

To Whom it Concerns

Dear,

I am writing to express my full support for FenBlock™, an innovative solution that offers hope and empowerment to individuals struggling with dependency on prescribed Fentanyl patches. This revolutionary product, designed to enable safe and self-managed tapering, represents a significant stride toward combating the devastating impact of opioid addiction. The mission and objectives of iEXIST, LLC are perfectly aligned with the groundbreaking work of FenBlock™. Stopping addiction before it starts is a cause that I am extremely passionate about. It is disheartening to learn that Fentanyl patch dependency typically forms within a mere two weeks from the onset of prescribed use. The devastating consequences of this dependency are not only physical but also profoundly affect the mental and emotional well-being of the individuals involved. The permanent damage inflicted on the human brain by Fentanyl, as documented by esteemed institutions like the National Institute on Health, the National Institute on Drug Abuse, The Journal of American Medicine, and The Center for Disease Control CDC, underscores the urgency of finding practical solutions.

FenBlock™ is more than just a product; it is a beacon of hope for those ensnared by the clutches of Fentanyl dependency. FenBlock™ provides a way for individuals to have control over their own tapering process. This not only makes the transition safer but also empowers patients to take back control of their lives. The feeling of being in control is priceless and is in line with the values of iEXIST, LLC. Our organization advocates for a personalized, comprehensive, integrated, and modular approach to treatment and recovery. The opioid epidemic is a grave concern that demands collaborative efforts and innovative solutions. iEXIST, LLC, founded with the vision of transforming how we approach the treatment of opioid use disorder, actively seeks out partners who share our commitment to making a meaningful difference. FenBlock™ not only addresses the immediate crisis, but also resonates with our core objective of connecting people to the support they need, regardless of their location or circumstances. The technology offered by FenBlock™, facilitating self-managed tapering, exemplifies the progressive approach that can help individuals transition from active use to long-term recovery.

By allowing patients to taper off Fentanyl patches at their own pace, FenBlock™ removes a significant obstacle that often leads to relapse and, tragically, overdose deaths. This empowerment is vital to breaking the cycle of addiction and supporting individuals on their journey to recovery. FenBlock™ is not just a product but a lifeline, offering real hope and tangible results.

I am proud to stand in support of FenBlock™ and the incredible work of its inventor, Neil Jackson, whose ingenuity and dedication have brought this transformative solution to life. Together, we can turn the tide on the opioid epidemic one life at a time. I wholeheartedly endorse FenBlock™ and urge you to.....

Best regards,

Kathleen Totemoff
Founder/President
iEXIST, LLC