Executive Director Andrew Shirvell today issued the following statement:

“The Florida abortion industry’s campaign launch for its new citizens’ petition drive got off to a very rocky start this morning. Their press conference’s livestream was plagued with auditory problems throughout the duration of the event’s YouTube broadcast. Those troubles today are indicative of the challenges that the Florida abortion industry faces as they go forward with their deranged quest to enshrine abortion on demand in our state’s governing document via a citizens’ petition initiative. Although the pro-abortion campaign will be well-funded, pro-abortion activists must collect nearly 900,000 valid signatures from Florida residents by February 1, 2024, if they have any hope of placing their proposed constitutional amendment before voters in November 2024. In the months ahead, Florida Voice for the Unborn will draw attention to the radical nature of this proposal, and we will do everything we possibly can to dissuade Florida voters from signing the petition.”
