Letter From Our President - Faye Adcox

Hello again

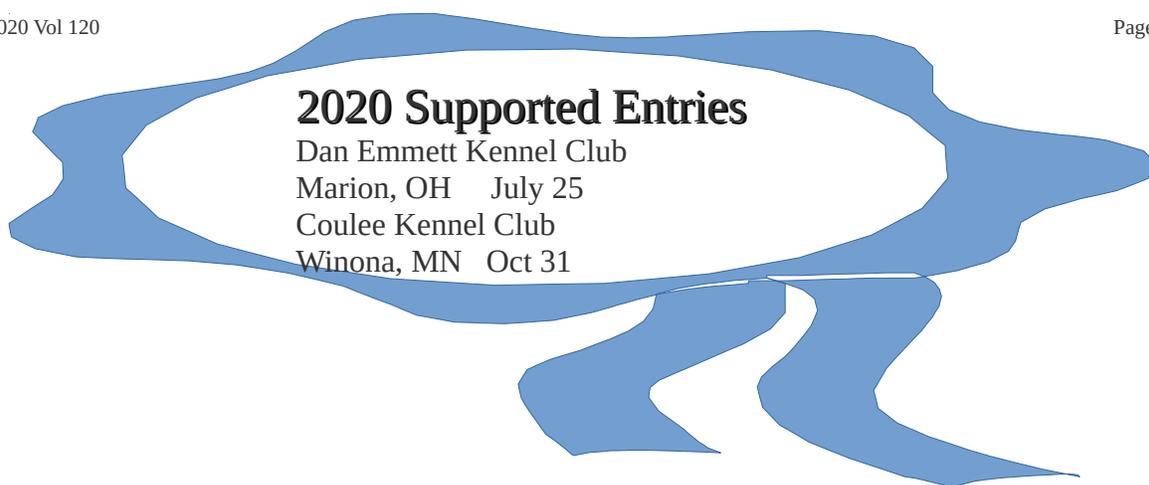

It has been a busy few months. I hope everyone had a great Holiday. We had several attend the Westminster Dog Show in NYC -Congratulations to all; what a nice line up.

Thank you to those of you who have volunteered to help the club by helping or taking charge of one of the duties we sent out. There are still some spots that need filled. Please consider helping. As soon as the new website is up and running we will also have a stud database that Kathleen Harris will be in charge of and a Puppy page that Richard Valentini will be handling.

As of March 31st, the new standard will be in effect. We are in the process of sending out letters to all the herding group judges to inform them of the new standard.

This year is our 10th National Specialty. We are looking forward to a great time, not only will we have a judge coming over from Norway but we will be having a concurrent specialty and 2 supported entries the same weekend. We have club members working on a herding clinic as well as CGC, Trick dog and temperament testing. We are planning a reception as well as a banquet, and a Junior Showmanship ice cream social. The hosting kennel club is also offering Barn Hunt. There will be plenty to do that weekend. You will find hotel info in the newsletter and it will be up on the website.

Companion Dog Sports Program (CDSP)

*Likely the BEST Performance Venue to Introduce a Buhund to Performance Sports

Joyce Carlson-Rioux

The first dog I showed in obedience was a beautiful tricolor collie named Cantus. Even though we attended classes weekly from the time Cantus was 8 weeks old, it took me years to summon the courage to enter an obedience trial. Cantus was food motivated and did great at classes but had difficulty transitioning to the trial setting. We eventually earned an AKC C.D. (Companion Dog) title and began working on the open class exercises. With effort, he learned and came to like the retrieve. Cantus also liked jumping, that is, until something happened with his wrists and he told me by avoiding jumps. We were able to continue in AKC Rally for awhile (because jump heights were lower). We achieved a R.E. (Rally Excellent) but could no longer compete beyond that point. Cantus loved “dog school” and we continued with weekly rally classes, but modified or walked over any jumps. We had enjoyed trials, but had hit a “dead end” with the requirements of the AKC regulations. At that time, Companion Dog Sports Program was just beginning. I did not know about how it could have helped us both prepare to enter an AKC trial and continue to participate in obedience when we needed a lower jump height.

My club (Twin Cities Obedience Training Club - T.C.O.T.C.), recommends positive, reward-based training methods when teaching dog skills for life and performance spots such as obedience, rally obedience, and agility. Often handlers become frustrated making the transition from the training class, where small treats are allowed to the competition ring. Companion Dog Sports Program (which turned 15 in January 2020) is a venue which offers a fun way to develop skills and show in obedience. Exercises are judged with rigor, but a treat may be given following the end of each, after the judge states “Exercise Finished”. One of the wonderful things about CDSP is that exercise modifications are allowed (the handler must submit a written request in advance for approval) which allows dogs and/or handlers with disabilities to participate in the sport. In my personal experience, the entire trial atmosphere is more supportive and relaxed than at a typical AKC trial. This goes a long way toward helping the handler to relax, resulting in a more confident dog. We all know that tension quickly travels down the leash or even through the air from us to our very handler focused canine partners. Many of the teams at T.C.O.T.C. trial in each CDSP class, and then trial in corresponding AKC class. (Note: T.C.O.T.C. offers a class entitled “Bye, Bye Cookie” in which handlers learn techniques for fading treats following each exercise and accustom the dog to receiving all treats outside of the ring.)

