WHATEVER HAPPENED TO WHITEY BULGER?

"Hillel. Upon seeing a human skull floating on the water, he addressed thus: Because you drowned others, they have drowned you . . . ." Pirkey Avot, Ch. 2, No.7 [The exact citation---I only remembered reading it long ago---is from my Rebbe, Victor Urecki of B'Nai Jacob in Charleston.] "Bulger Was Wary Of Prison Transfer, Headline in the Wall Street Journal, 15 December 2018

In a way, when I first heard the news, I thought that it was just another slur on the reputation of West Virginia, i. e., one of the worst desperados in the history of the United States couldn't make a quarter of a day in the Mountain State! I learned about this event from one of the guards in the lobby at S.C.I. Greene, Pennsylvania's "Supermax" in Waynesburg, Pa. S.C.I. Greene is the proverbial stone's throw up I-79 from Morgantown. "Hey, Captain Hook*, your hillbilly buddies down there at Hazelton play pretty rough," a guard called out to me in a loud voice as I was signing the visitor's log.

Of course, I didn't believe him. Whitey Bulger was murdered in a prison in West Virginia! Nonsense. They flew him up from Florida and he got popped within three hours. You gotta be pulling my leg.

I was going to law school in Massachusetts when Bulger was just starting to beat the Italians at their game. Organized crime in Boston was run by Raymond Patriarca out of Providence, Rhode Island. Back then, Bulger was in the process of creating his own fiefdom in "Southie", a heavily Irish section of the town. Basically his strategy was a first cousin of Bill Clinton's "triangulation". Instead of playing the U.S. Senate against the House of Representatives, Bulger used the cops---he was able to corrupt both the Massachusetts State Police and the FBI---against the mob. It worked like a charm for maybe 20 years but when it went bust, it rocked New England like the first A-Bomb did Hiroshima. Jack Nicholson played Bulger in the movie! (If I ever caught up with him I wanted to ask Bulger how he thought Nicholson did.)

First of all, almost no one cared if Bulger got offed. He had a very straight, very big deal brother--president of the Massachusetts State Senate and later president of the University of Massachusetts--who never denied him, attending each court appearance after he got caught. A couple women stuck by him to the end. And one of the jurors developed a "crush" on him, corresponding with him and according to published reports---visiting him in prison. One of the inmates on the Capital Unit at S.C.I. Greene that I visited that day said with a shudder "What an evil man!"

Secondly, his death should not have come to a surprise to anyone. You pay a price in prison for being too famous just like you pay a price for being too anonymous. When West Virginia's #1 bandito, Ron Williams came back to the Moundsville penitentiary after being on the FBI's 10 MOST WANTED, the Warden told him "Ron, the said thing about your present situation is that some young punk is going to make his reputation some day by killing you."**** The same thing applied to Bulger in spades. Exactly how do you hide--where do you hide--after YOU HAVE BETRAYED BOTH THE MOB AND THE FBI?

The man who killed martyred UMWA leader Jock Yablonski visited his home a few days before his crew murdered Yablonski, his wife, and daughter. "The man said 'My name's Johnson and I'm from Beckley. I up here looking for a job.'" The car had Ohio an license plate. Jock called his son Ken, a lawyer in Washington, Pa. There was a meeting going on in his office. Jock told him evenly "There were three men and they've come to kill me." "I'll send some of these guy out, Dad", Ken said. Karl Kafton of Cameron and a couple other miners later found their car parked at a Pennsylvania road house and got the license number. It was registered to a Mrs. Annette Gilley of Cleveland, Ohio. Kenny called her and said that the car had been in an accident. "Oh, that's my husband Paul," she said. "Him and a couple of his buddies went to Pennsylvania looking for work in the mines."

Kenny told me that he begged him father to let him call her again and say "Listen bitch, we know who you are and what you're up to." But Jock wouldn't let him. "Dad said 'No. You can't do that. They'll just try another way. All you can do is be ready.'" That New Years Eve when WVU was playing in the Peach Bowl, the three men slipped into the house and shot gunned Jock, his wife, and daughter. They killed Jock first, then his wife. Then two of them stood outside Charlotte Yablonski's room and debated about raping her before they went in to kill her. Richard Sprague, the Special Prosecutor from Philadelphia got murder convictions all the way up to the President of the UMWA. For once the system worked and I saw it with my own eyes.

