna was still a child. Aspiring to be an artist from early on, Wilna Hervey's professional training began at age twelve with miniaturist painter, Alexandrina Robertson Harris. She also studied under Professor John B. Whittaker at Adelphi College in Brooklyn, and finally Winold Reiss, at his studio in Greenwich Village. It was Reiss who urged Wilna to attend the summer painting classes offered by the Art Students League in Woodstock, New York in 1918. After a brief and mercurial stint as a silent movie comedy star in the early 1920s, Wilna returned to Woodstock in 1924. Accompanied by fellow artist and life companion, Nan Mason, Wilna built herself a house and studio in Bearsville just west of the village of Woodstock. Aside from several winters she and Nan Mason spent in Carmel-by-the-Sea in California in the late twenties and early thirties, and a late life winter residence on Anna Maria Island in Florida, Wilna Hervey would make Woodstock her home base until her death. Shortly after the Second World War, Wilna abandoned portraiture to work for the rest of her career in a new style. In the late 1950s, Wilna began studying techniques of enameling through courses offered by the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen. Over a period of several years, she worked to perfect a variety of enameling approaches and found that her subject matter and naïve style translated well to this medium. She would work at creating these self-described "enamel paintings" for the rest of her life. In 1966, at age seventy-two, Wilna Hervey had her first one-woman show of enamel works at the Rudolph Galleries in Woodstock. The following year her enamel work won her the Woodstock Artists Association's Konrad Cramer Memorial Award. Despite failing health, Wilna continued to create enamel paintings until 1978 when failing eyesight made it impossible to continue. Her enamel genre paintings are the work for which she is best known today. Examples of Wilna Hervey's artwork can be found in the collections of the Historical Society of Woodstock; the Woodstock Artists Association and Museum; and the James Cox Galleries in Willow, New York.

Standing at an impressive, near-monumental height of almost 36 inches, these chrome-plated metal masterpieces offer a brilliant, biting critique of the American cultural canon. Pristine Finish, Provocative Concept Unlike typical found-object artists who leave materials raw and rusted, Roehl was obsessed with premium, luxury finishes. This rare pair features a flawless, mirror-like chrome plating. It transforms the sculptures into pristine, industrial fetishes that simultaneously attract and mock the viewer, looking less like scraps and more like high-end, mass-produced consumer goods. Geometric Humor Meets Art History In this specific work, Roehl brilliantly dismantles Grant Wood's iconic painting American Gothic. He reduces the legendary artwork down to a cartoonish pair of flat metallic feet that sprout "his and hers" pitchforks. It perfectly captures his signature ability to blend slick, geometric humor with deep cultural satire. Investment Highlights: Elite Craftsmanship: Mirror-finish chrome plating executed to flawless, premium standards. Museum-Scale Presence: An impactful presence at nearly 3 feet tall. Critically Acclaimed: Recognized as one of Roehl's most important and celebrated works from this definitive era. BIO: Richard Ralph Roehl (1946–2021) was an anti-establishment sculptor and walking piece of performance art. Born in Milwaukee, he earned an MFA from UC Boulder in 1974 after studying Italian. He briefly taught art in Texas, mastering everything from woodwork to metal plating, before the rigid university system clashed with his eccentric spirit. In 1980, Roehl dove into the rebellious Venice, California art scene alongside Ed Moses and Bill Czappa, winning an NEA Fellowship in 1981. He fiercely despised the pretension and greed of the commercial art world. To mock it, he crashed gallery openings in heavy theatrical makeup under pseudonyms like "Vincent Van Go," ran a fake corporation called R.R.R. Enterprises, and stamped his pieces with a custom surfboard logo. He spent weeks crafting intricate kinetic sculptures out of clockwork and fine wood, only to paint absurd punchlines on them like "Dinner Is Served: 3 Million Dollars." It was a direct, laughing challenge to elite collectors: is art valuable because of the craft, or because of the price tag? He spent his final 23 years working quietly in Dunedin, Florida. Today, his lifetime mission to make the art world nervous is permanently preserved in the Smithsonian Archives of American Art.

454	Gadoon AKA Susannah Wendy Huckel D 2009 - Click for Shipping Quote or Free Local Pick Up - Weight: Size: This 1980 painting by the artist Gadoon (Susannah "Wendy" Huckel) is a witty, postmodern reimagining of Leonardo da Vinci's Lady with an Ermine. By replacing the graceful Renaissance ermine with a wide-eyed raccoon, Gadoon transforms a serious 15th-century symbol of purity and noble lineage into a scene of modern, suburban whimsy. The artist maintains the classical composition—the delicate "S-curve" of the subject's body and the characteristic tilt of her head—but softens the intensity of the original with a warmer, more illustrative style. This piece perfectly captures Gadoon's signature blend of technical mastery and her deep, playful affection for animals, turning a piece of art history into a charming conversation starter.

