Miami International Fine Arts (MIFA) proudly presents In the Shadow of Giants, a solo exhibition by Marta Cueter, running from February 6 to 26, 2025. This captivating showcase invites visitors to explore the profound connection between humanity and nature through Cueter’s interpretation of trees—magnificent natural giants that have inspired her since childhood.

Cueter’s fascination with trees began in her early years, marveling at the towering giants that populated her childhood park. These trees, symbols of beauty and harmony, have remained central to her artistic exploration. Through a refined combination of wire molding, acrylic painting, and printmaking, Cueter reimagines trees with personal sensitivity, emphasizing their organic forms and the silent stories they tell. Rather than replicating nature, her work interprets these natural wonders with a poetic and symbolic approach.

This exhibition reflects Cueter's artistic evolution since 2020, a period during which her practice flourished and expanded into diverse techniques and expressions. Her works delve into the interplay of strength and fragility embodied by trees, presenting them as metaphors for resilience, connection, and transformation. Each piece invites viewers to contemplate the timeless beauty of the natural world and reconnect with the silent grandeur of the trees that surround us.

The exhibition serves as both a tribute and a call to reflection, encouraging audiences to recognize the intrinsic value of nature and the enduring power of trees as symbols of strength and renewal. Marta Cueter's art transforms these natural giants into visual narratives that celebrate their elegance and the profound influence they have on our lives.