People who study these things say that when death is an inevitability, a certain calm settles over the person. They say it's also true with those who contemplate suicide. Personally, I like to think of the Titanic with the orchestra playing "Nearer my G-d to Thee". I suppose that it's the observers (like me) who get queasy with the prospect of a hanging. This whole episode reminds me of Hemingway's short story "The Killers". A boxer from Chicago betrays the mob, winning a fight he was supposed to lose. Now he's holed up on the second floor over a "greasy spoon" restaurant downstate. A old counter man tells a young kid working with him what's actually going on.

"I hate to think of him laying up there in his room just waiting for it to happen" the young kid says.

"Don't think about it then" was the reply. This was said with the same shrug that Job's wife gave him as he lamented the treatment that he had received at the hands of Adonai. "Curse G-d and die", she said which, if one thinks about it, was probably pretty good advice under the circumstances. My question for Whitey when we meet on the other side will be: When precisely did you know that it was coming. The possibility was there from the beginning of course. But when did he see it as an inevitability?

Thanks to my research assistant [a certain O. Nutting of Wheeling, himself not totally inexperienced with the print media], I know that Whitey first got suspicious when the authorities told him that he was getting out of solitary confinement in Florida and would be transferred to a medical facility. In a Sept. 28 telephone conversation with a lawyer in Boston, Bulger said "I don't trust them." This was reported in the WSJ on Dec. 15th, supra. A month later, another story in the Journal said ". . . a frail 89 year old man with a history of heart attacks was dumped on an open cell block in a notoriously violent prison." The principal charged with beating Bulgar to death was a Fotios (Freddy) Geas, who according to the NYT "was a mafia hit man from Springfield, Mass." Geas was serving a life sentence for murder.

The odds of two men from separate ends of the Bay State meeting in Preston County are not astronomical. However, they are, I would suggest, very long. The U.S. Attorney in the Northern District of West Virginia is in charge of the investigation. On January 3rd, I called the office in Wheeling for comment and got a recording that the office was closed because of the government shutdown. I left this message on the recorder:

AS A PEOPLE, WE ARE STILL ARGUING OVER WHO KILLED JOHN KENNEDY AND WHY. IS THERE AN INVESTIGATION GOING

ON WITH REGARD TO THE PERSONS WHO ARRANGED THE TRANSPORT OF MR. BULGER FROM FLORIDA TO WEST VIRGINIA

The deadline I gave them for responding has passed. Where's Robert Muller when we need him?

Notes: **"Captain Hook" is a nickname given to me by the guards at Pa.'s "supermax" prison at Waynesburg. This is based on a little "love tap" that I gave to a television reporter in Charleston who asked an impertinent question. **One of the female jurors who convicted Bulgar developed a "crush" on him and initiated a relationship. Interestingly, a female juror from Marion County did the same thing in the early 1980s with regard to THE WAYWARD GENIUS who broke out of the old penitentiary in Moundsville. I "debriefed" her on behalf of Ron Williams. I attribute this sort of thing to what was once called the "Stockholm syndrome", i.e. the sometimes fatal attraction that many women have for at least one fling with a "bad boy". ***According to the the NYT Bulger's juror friend was granted permission to visit him in prison. This is passing strange since West Virginia, for example, does not permit visits by a person who did not have a prior relationship with the inmate. ****The Warden was Donald Bordenkircher, a man who made his reputation by administering "tiger cages" in Viet Nam as part of Operation Phoenix, the CIA's program of murder and torture. Interesting, Bordenkircher also counselled Williams about having any contact with moi. It rather shocked me to be considered a bad influence on a man who had been on the FBI's "10 Most Wanted" list. What can I say?

Prophecy 2019 – Denying the Emergence of NWO even while it Develops in our Faces

By Michael Bresciani

When Christ exclaimed that when the blind were leading the blind, both would fall into a ditch – he did not include the clear theological maxim contained in the profound insights given later in the teachings of the Apostle Paul.

Paul caught the ball running and said all who walk through this world without Christ are blinded by the god of this world (Satan).