495	Nikon D5200 Camera & Nikon AF-S Nikkor 55-300mm DX Lens, 1 Battery & Charger + Nikon Nylon Bag - Click for Shipping Quote or Free Local Pick Up - Weight: Size: Working sold as is no warranty expressed or implied. Including; 1 - Nikon Gear Bag, 1 - Battery And Charger, 1 - Pairing of a Nikon D5200 camera with the AF-S DX Nikkor 55-300mm f/4.5-5.6G ED VR lens creates a powerful, high-resolution telephoto system that is ideal for beginners interested in wildlife, sports, and nature photography. The D5200's 24.1-megapixel sensor provides exceptional detail that allows for significant cropping, effectively giving you more "reach" when combined with the 5.5x zoom of the lens. Because the D5200 lacks an internal autofocus motor, this specific "AF-S" lens is a perfect match as it includes its own Silent Wave Motor (SWM) for quiet, automatic focusing. Furthermore, the lens features VR II (Vibration Reduction), which is crucial for this handheld setup as it compensates for camera shake by approximately four shutter speed steps, helping you capture sharp images even at the full 300mm extension.

Executed with flawless MFA-trained technical precision, the piece features a meticulously machined, hand-cut aluminum New York skyline juxtaposed against a glittering starfield where model planes strike the burning Twin Towers. Subtly embedded across the base of the buildings is the word "REICHSTAG," a chilling, audacious historical parallel typical of Roehl's mission to make the establishment profoundly nervous. By anchoring the chaos under a bold, red "WARHOL" title—substituting the "W" with a fabricated New York Yankees logo—Roehl delivers a savage, brilliantly satirical strike against corporate branding, pop art consumerism, and the elite gallery scene. Authenticated on the verso with his signature "RRR Enterprises" Florida address stamp, this un-sanitized, highly provocative masterwork is the ultimate acquisition for a serious collector seeking raw historical counter-culture, impeccable industrial craftsmanship, and an undeniable conversation piece. BIO: Richard Ralph Roehl (1946–2021) was an anti-establishment sculptor and walking piece of performance art. Born in Milwaukee, he earned an MFA from UC Boulder in 1974 after studying Italian. He briefly taught art in Texas, mastering everything from woodwork to metal plating, before the rigid university system clashed with his eccentric spirit. In 1980, Roehl dove into the rebellious Venice, California art scene alongside Ed Moses and Bill Czappa, winning an NEA Fellowship in 1981. He fiercely despised the pretension and greed of the commercial art world. To mock it, he crashed gallery openings in heavy theatrical makeup under pseudonyms like "Vincent Van Go," ran a fake corporation called R.R.R. Enterprises, and stamped his pieces with a custom surfboard logo. He spent weeks crafting intricate kinetic sculptures out of clockwork and fine wood, only to paint absurd punchlines on them like "Dinner Is Served: 3 Million Dollars." It was a direct, laughing challenge to elite collectors: is art valuable because of the craft, or because of the price tag? He spent his final 23 years working quietly in Dunedin, Florida. Today, his lifetime mission to make the art world nervous is permanently preserved in the Smithsonian Archives of American Art.

