

☐

I'm not robot

reCAPTCHA

I'm not robot!

Payday 2 which perk deck is best for stealth

Payday 2 which perk deck is best. Payday 2 best perk deck for stealth no dlc.

Note: This is ONLY to be used to report spam, advertising, and problematic (harassment, fighting, or rude) posts. Your ultimate goal in Payday 2 is to pull off a perfect heist. Whether that be by going in loud or taking things slowly and making use of stealth there are numerous ways to get that loot. Picking the right combination of perks and skills will be important for either of these approaches and we're going to take you through the best payday 2 builds for stealth and the loud approach.

Firstly let's talk perks when picking your Payday 2 stealth build. The Burglar deck is widely regarded as the best perk deck for stealth although you will also need to own the Clover Character Pack to use it. This deck mainly allows for faster stealth actions. The Yakuza deck is also another good pick and provides faster movement speed. Then you'll want to pick your skills. Stockholm Syndrome basic, to help with civilian intimidation Forced Friendship basic, from the Mastermind tree provides extra cable ties. Transporter basic, from the Enforcer tree allows you to throw bags further. Jack of all trades aced, lets you bring two deployables High Value Target aced, provides marked boost duration of 26 seconds rather than 13 seconds Finally, Parkour basic for increased movement speed and ladder climbing speed. As for weapons, this is a little more open for debate. That being said the Judge with the Silent Killer Suppressor and the Cavity 9mm with a low profile suppressor are popular choices that will get the job done. Quiet throwables are best here so shurikens, knives or cards are a good option. Maybe being quiet and sneaky isn't your thing and you rather take the all guns blazing route. The Anarchist deck is a good option and provides you with lots of bonus armour abilities. Sociopath is another popular choice and grants for being surrounded by enemies. There are also bonuses for kills such as armour and health regeneration at higher tiers. As for your skills there are a number of great options. Iron Man basic increases your armour values by 30% Underdog basic provides a damage bonus when 3 or more enemies are within 18 metres of you. Scavenger basic, you're probably going to use a lot of ammo so being able to pick more up from further away will be helpful.

Body expertise basic, a portion of the bonus headshot damage will be permanently applied to hitting the body. Surefire basic, LMG's SMG's and Assault rifles gain 15 more bullets in the magazine. Steady grip basic, provides 8 weapon accuracy - perfect for when you're spraying Parkour basic is also useful for loud builds with that extra movement speed. Optical Illusions basic makes you 45% less likely to be targeted by enemies. Beserker basic, the lower your health the more damage you do. Bit of a mad one, but still fun. As for which weapons to choose. There is lots of debate here but the RPK is a good option to take with you as is the Specops SMG. Honestly though, go for what you enjoy but makes sure you have a lot of ammo. Frag grenades and HE grenades are the perfect loud choice. There are lots of different options for going both loud and stealth and I'm sure many will tell you their own best takes. But these are some good starting points for a stealth build and loud build in Payday 2. Your ultimate goal in Payday 2 is to pull off a perfect heist. Whether that be by going in loud or taking things slowly and making use of stealth there are numerous ways to get that loot. Picking the right combination of perks and skills will be important for either of these approaches and we're going to take you through the best payday 2 builds for stealth and the loud approach. Firstly let's talk perks when picking your Payday 2 stealth build. The Burglar deck is widely regarded as the best perk deck for stealth although you will also need to own the Clover Character Pack to use it. This deck mainly allows for faster stealth actions. The Yakuza deck is also another good pick and provides faster movement speed. Then you'll want to pick your skills. Stockholm Syndrome basic, to help with civilian intimidation Forced Friendship basic, from the Mastermind tree provides extra cable ties. Transporter basic, from the Enforcer tree allows you to throw bags further. Jack of all trades aced, lets you bring two deployables High Value Target aced, provides marked boost duration of 26 seconds rather than 13 seconds Finally, Parkour basic for increased movement speed and ladder climbing speed. As for weapons, this is a little more open for debate. That being said the Judge with the Silent Killer Suppressor and the Cavity 9mm with a low profile suppressor are popular choices that will get the job done. Quiet throwables are best here so shurikens, knives or cards are a good option. Maybe being quiet and sneaky isn't your thing and you rather take the all guns blazing route. The Anarchist deck is a good option and provides you with lots of bonus armour abilities. Sociopath is another popular choice and grants for being surrounded by enemies. There are also bonuses for kills such as armour and health regeneration at higher tiers. As for your skills there are a number of great options. Iron Man basic increases your armour values by 30% Underdog basic provides a damage bonus when 3 or more enemies are within 18 metres of you. Scavenger basic, you're probably going to use a lot of ammo so being able to pick more up from further away will be helpful. Body expertise basic, a portion of the bonus headshot damage will be permanently applied to hitting the body. Surefire basic, LMG's SMG's and Assault rifles gain 15 more bullets in the magazine.

