

Endless Stream of Visitors to the Revolutionary Battle Sites in the Mt Paektu Area

The people of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea visit the area of Mt Paektu (2 750m high above sea level), located in the northernmost part of their country.

Paektu, which had long been called ancestral mountain of the Korean nation, is regarded as a sacred mountain of the revolution after Kim Il Sung (1912-1994), eternal President of the DPRK, waged the anti-Japanese armed struggle for the liberation of his country with this area as a base and Kim Jong Il (1942-2011), eternal Chairman of the National Defence Commission of the DPRK, was born there.

Through expeditions to the revolutionary battle sites in the area, the Korean people harden their faith and will to advance along the road of socialism, carrying forward their forerunners' ideas and spirits permeated in the mountain.

Kim Jong Un, President of the State Affairs of the DPRK, climbed the mountain several times. In October 2019 he climbed the snow-covered mountain on a white horse, attracting the attention of the world.
