Our Why

At age 10, Femi had heart transplant surgery, after being diagnosed the prior year with heart failure. Even after surgery, she was willing to donate her blood to others in need. While admitted to hospital, Femi chose to visit younger sick children to cheer them up and watch over them in order to give their parents a break. For this reason, Children's Nebraska designated Femi as a Children's Ambassador. In 2019, at the age of 15, Femi lost her battle to heart failure, but in death, chose to be a giver of life - as an organ donor, including sharing of her beautiful eyes. The Red Cross nominated and honored her with a Hero in the Heartland Award posthumously in 2023 - an honor given to "individuals who have saved another person's life". In short, Femi's lived a full life of selflessness to her church, school and community.

Born to Jerome and Sonia Tevoedjre, Femi Tevoedjre was a beautiful, joy-filled, kind and compassionate girl, full of vigour and with a great sense of humour. Her kind and selfless nature made her popular in her community. Femi had a big heart and would gladly give her very last possession to the person who needed it. As big-hearted as she was, she battled cardiomyopathy, a serious heart disease, spending countless hours of her later years admitted to hospital. This, however, never dampened Femi's spirit.

The Femi's Heart Foundation (FHF), a nonprofit organization, was established - built on the foundation of serving and principled by empathy, healing and hope. Through this, we honour the beautiful legacy and life of Femi.