Steady grip basic, provides 8 weapon accuracy - perfect for when you're spraying Parkour basic is also useful for loud builds with that extra movement speed. Optical Illusions basic makes you 45% less likely to be targeted by enemies. Beserker basic, the lower your health the more damage you do. Bit of a mad one, but still fun. As for which weapons to choose. There is lots of debate here but the RPK is a good option to take with you as is the Specops SMG. Honestly though, go for what you enjoy but makes sure you have a lot of ammo. Frag grenades and HE grenades are the perfect loud choice. There are lots of different options for going both loud and stealth and I'm sure many will tell you their own best takes. But these are some good starting points for a stealth build and loud build in Payday 2. Your ultimate goal in Payday 2 is to pull off a perfect heist. Whether that be by going in loud or taking things slowly and making use of stealth there are numerous ways to get that loot. Picking the right combination of perks and skills will be important for either of these approaches and we're going to take you through the best payday 2 builds for stealth and the loud approach. Firstly let's talk perks when picking your Payday 2 stealth build. The Burglar deck is widely regarded as the best perk deck for stealth although you will also need to own the Clover Character Pack to use it. This deck mainly allows for faster stealth actions. The Yakuza deck is also another good pick and provides faster movement speed. Then you'll want to pick your skills. Stockholm Syndrome basic, to help with civilian intimidation Forced Friendship basic, from the Mastermind tree provides extra cable ties. Transporter basic, from the Enforcer tree allows you to throw bags further. Jack of all trades aced, lets you bring two deployables High Value Target aced, provides marked boost duration of 26 seconds rather than 13 seconds Finally, Parkour basic for increased movement speed and ladder climbing speed. As for weapons, this is a little more open for debate. That being said the Judge with the Silent Killer Suppressor and the Cavity 9mm with a low profile suppressor are popular choices that will get the job done. Quiet throwables are best here so shurikens, knives or cards are a good option. Maybe being quiet and sneaky isn't your thing and you rather take the all guns blazing route. The Anarchist deck is a good option and provides you with lots of bonus armour abilities. Sociopath is another popular choice and grants for being surrounded by enemies. There are also bonuses for kills such as armour and health regeneration at higher tiers. As for your skills there are a number of great options. Iron Man basic increases your armour values by 30% Underdog basic provides a damage bonus when 3 or more enemies are within 18 metres of you. Scavenger basic, you're probably going to use a lot of ammo so being able to pick more up from further away will be helpful. Body expertise basic, a portion of the bonus headshot damage will be permanently applied to hitting the body. Surefire basic, LMG's SMG's and Assault rifles gain 15 more bullets in the magazine.

The lower a player's health, the faster their movement speed and armor recovery get when the Yakuza Perk Deck is active. What this means is that, coupled with a strong armor set, this perk will give players a devastating run and gun build. Burglar is one of the best stealth-focused Perk Decks in Payday 2. Its strengths are that chances of dodge are significantly increased, players can almost become invisible when standing still or crouching, bag times are reduced, and players gain increased armor recovery when standing still or crouching. While the gameplay has taken a turn in terms of pace, stealth builds can still be highly effective. Besides stealth, the bonuses of this Perk Deck also allow for team. Beyond this, this Deck reduces damage taken when in proximity to enemies and during hostage scenarios. Crew Chief is the perfect all-around Perk Deck in Payday 2 and every team will benefit greatly from having a player with this active. The Kingpin Perk Deck is the best Deck for offensive tank builds in Payday 2. With this Perk Deck, players basically become invincible for a short period of time. The main focus of the Kingpin Perk Deck is the Kingpin injector.

This consumable allows players to regenerate health upon getting hit for a short period of time. While it is active, enemies actively target the player too. This can make players sponges that can sustain massive amounts of damage all while their teammates clear up enemies. While the injector can be used an unlimited amount of times, it does have a short cooldown, making timing essential. The Sociopath is another powerful Perk Deck in Payday 2 that is more suited towards aggressive players. What this Perk Deck does is it significantly reduces damage when surrounded by enemies, recovers armor upon kills, and recovers health upon melee kills. As if that was not powerful enough already, close to medium-range kills can also send enemies into a state of fear which incapacitates them for a while, allowing teams to get in a good amount of kills and work on recovery. Overall, the Sociopath Perk Deck is suited for players that like staying in close and dishing out as much damage as they can in a short amount of time. Ex-President is among the most underrated Perk Decks in Payday 2. It is a very versatile Perk Deck that restores health in a unique way. Upon getting kills, players build up a storage of health that is applied the moment their shields die away. The Deck also increases overall health, and armor recovery upon kills. What this means is that a vast array of builds can utilize this Perk Deck properly — from close-quarters builds that need the health and armor recovery to medic and support builds that can use the extra health as cushioning while they scramble around to revive and help teammates. The Leech Deck revolves around restoring health for players and their teammates. Due to its nature, this is the ideal Perk Deck for tank builds in the game. The main focus of the Leech Deck is its Leech Ampule, a throwable that restores 40% health and divides it into two segments. Two kills will restore a health segment. Beyond this, the Leech Perk Deck also increases max health, and taking damage increases the health of teammates. Due to its nature, players are encouraged to have a close-quarters weapon such as a shotgun or an SMG. Not only does staying close as a tank build help with eliminating enemies but also serves as a great aid to teammates by increasing their health. This is a very reliable Perk Deck that at least one player should have active at all times. The Stoic Perk Deck is one of the most popular Perk Decks in Payday 2. The main focus of this Perk Deck is survival and damage absorption. Players get the Stoic's hip flash which, once active, reduces damage taken during impact significantly. All the damage players do get is applied over time and if players go a few seconds without being hit, the damage being applied wears off, and half of the remaining damage-to-be-applied is given as health. While multiple builds can utilize this Perk Deck, it is best used as a Tank build due to its focus on damage absorption and health. Players can also utilize this Deck as a hybrid between a Tank and a Support build, since its benefits mean they can run off to teammates in need of help and provide ample aid. Overall, Stoic is a very powerful, well-rounded Perk Deck in Payday 2. Payday 2 is available for PS3, PS4, Xbox 360, Xbox One, Nintendo Switch, and PC. MORE: Payday 2: Heist Crews We Would Pay For