This agreement is between the Client, whose name and address is listed above, and Alana Colp.

This agreement establishes that all products have been delivered and been accepted by the Client. Upon signing this agreement all sales are final. I agree that all products and services have been delivered as outlined in the original photography services contract.

If digital files are a part of the purchase, your purchase of the original files releases Alana Colp from any liability due to loss or damage of the images, and also releases from any obligation to maintain copies of any digital file, image, or photograph.

Optional Provision: Additional copies of the photoshoot containing digital files can be purchased for additional cost if they are still available when requested in the future.