Titled Martha’s Vineyard Earth 2098, this heavily textured 2012 mixed-media painting beautifully pairs intricate, folk-art-inspired craftsmanship with Roehl’s signature biting satire—anchored by a dystopian seaside landscape and a 3D cartoon figurine perched over a stark "DEAD" sign. The ultimate genius of the piece lies hidden on its verso: signed with his coveted "RRR" insignia and a 2012 exhibition tag boldly declaring it "worth at least $1,000,000.00," a classic, laughing challenge to elite collectors that embodies his lifelong mission as a walking piece of performance art. Own a definitive piece of American art history that doesn't just hang on a wall, but aggressively makes the art world nervous. BIO: Richard Ralph Roehl (1946–2021) was an anti-establishment sculptor and walking piece of performance art. Created between 1987 and 1988 as part of his highly collectible Series 'X', this vibrant multi-media assemblage perfectly encapsulates Roehl’s signature subversive wit and his deep fascination with cross-border culture developed during his time in the American Southwest. Complete with the artist's iconic surfboard logo signature on the front and an archival postcard of the exact marketplace affixed by Roehl's own hand to the verso, this rare, heavily textured piece offers a brilliant, tactile capsule of late-20th-century American avant-garde art that will instantly anchor any serious modern collection. BIO: Richard Ralph Roehl (1946–2021) was an anti-establishment sculptor and walking piece of performance art. 603	Richard Ralph Roehl (1946–2021) Early Hand-Signed Kinetic "MOCK LAMP" Pop Art Sculpture, 27" - Click for Shipping Quote or Free Local Pick Up - Weight: 25 lb 14 oz, Size: 26" x 23" x 16" Up for auction is a rare, early-period kinetic assemblage sculpture by the rebellious American pop-art sculptor Richard Ralph Roehl (1946–2021), whose provocative, anti-establishment legacy is permanently preserved in the Smithsonian Archives of American Art. Standing a commanding 27 inches tall, this vibrant, masterfully crafted piece perfectly bridges fine studio craftsmanship with the avant-garde spirit of the early 1980s Venice, California art scene. It features an incredibly complex lamination of rich, natural wood grains meticulously balanced against a glossy, multi-colored pop aesthetic, all set atop a dynamic, flexible heavy-duty chrome spring neck and a whimsical "paint splatter" base. Highly significant for collectors and art historians, this sculpture predates the artist's later mock-corporate "R.R.R. Enterprises" persona and instead features a rare, traditional handwritten signature directly on the wood grain—making it an exceptional, pristine, and foundational artifact from a National Endowment for the Arts Fellowship winner's early artistic evolution. BIO: Richard Ralph Roehl (1946–2021) was an anti-establishment sculptor and walking piece of performance art. Born in Milwaukee, he earned an MFA from UC Boulder in 1974 after studying Italian. He briefly taught art in Texas, mastering everything from woodwork to metal plating, before the rigid university system clashed with his eccentric spirit. In 1980, Roehl dove into the rebellious Venice, California art scene alongside Ed Moses and Bill Czappa, winning an NEA Fellowship in 1981. He fiercely despised the pretension and greed of the commercial art world. To mock it, he crashed gallery openings in heavy theatrical makeup under pseudonyms like "Vincent Van Go," ran a fake corporation called R.R.R. Enterprises, and stamped his pieces with a custom surfboard logo. He spent weeks crafting intricate kinetic sculptures out of clockwork and fine wood, only to paint absurd punchlines on them like "Dinner Is Served: 3 Million Dollars." It was a direct, laughing challenge to elite collectors: is art valuable because of the craft, or because of the price tag? He spent his final 23 years working quietly in Dunedin, Florida. Today, his lifetime mission to make the art world nervous is permanently preserved in the Smithsonian Archives of American Art.

Click for Shipping Quote or Free Local Pick Up - Weight: 13lbs 5 oz Size: See Photos. Including; 1 - Varigraph Headwriter mechanical lettering instrument. Popular from the 1950s through the 1970s, this specialized drafting and graphic design device was used to create precise headlines, title blocks, and text layouts long before the era of digital typography. 1 - Direct Fuel Injection Pump Synchronizing Gage (Part No. 50C9410, NSN 5220-00-213-9312), a precision military maintenance kit manufactured under contract for the U.S. Department of the Air Force and featuring a high-grade dial indicator made by the legendary B.C. Ames Co. of Waltham, Massachusetts. Packaged in its original fitted wooden chest alongside a heavy cast-iron matching alignment jig, the kit centers around this high-precision Ames indicator with a specialized "10-0-10" balanced face and "TIMES 10" graduation layout designed to track microscopic, ten-thousandths of an inch travel. Engineered specifically for military aviation crews, the setup clamps securely onto a mechanical fuel injection pump so a technician can read instantaneous deflection to the right (+) or left (-) from zero, allowing them to perfectly time and synchronize fuel delivery across the engine's cylinders without manual calculation. 1 - Etalon Micorapid Model 23C Outside Micrometer, high-end Swiss precision hardware imported to the United States under the Alina brand name. Among master toolmakers and machinist communities, the "Micorapid" distinction represents a revolutionary engineering change over standard manual micrometers: it utilizes a rapid-advance, high-pitch spindle thread mechanism that allows the anvil to retract or close much faster per turn of the thimble without sacrificing a single bit of its 0.0001-inch accuracy. Housed inside its matching fitted wood case, this 0-to-1 inch instrument is further distinguished by its coarse black textured thermal insulation grip on the barrel and an integrated dial-like vernier system on the sleeve, allowing quality control inspectors to easily isolate tiny fractions of a thousandth of an inch while protecting the tool from accuracy-warping hand heat. 1 - vintage mechanical outside micrometer made by the Swedish Gage Co. in Eskilstuna, Sweden. It is a high-precision machinist measuring tool designed to measure the thickness or outside diameters of small components. With original case, 2 - Eugene Dietzgen Company, established in Chicago in 1885, was a premier manufacturer of high-quality mathematical, engineering, and drafting instruments widely relied upon by professionals throughout the 20th century. While headquartered in the United States, Dietzgen frequently contracted master metalworkers in Germany to craft the precise brass, steel, and German silver components found in sets like yours, which were then distributed across major hubs in New York, San Francisco, and New Orleans. 1 - Tacro 3633 is a vintage professional-grade technical drafting set manufactured in West Germany during the mid-to-late 20th century. Renowned for its precision engineering, the set features heavy-duty, nickel-plated brass instruments, including a classic center-wheel bow compass designed to prevent arm slippage while drawing precise geometric arcs. The velvet-lined flip case houses the main compass along with specialized interchangeable heads, such as an ink ruling pen attachment and a spare lead canister, allowing architects and engineers to seamlessly switch between pencil and ink layouts. 1 - Outside Micrometer manufactured by the Swedish Gage Co. of Eskilstuna, Sweden, and distributed via its United States subsidiary, the Swedish Gage Co. of America, which was based in Detroit, Michigan, to supply the booming early-to-mid 20th-century automotive and manufacturing industries. Tailored specifically for the American market, the heavy steel frame features deeply engraved fraction-to-decimal imperial conversion tables rather than metric units. The company's legendary founder, Carl Edvard Johansson, pioneered the world standard for precision gauge blocks, a breakthrough so critical to mass production that Henry Ford ultimately purchased the American branch of the company in 1923 to integrate its high-

