

Jami Woods DPh MD ABPN ASCP

Health Sciences Clinical Assistant Professor of Psychiatry

Co-Chair Diversity Advisory Committee

University of California Riverside School of Medicine Department of Psychiatry

BRIEF BIO SKETCH

Dr. Jami Woods is a medical doctor specializing in psychiatry and psychopharmacology at the University of California Riverside. She is Assistant Professor of Psychiatry and Co Chair for the Diversity Advisory Committee. Originally a pharmacist by training, Dr. Woods completed a 2nd residency in psychiatry and is subspecialty certified in psychopharmacology. Her areas of academic interest include the neurobiology and treatment of schizophrenia, bipolar disorder, high functioning autism, and gender dysphoria. She is the proud parent of two super awesome young people who inspire her with their intelligence kindness compassion resilience and courage. Academically, she has a special interest in gender affirming hormone therapy for transgender individuals. She identifies as a transgender female and her pronouns are she/they/Jami.