

Curriculum Aims

This document sets out our curriculum aims which supports and underpins our everyday practice.

At Little Crocs, our curriculum is focused and centred around the children. We embrace the interests of the children, and our teaching is centred and led by their curiosity and thinking. Our free flow indoor and outdoor environment allows children the freedom to make choices and be advocates of their own learning.

The natural environment holds high value to us, and this is reflected in the ethos of our setting and plays a key part in the development of the curriculum.

Children are given the opportunity and resources to explore and appreciate the natural and diverse world around them, manage their own risks and develop a love for the outdoors.

Little Crocs practitioners are facilitators to children's learning and their role is to support, observe and extend learning, offer meaningful opportunities and experiences whilst listening to the child and understand and act upon their needs and interests.
