

PROTECT	PROVIDE
Socialize big agribusiness and dismantle the corporate oligopolies that control the farm input industry (seeds, fertilizers, pesticides, machinery) and the food and fiber processing industry into cooperatives and public enterprises democratically owned by and serving consumers and working farmers	Provide technical and financial assistance for regenerative organic agriculture, permaculture, and sustainable forestry
Democratize food production*	Increase investments in urban food systems to increase access to nutritious foods while also fostering local and regional circular agro-economies
Rapidly phase out the use of biocides, chemical fertilizers and corporate farms	Ensure parity pricing and supply management programs that guarantee working farmers a decent income above production costs
Support the use of natural systems to absorb carbon	Mandate living wages and fair labor standards for farmworkers and other food workers
Support diversified green manufacturing in rural towns based on biodegradable agricultural feedstocks	Support land reform and a new homesteading program to give new farmers access to land and farming resources
Ban pesticides, herbicides, neonicotinoids, and all other known carcinogens or neurotoxins from public use
Protect public lands, water supplies, biodiversity, parks and green spaces
Phase out plastics as much as possible, starting with single-use plastics
Use the Precautionary Principle to fully investigate all new products, substances, and technologies before widespread introduction
Ensure justice for Black farmers
Codify Rights of Nature
