Hi! I was going to take a fucking mental health break for the weekend, but then I heard about this.

Irish is not in this group. Neither of us sexually assaulted the other because we once made out on a curb when we were both drunk. He has no issues with me, I have checked. I also have no issues with him. We frequently talk at protests. It is not fair to bring him up as he is not in this chat, this is probably the fucking reason he wants to leave Phoenix actually, y'all are so dramatic.

Calling my grabbing a flag from Nail at a wedding a physical assault is a gross misrepresentation - and he and I have since talked this out. I apologized to him and he Amber has had an issue with me since I spoke up about Dan sexually assaulting me.

Amber also lets her 14-year-old kid smoke pot and has a boyfriend who has actually been known to infringe upon peoples physical boundaries. Again, I am not accusing Bobby of assault, just trying to point out that it's a bit hypocritical.

We cannot forget why we are here. Why this group chat even exists. As a black woman I am pissed about racism and police brutality. And I am committed to fighting against that. How much more energy do we have to give to this issue before we can get back to focusing on that? We have been out, a lot of us, most of the days this week. We are tired. Now is not the time to give the little bit of energy we have left to this.

I'm happy to talk about this and in fact, I've talked with a few people that I reached out to myself. Yes. I was a police cadet several years ago. No, I don't support the police or that department, for several reasons which I can share if needed. No, I didn't dox BLM. I was accused of that last year, but anyone around then can verify that. All 4 protesters arrested by Tempe PD last year were doxxed, myself included. I didn't stay at my own house for three days because I didn't know how serious it would/could be. The only things I have to offer right now are my apology for the way that I initially reacted to the accusations more than a month ago, and the fact that my presence at actions apparently makes some uncomfortable. Julie is a very close friend of mine and I've been working to get her elected all year. Phone calls, events, text messages, sign installations, meetings, etc. have taken up a majority of my free time. I need her elected. WE need her elected. We are fucked without her.