This does not mean that they have an excuse for sin and the mess they have made of their world. It is why we know, that for the world, the term "Happy New Year" is the perfect non sequitur for anything that happened the year before.

It will be happy for a favored few and a slippery slope for the rest.

2019 promises to be one of the most troubled years in our history and is a prelude to the fiery possibilities that 2020 will surely bring.

Europe is running toward its hope of a strong personality to lead it into the long awaited United States of Europe.

Germany's Angela Merkel and France's Emmanuel Macron have led their countries into a deep leftist quagmire where both nations have all but lost their cultural identities and the flood of immigration under these leaders make the US Border problems pale in comparison. As usual the US is too preoccupied with its own affairs to learn very much from these events. Under Brussels leadership the rest of the continent has little to look forward to but a long and protracted battle for national survival. One journalist says of illegal immigration, "Immigration: The leftist fallacy and subversion of America" – he is undoubtedly correct.

Germany's Merkel has openly declared that President Trump has ruined the 'New World Order' which of course most people deny is even happening.

Recently Pope Francis told an Italian newspaper reporter from La Repubblica that "the United States of America has "a distorted vision of the world" and Americans must be ruled by a world government, as soon as possible, "for their own good." Yet Closer to home our own Rand Paul says 'New World Order' is Terrified of Trump.

Yet when Christians believe in the prophetic promise of one world government emerging just before the return of Christ, they are promptly labeled as conspiracy theorists or worse. This is not simply hypocrisy it is the very definition of total blindness.

In the US the leftists, progressives and democrats continue with has been aptly termed, "Trump derangement syndrome." The shameless displays against the president are like a pack of grunting baboons or yelping hyenas circling the prey. All reason, dignity or repose has been abandoned and the truth is, that to date, Mr. Trump has accomplished more in two years than Mr. Obama did in both his terms in office.

The Democratic party of this nation has fragmented and is now altogether the party of perversion, sodomy, abortion and self-indulgence. The LGBT has become a militant force against America and anyone who does not accept perversion. Those who hold power have little interest in the will of the American people but they legislate in the people's name, which is in itself their greatest hypocrisy so far.

Abortion is so obviously murder, but to the blind it is some kind of 'right.' It is now the leading cause of death in this, and all nations above, smoking, heart disease and cancer.

Morality has fallen like a stone and Americans are electing those who reflect the decline which accounts for the success of the progressives. It is what makes the perversion of the term so great, is regression really progress – think again, what we are calling progress is in fact, the fall of the republic.

If "immigration" is subversion then "immorality" must be destruction. That conclusion comes from the Bible, but how many Americans trust that book today?

Those who think they are intelligent are never illiterate; conversely the biblically illiterate are never intelligent. Real wisdom has always been more than an intelligence quotient. It goes back to the blind guiding the blind and it is a conclusion not well received by this generation.

While scoffing at the bible the secular world is following the formula explained in its pages for the appearance and, rise and seating of the world's last dictator. His success will be total.

With false religions rising and prurient behaviors becoming normalized the upper levels of governments will easily put in place the man who comes to rule them for the last seven years of time as we now know it.

Because they are reprobate, God allows them to fall. Scripture says the upper echelons of power have "one mind" (Rev 17: 13) and they are delighted to give him the power.

Views on second coming doctrine range from what some people see as hoopla, and others see as an ominous sort of bad thing. It is rarely seriously studied by preachers of the cotton candy gospel and generally fluffed off, by those who think politics alone is where it's at.

A lot of whacky second coming material can be found on YouTube, but it often raises more questions for the unlearned and those who are prone to conspiracy material.

A few online sites can be referred to without fear of slipping into the murky waters of doubtful disputation. Some are as follows.

While I have placed my own site in the above list, it goes without saying that it only takes a good bit of healthy spiritual discernment and a sound foundation in biblical eschatology to predict world events for the next couple of years.

There is little doubt in most minds that the antichrist is alive today and will be revealed to the world in short notice. Could it be 2019 or 2020 – it is very likely.

Christ has all but telegraphed this message to our generation, but as predicted, the 'thinkers' have chosen to ignore it. Isn't it time to pull away from the crowd and see the tsunami coming across the horizon? To wit:
