

Apocalypse

Zizheng Jing

Chapter 1

C U R S E

This world lies in ruin, ravaged by a malevolent virus that transforms humanity into malevolent demons.

These grotesque beings relentlessly assault and consume all living creatures. In the present day, human civilization has fallen into profound decay, and the last flicker of hope resides within the mobile fortress of a superstar, constructed prior to the virus's cataclysmic outbreak.

It's just another typical day as I awaken to the creaking of my bed. I am a soldier, and my duty is to fulfill the mission at hand.

Ding-ding, ding-ding!

good morning captain

What was the situation like?

I never gave much thought to my future life. However, one thing is certain: when the target stands before me, I will never falter or miss my mark.

Let's go back! The chief wants to see us

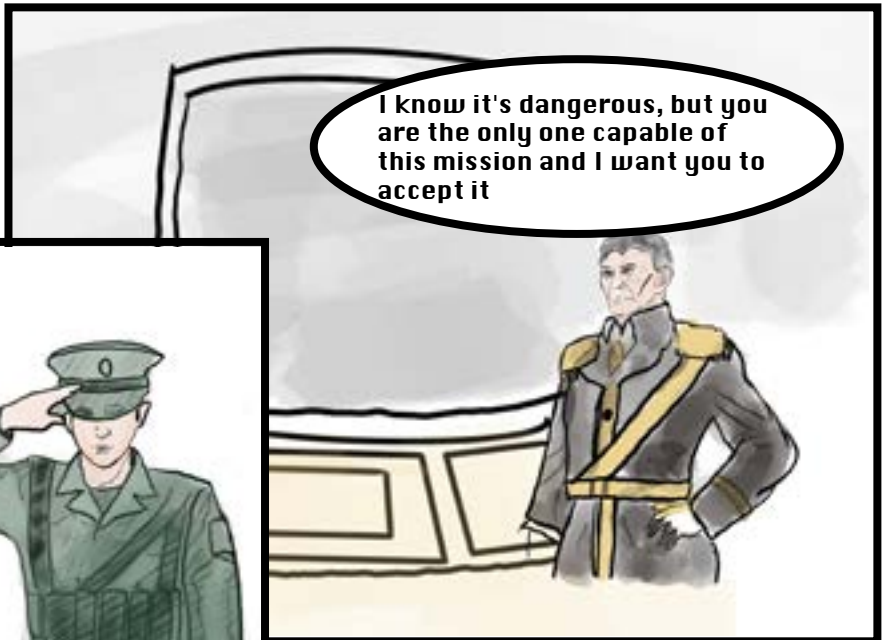

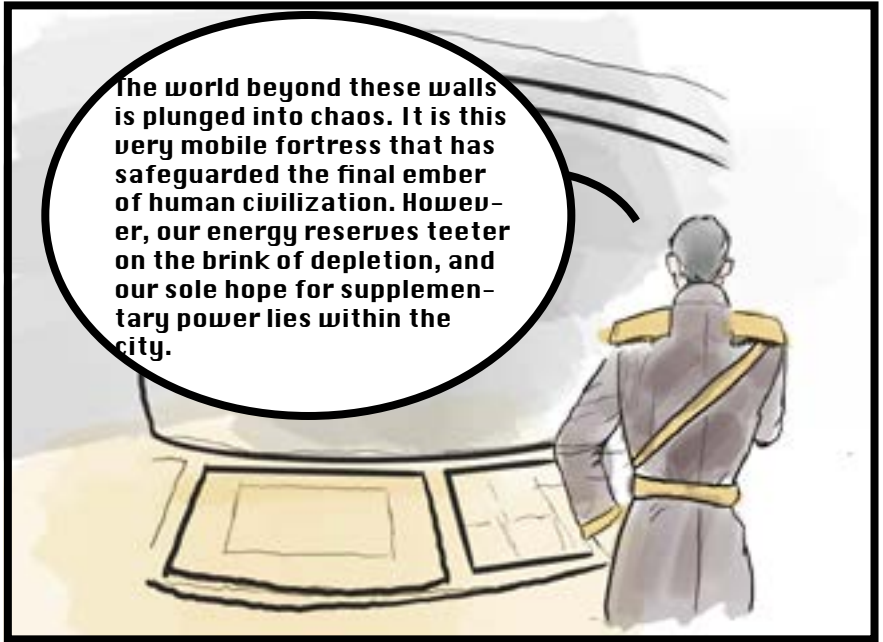

Captain, why do you think the commander asked us to go?

We are soldiers, and our job is to complete the mission, not to ask why.

OK sir

Come in, I've been waiting for you for a long time

Captain, this character is simply suicidal. There are tens of thousands of them in the city.

What have I emphasized before? As a soldier, fear and questioning are not an option. If you falter, how can we expect others to stand strong?

Sorry Captain, but . . .

To be continue.....