Below are more specifics about how the CDSP obedience regulations differ from AKC. Many of these differences offer learning supports that will help your new obedience dog develop skills and comfort in the ring. They will also offer you a less intimidating venue for participating in this fun sport if you want a more realistic way to practice skills because you can use praise and treats to reward your dog. As mentioned above, the handler can offer a treat from his/her pocket after each exercise. The dog must be in heel position when receiving the treat. (Note that if the handler drops a treat on the ring floor, a 5 point deduction is made.) Handlers are also allowed to offer the dog verbal encouragement during the exercise, although this praise must not serve as a cue and continuous chatter is not allowed. Handlers may also give a hand signal and a verbal signal to begin each exercise (except for the signal exercise in Open in which the hand signal only is required). Each piece of an exercise can be cued. On certain exercises the dog is required to respond to the first cue in order to qualify (ex. retrieve, drop on recall). Jump heights in CDSP are also a bit lower than in AKC. At 18" of height, my buhund jumps 14". In CDSP veteran dogs are allowed to jump 2" lower than their normal jump height. For safety, there are never two dogs in the ring at the same time in CDSP.

My young buhund and I have completed the CDSP Starter Novice title. The exercises are slightly different from those for AKC Beginner Novice, but I consider this a positive. Buhunds are smart and may easily become bored. Switching things up a bit can help a dog think about what he or she is doing. In the past, obedience competitors were often criticized for turning out robotic performances. Variety keeps the dog's interest and mind in the game. CDSP trials I've attended have felt quiet and fairly "relaxed" as compared to an AKC trail. At two of the events, handlers shared potluck snacks/lunches. At one event, for the donation of $1 per "entry" my dog participated in a fun "recall race" game over the lunch break. In this event my dog practiced his recall between two lines of temptations that included a variety of toys, tennis balls and treats in a dish. Suffice it to say we all laughed a lot and I was duly reminded of the need to work harder on my recall in the face of distractions! And, of course, we hooted and cheered the focused winning dog (and handler)! The games really broke the tension of the trial setting for many of us.

CDSP class names are similar to those in AKC: Starter Novice, Novice, Open, and Utility. CDSP has an additional class, Versatility, which includes exercises from Novice, Open and Utility. Each team must receive qualifying scores of at least 170 out of 200 in three trials, under 2 different judges. After completing a title, the team has the option of moving up to the next class, or continuing in the class just achieved and working toward Champion title in that class e.g. "Novice Champion". Teams completing the Utility level can continue to compete indefinitely for a "Utility Champion" title or an "Obedience Trial Championship". The team must achieve 10 qualifying scores of 185 or higher in a class (not counting the first 3 needed to reach the initial title) to reach a championship in that class.

To get started in CDSP, go to the website:

<http://www.companiondogsportsprogram.com/index.htm>

You will need to register your dog with them. This is easy to do online, cost is minimal. Then, check out the exercises and the regulations. Look at the events listing which you can find on the CDSP website. Find something near you and enter your dog. (If there is space you can even enter the day of the trial, but the cost will be higher.) There is a video trialing option if you cannot find a trial near your home. Practice and get ready for the trial. Enjoy the trial and meeting your fellow teams - best of luck in qualifying!

You can find a list of the exercises for each class and the full regulations for trials on the CDSP website. But, I offer an example for the Novice Class below, along with a comparison to AKC Novice Class.

2020 Raffle Submitted by Christine VanVleet

Hello Club Members!

I am writing to remind you that our National Specialty will be upon us before we know it! Upon my writing, we're already half way through February which means we have just seven months before we begin traveling west to Montana! I am extremely excited about the location of this year's specialty as the scenery in that area of the country is spectacular! I will be working the raffle this year with assistance from Carol Walsh and I'm asking for additional volunteers. We are planning to run the raffle for the entire length of our show and we need your help to make this successful. Specifically, I'm asking for volunteers to help man the raffle table. Ideally, I'd like enough volunteers so that we are able to set up a schedule of one to two people at the table for two hour shifts and then a relief crew can step in. This will allow all of us to show our dogs, enjoy the show, and help make this year's raffle a huge success.

I'm also asking for donations and remember donations do not have to be dog or Buhund related! If any of you are interested in approaching vendors at shows, I have a donation letter from Tina Hamblin that I can forward to you. I have contacted an artist in Tennessee that does painting on slate and also an artist in England that is working on cards with a Buhund theme.

Please, and I emphasize PLEASE – your help is needed. I can be reached via email at or by phone (269) 830-7129. If you have input, suggestions, thoughts or ideas, contact me!

Meet The Breed Submitted by Faye Adcox

Jan 25th Tina Hamblin and I attending Meet the Breed in NYC, 2 days of nonstop people. In that time, we saw close to 1800 people. We had Kaitu, Ghost, Luna and Hagrid there to spread the Buhund love. The bu's of course rose to the task of spreading the word of how sweet and loving the breed is. The puppies had a blast giving lots of kisses and getting lots of love. Ghost and Kaitu took a different approach, they chilled on the tables and gave their love from there. It was exhausting for the 4 legged and the 2 legged but it was rewarding to see all the love the dogs gave out.
