This cruise started at the Warmies Boat Ramp in Newport.

Being the Grand final Weekend, all was set for a leisurely trip from the Dalbora jetty to the south side of the Yarra River near the MCG.

Once tied up back to back and rafting up together it was time to relax and enjoy the atmosphere with the two sides competing Collingwood and St Kilda.

All the members and friends who have come along for an outing with wine, food, chocolate and nibbles had started to engross themselves in the activities.

With all the food and nibbles taken care of it was time for the Grand final to commence.

Television on the boats were turned on and all eyes were on the teams supported by folks even people not barracking for either side, there were some people just out there enjoying the day.

The excitement near the final siren was intense and when the final siren sounded and a draw was the outcome there was a deadly silence, I think both team supporters were shocked at the result of having to play again. Looking at all the dejected people walking back to their cars was strange a vacant look of disbelief. But hey it was a good game by all reports.

After a wait for the tide to lower it was back to the Dalbora jetty to have tea and happy hour.

Sunday was a nice day for a trip down to Half Moon Bay to have a bite of lunch that is where the Cerebus was sunk many years ago.

After lunch and a nice cruise back to the Warmies ending a great weekend on the water with people with a common interest.
