FLORENCE

WINE AND BEER GARDEN

THE BEGINNINGS OF FLORENCE WINE & BEER GARDEN

Michal Bay had gotten lost hiking a mountain range outside Florence, delaying his return to the city. He was ravenous when he came across a little trattoria in Florence still open for a late lunch. The owner told him she had nothing left to serve but lasagna. She brought out a plate with layers of freshly made pasta, draped in a Bolognese-style ragu and accented with a creamy béchamel sauce.

It was everything Michal loved about the flavors and traditions of Italy in a single dish.

Michal has taken many trips to Italy since then. He welcomes you to Florence Wine & Beer Garden, where you can savor your own bit of Italy close to home.