	tolerance measurement standards directly into U.S. factory assembly lines. 1 - Keuffel & Esser "Favorite" Slide Rule, a legendary piece of analog tech that essentially served as the "smartphone" for engineers, scientists, and astronauts before electronic calculators changed the world. Keuffel & Esser (K&E) was America's premier drafting and precision tool company, and owning one of these elegant, ivory-faced wooden rulers was a major status symbol on mid-20th-century college campuses and in design bureaus. To use it, you didn't plug it in or tap a screen; instead, you mechanically aligned the sliding center scale and the metal-framed glass runner to perform lightning-fast multiplications, divisions, and complex trigonometry purely through the magic of logarithms. In fact, it was very similar K&E slide rules that engineers used to manually calculate the trajectory calculations for NASA's Apollo moon landing missions! 2 - two vintage outside micrometers manufactured by The L.S. Starrett Company, renowned for producing high-precision industrial tooling. The smaller instrument on the left features a satin steel finish engraved with a decimal equivalents chart for quick workshop conversions, while the larger model on the right sports a deep-throated, black-enameled frame designed to measure thicker or recessed materials. Both tools utilize a classic mechanical design—comprising a threaded spindle, graduated sleeve, and knurled thimble—engineered to measure dimensions with exceptional precision down to thousandths of an inch. And a group of miscellaneous tools see photos.

676	Important 19th-Century Exhibition-Scale Point de Venise Needle Lace Panel: After Peter Paul Rubens - Click for Shipping Quote or Free Local Pick Up - Weight: Size: 1- 18 3/4" X 24 1/4" Framed, Flawless Antique Venetian Needle Lace Masterpiece — "D'Après P.P. Rubens" Putti Allegory (19" x 14.5") Executed in the complex, highly sculptural style of Point de Venise needlework, this 19th-century panel represents the historical pinnacle of openwork precision. It stands as an exceptional heirloom for institutions, connoisseurs of rare lace, and collectors of fine Baroque-revival decorative arts. A Baroque Masterpiece Reimagined: The center of the panel features a breathtaking, intricately rendered composition reading "D'APRES P. P. RUBENS" (After Peter Paul Rubens). The relief panel beautifully translates the kinetic energy, robust forms, and dramatic contrast of the Flemish master's work directly into fine fibers. The Central Allegory: A lively, beautifully balanced gathering of seven classical putti / cherubs playing amidst dense foliate elements. The composition echoes Rubens' celebrated bacchanalian and harvest allegories. The Symmetrical Border: A continuous framework of swirling acanthus leaves, architectural scrolls, and decorative openwork mesh. The Grotesque Mask: The top center features a beautifully incorporated classical female face mask, anchoring the frame's historical Baroque aesthetic. Exceptional Provenance & Preservation. Scale: Measuring 19" x 14.5", this panel bypasses standard domestic lace variants. It was produced specifically as a luxury salon exhibition piece, a major portfolio feature, or a grand dessus-de-porte accent. Condition: Preserved in very good condition. The structure remains exceptionally stable and clean with no tears or focal moisture stains. Aesthetic Patina: Features a very slight, completely uniform warming/toning. This light cream shift imparts a highly desirable, authentic antique character that honors its 19th-century origins. Display Ready: Housed in a custom frame that showcases the delicate, airy margins of the outer openwork pattern.
