

Just For A Day...

C'mon, play the game. What harm will it do to just be a bit hypothetical?

Think of all the celebrities that dominate culture and see if you could actually fill in the blanks...

"If I could marry one person for only one week it would be..."

"If I could marry one person, any person, for only one month it would be..."

Would your answer change?

CLOSEOUT THOUGHTS: This is a trick question... If you spend time really wrestling with this the answer is obvious and it has nothing to do with any individual name.

You could only marry the person that you would wish to spend your whole life with, otherwise you need to reevaluate how you define marriage!