divine mind

THE UNIVERSAL MIND

There are many images we hold in our minds that represent something, personally and collectively. They are associated with many other representations. Everything we see, feel, smell, hear, think about and touch, we do so with associations, symbolic representations if you like. They bring collectively the experience of life upon Earth and each of us see, feel, smell, hear, think about and touch everything in ways that are entirely determined by beliefs.

Now with that in mind, let us consider further, everything that includes all time and all space is there for us to discern. We can do this with enjoyable experiences, or not. The first step in awaking to the universal mind is to know that to enjoy something lifts the vibrational frequency of that expression. It not only energises from within us a stream of concious that brings further experiences to enjoy, it also makes us choose to enjoy life or to hold ourselves within a universe in which we are apart from the creative flow, one in which we believe things happen to us and sometimes against us. Instead, using a very different philosophy we can become masters of our own universe and through understanding this, it means you are at one with the entire and in high vibrational enjoyment…loving every person and every expression of life we become happy to engage with the flow of the entire universal mind. Nothing as seperate, only the belief in seperate holding that experience.

With the universal mind at our hand we can enjoy life very much more. We begin to realise what has drawn experiences to us and how we have created those experiences for our discernment to then express further into every energetic exchange within all experiences. The subtle energetic world leads us to understand the nature of vibrational frequency and what has been ‘unseen’ to our eyes and our awareness previously in our life path, or perhaps it may have been something you have been aware of since birth and have not yet fully explored it. Often we are given experiences during childhood that we can become afraid of because the ‘adult’ mind has conditioned into the experience there is something to fear. Another step in the awakening process is to release fear of fear and then through becoming familiar with the communications that the body-mind recieves when fearful we become enlightened as to why those fears were experienced. Ancestral programming plays a lot in our lives, more than we realise as we hold to belief in individual identity. In the collective mind, the universal planes of conciousness provide our experiences. In the awakening mind we become aware of these influences and discern between thought that is serving our expressions as love and thoughts that are serving only the egoic mind or shadow-self. These are for our awareness in life to become a focus, not a panacea expression of external and internal, but moreso, all becomes something as one and the one connected expression is realised as the panecea — the universal healing program we are all to experience and in many ways already are.

What we then become familiar with, through further discernment is how thoughts are ‘programmable’, how they create within a ‘progam’ and how we, as one connected mind are here to experience the rising state of concious, or in another expression, our return home to reality in which the eternal identity, the heart in love of everything is the vibrational pattern we create with. There is no difference between any life expression upon Earth, only time in its created flow allows the experience to be had at different layers and in paradigms in which we believe we exist. Every person experiences something of this nature. How we express this and what we choose to express is for our personal journey, nothing more. If we choose to be students we learn . If we choose to be teachers we learn accordingly, but as with all things it becomes one and the same. The realisation that we are here to ‘live’ which means in this lifetime to express as love and enjoy life is within our heart. The time it takes us to do this is within our choices of mental layers. Here at the programmable focus, we can discern between thoughts that are to be released as ‘nothing’ and thoughts that can be transformed energetically to be realised as self-determining steps of awakening and those that are from the eternal truth of our heart that require no transformational change.

As students we learn to develop skills in life that lead us to inspire ourselves. As teachers we find inspiration comes from the students we believe we have. There are no mistakes. One may believe in mistakes, but in the end those who love to learn, learn and those who love to teach learn again to release the belief they are teaching anything at all.

CONCIOUSNESS FLOWS IN THE DIRECTION WE FACE. FACE TOWARDS THE LIGHT AND ENJOY THE HEART FLOWING.