On The Airplane

What does it mean when you're not in the airplane, but on top of it, holding on as you fly? In my dream last night, this is what happened, and then a "steward" came up and asked for my boarding pass, which I didn't have, so he put in a call on his cell phone to check and make sure I was actually "booked" for the flight. Any insight you could offer would be most appreciated!

Thank You,
Molli

Hi Molli,

Your dream falls under the category of "flying dreams", in which however you are not flying under your own power. Such dreams are associated with a major change in your life, a rise in status or a transitional phase. What is most peculiar about your dream is that you are on top of the plane. But the steward goes about his job to check your boarding pass as if there was nothing odd with this picture. In general, airplane dreams represent some sort of change. However, for you, this change may cause you to be isolated from the rest of the group, i.e. friends, family, colleagues, etc. You are literally flying high on your own. It is sometimes said that it can be lonely at the top and in some way your dream is depicting this.

Birth To Twins

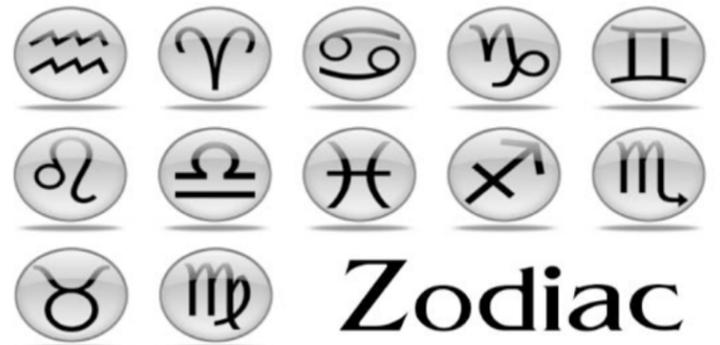

Hello. I had a dream last night that scared my a little. I dreamt that I was pregnant with twins. Then later in the dream, I gave birth to them. One a girl and the other a boy. I'm a virgin now, but I'm planning to lose my virginity with my boyfriend soon. We talk about it a lot, like everyday. What does my dream mean? Please help!

Thank You,
Candy

Hi Candy,

Giving birth to twins represents the battle between the opposites of your psyche in order to become whole. Your dream may occur as a result of the inner conflict you are experiencing. It is doubtful that your dream means that you are having fears of getting pregnant. The notion that the twins are fraternal symbolizes the union between the feminine and masculine aspects of yourself. This may also refer to the physical union between you and your boyfriend.

Aries - Your September Monthly Forecast: With Mars moving forward once again, a gust begins to fill your sails. For some while you've been tacking against the breeze, having to navigate with a force blowing against you. But the wind has turned. More direct routes are available and the climate is becoming a little less stormy. That doesn't mean an easy ride in September. But it does mean less of a struggle than you've been used to. The Full Moon in your sign indicates that you're reaching an important turning point and navigating towards a delightful destination.

Taurus - Your September Monthly Forecast: This month, with your ruler, Venus, moving opposite Taurus, it's a sign of good things to come - especially in regard to your close relationships. But sometimes what's best for our heart isn't what we expect, and with Uranus in your sign, surprises are never far away. As Venus moves opposite the planet of surprises, your heart will be skipping and feeling a delightful enthusiasm that can strengthen a key relationship. This transformation will involve a challenge or two, but that will only add to the excitement.

Gemini - Your September Monthly Forecast: Although busy people get things done, they often have a hard time prioritising. When we have an endless to-do list it can be tempting to pick the low-hanging fruit, choosing to do the easiest items instead of tackling the more influential issues that will make the most difference to our workload. But in September, as your ruler forms a Grand Trine with Saturn and Uranus, you have the strength to do more than that. By addressing the root of your problems you'll be able to harvest the fruits of your endeavours.

Cancer - Your September Monthly Forecast: There's no such thing as a typeface font to suggest sarcasm. But if you want to shout in an email, you can use CAPITAL LETTERS. It's easy to express alarm too... just use exclamation marks; and we can show affection with an 'x'. In the age of emojis, there are many ways to convey feelings in messages, but subtlety is hard to detect. This month focuses on your communication skills as you balance sensitivity, creativity and clarity. Just make sure someone's misinterpretation doesn't hold you back.

Leo - Your September Monthly Forecast: As a parent, I have to deal with my fair share of tantrums. Usually they're caused by over-tiredness - when there are many things my son thinks he wants but nothing that satisfies him. What he really needs is sleep. You're probably aware that you could do with a break. And, although it might not last as long you'd like, Jupiter's links, both with Pluto and Saturn, will help you regain control of your schedule. Once you relax, think about what you really want. Because in September, you really can have it!

Virgo - Your September Monthly Forecast: Once a year your ruler visits your sign. But it's not every year that it forms a Grand Trine with Saturn and Uranus, and a Minor Grand Trine with Jupiter and Pluto! In celestial terms, you're being handed every advantage this birthday season. But too much choice can be the enemy of happiness; having so many doors open can lead to inaction - for fear of making a less than optimal choice. As long as you keep taking action, you'll find optimism and luck accompany you throughout the month.

Libra - Your September Monthly Forecast: The Equinox joins the Sun and Mercury in your sign. Along with the Jupiter-Pluto link, it suggests you have the chance to fulfill important needs this month. Despite the undoubted benefit of hosting your ruling planet, as long as you don't prioritise material security over emotional stability, Venus' exit could benefit your emotional adventures. The challenge is to overcome the temptation to seek success in the fickle and the fleeting. Focus on your deeper needs; you'll receive a deeper sense of satisfaction.

Scorpio - Your September Monthly Forecast: The best salespeople know that success lies in encouraging customers by making suggestions rather than assertions. They have a knack for engaging people in conversations and employing the art of gentle persuasion. Venus' tense link to Mars this month brings intensity to your relationships and demands an easy way of communicating. If you push your point of view, people will be pushed away. Yet, by mastering the subtle way to guide people, you'll get the agreement you need.

Sagittarius - Your September Monthly Forecast: You feel as if you're lacking something important. Is a financial situation making you feel insecure. Or a lack of time? Or support? Or understanding? It feels like a physical rather than an emotional need. This month, as your ruler links with Saturn, if you look for creative ways to stretch your resources to help others, you'll find that your own needs are met too. You're being more protected than you think. The cosmos is doing all that it can to enable you to move forward in a very productive way.

Capricorn - Your September Monthly Forecast: Hidden deep inside you is immense strength and power. The fact that you don't broadcast this information is to your credit. But sometimes you forget your many talents and allow passing problems to discourage you. This month, with your ruler's retrograde journey through your sign finally coming to an end, and Mars now direct, you find yourself with the opportunity to show more of your gifts. This will affect your material status and could have a powerful effect on your romantic life too.

Aquarius - Your September Monthly Forecast: Some psychological experts think that anger masks deeper emotions. They believe it disguises insecure feelings such as fear and uncertainty. It's worth bearing this in mind if anyone shrieks at you this month... because knowledge brings power. In a stressful situation, if someone can stand back a little, they can diffuse the tension. With your ruler linking harmoniously to Saturn, you have the skills to resolve conflict and calm dramas. It suggests a genuinely satisfying September lies ahead.

Pisces - Your September Monthly Forecast: When my young son tries to outfox me it's endearing rather than affronting. His naivety shines through his attempts to beat me at whatever game we're playing, so I often humour him and pretend, so he thinks he really has beaten me. In the same way, destiny is bemused rather than annoyed by our attempts to disregard its suggestions. This month, as your ruler links to Pluto and Saturn, it brings a situation that is meant to be. If you look for what's good (even in complex situations) you'll find it.
