

This is the financial documents section of the webpage. You can see the 1099 from Weston Harding completed under federal oath that he directly hired Eric Pruitt in his personal capacity. We were not given this document during discovery.

The checks paid directly to Eric Pruitt from HSquare and Weston Harding.

The direction of payment was directly from HSquares and Weston Harding's bank (I assume this was the down payment). A lien waiver for Eric Pruitt's work given to the bank and title company. An invoice from Eric Pruitt that includes a charge of $972.00 for illegally obtained permits.

I believe no reasonable person, much less a claims adjuster or Senior Lawyer for Nationwide could conclude that Eric Pruitt was "in the course and scope of his employment with Plumbing Plus" with this evidence.

Upon reviewing the 1099 that was not turned over in discovery, Judge Dueker expressed "serious doubts." Judge Dueker ordered Nationwide for Eric Pruitt to be added to the suit or it would be dismissed.

Once Eric was included, he informed the court about Chang. Chang was also added about a year later. To the best of my knowledge, Nationwide dropped Eric and Chang from the suit by paying 1000 each.

This section is part of the proof of perjury by Weston Harding and that Nationwide knowingly suborned in the perjury of their witnesses. I believe this was part of the overall effort to frame an innocent party, myself.

You cannot tell the Department of the Treasury (IRS), the bank, and the title company one thing, then the courts something else and get away with it.
