

Art Gallery

Equilibrium: Across Heaven and Hell

Todd M. Anderson

This is a work of fiction. Similarities to real people, places, or events are entirely coincidental.

ART GALLERY

First edition. August 29, 2026.

Copyright © 2026 Todd M. Anderson.

Written by Todd M. Anderson.

Also by Todd M. Anderson

Equilibrium - Across Heaven and Hell
Art Gallery

Reflections on Faith
Believe
Connections
Garden of Harmonies
King and Prophet
Kingdom Building
Light Scholars
Never Give In
Paradise
Personality Program
Super Conscious
The Light and Filament
The Way of Man
Universal Records

Theater of Everyday Life

Mirrors for Reflection

The Anti-Personality

The Battle Between Good and Evil

Competitive

Angelic Wisdom

Trumpets Calling

Conversion of a Sinner

Angelic Identity

Standalone

Reflections on Faith

Theater of Everyday Life : A Christian Perspective

Part One

An Individualistic Perspective

Chapter One

When God's radiant light shone upon me, I felt immersed in a glow of unspeakable beauty. For He had a special connection with me, deep within my subconscious. Almost in spirit, but even beneath it.

On this day, as I sought prayerful communication with God, I was in my house, sitting at the computer where I could write about my experience. And in this conversation, I felt that God wanted me to stay where I was positioned, in relation to Him. I was to interpret that spiritual light on my own, as an individual, yet with total awareness of His grace. I turned to Him from within my soul. And from my perspective, where I was standing stationary but positioned where He wanted me to be, I saw that my point of reference was inside an art gallery.

Was this a memory of an art gallery I had been to or seen in my imagination before? I figured that if I were connecting with God in an art gallery for any reason, there was good reason to explore the beauty of the artwork. So I began to imagine the art gallery in great detail. From the balcony where I stood, I could see the large, open foyer below, with paintings hanging along the wall and a grand staircase in the middle. It was from this heightened vantage that I noticed a woman, walking alone across the foyer.

Without dictating where they went, I let my feet take me into the room that was adjacent to the balcony. The walls of the room were red, and only a few paintings were in there. As I was looking at one of the images, which was hanging near the balcony, the female spirit came up beside me, gazing at the image as well.

The feminine spirit said to me, "It is quite iridescent, isn't it? The lines create a sense of topolatry; the earth covers the canvas until the sea sweeps in over the land in an uproar. And this is all while the hills and gardens reflect spiritual light onto a tree. And if you look closely at the tree, you will see a small figure asleep against its trunk."

Then I realized that I was being shown her perspective, because I could sense what she was describing in the artwork. She had given her living account of what she saw, but by her description, it was as if the painter had created the work to appease her.

I thought it was beautiful how she imagined the creative forces that positioned that small figure, a man against a tree, amidst so much liveliness.

And I realized that, in her own spirit, she was questioning the reality of her own thoughts about this man who slept against a tree. The art gallery was then a mutual reference point, into which she was projecting her spiritual essence, and her own materialization of a thought made it real, while speaking to me.

I figured that, if this art gallery was in fact a reference point for both of us, and I could perceive her through the senses, seeing and hearing her as she spoke to me about this painting, that I was likely in her vision as well. So, I wanted her to understand me. Not just my thoughts about the paintings hanging in an art gallery. But the deep, spiritual knowledge of someone she found fascinating, in a garden all by himself.

So, I turned from my position within God's command toward her a little bit more. And I imagined her sitting in that picture with the man under the shady tree. As I turned toward her and tuned into her heart rhythm, we connected. And there we were, in a garden that she seemed to enjoy so much, talking under the Tree of Life.

And somewhere in my own understanding, in the broader subconscious of my mind and, at an almost spiritual level of awareness with God, I was in a building where artwork hung, discussing them with other spirits, and God Himself.

Under the shade of that tree, I said to the woman, "I suppose you are curious why I'm leaning against a tree today, here in this garden. And if that is so, what are your thoughts?"

She smiled at me, and she felt an immense urge within her to talk, mentioning what an absolutely fine day it was. But then something stopped her. She said, "I would stay, but without any rain in the forecast, I worry. I think I must be in Heaven, and it is not at all possible to talk with you now, because my family needs the rain on the earthly soil. I worry about how we are going to eat. And if we starve, then how will this garden exist thereafter?"

I chuckled as I began to understand that her memories were, in fact, alive, and becoming aware of God's heavenly throne. And the garden was, in fact, a place to worship in life until God permits us to be present with Him in spirit.

I said, "In Heaven, I suggest that you find me again. For I seek an answer similar to that you seek in your faith. And we have already found each other, somewhere in mind and memories. So, somewhere very deep down within ourselves, our spirits talk to each other in the garden of Paradise. But on the surface of your own co-creation story, you are experiencing a different state of consciousness altogether."

The woman seemed baffled. But, as in all good-spirited people, she began to open up to the attractive idea that maybe we would talk across the heavens, as if the universes were just timeless, and our senses bridge our perceptions of each moment as a reality just for us individuals.

I said, “I wish to talk with you about another idea. It is through creativity that I see your spirit in my own thoughts. But yet, we share our identities from within, so deeply interwoven with God that He permits us to exchange our ideas. From your perspective, you imagine us in a garden. A beautiful location with a cool breeze to set such a meeting for a chance to engage in this conversation. Whereas I see you very closely within the presence of God. Trying to solve an intellectual feat, in which you speak to yourself about others who can guide you and your family to health. Such prayers are welcomed by me.”

She internalized her intuition, as these were feelings the conscious heart could readily understand. And somewhere in a universe where she experiences the earth, her mind was focused on prayers over starvation and frustration. And with her heart, in prayer, seeking to discuss it through her spirit, she found me, or at least, God introduced me into the conversation.

She asked, “If I say that I think that you feel my thoughts, would that make sense? Because our conversation is spiritual, and not just imaginary, I am sure. Where do you live?”

I pulled myself back to God. For I was so extremely interested in talking to her that I was no longer aware of my position, relative to God. I had become a man under a tree in the garden, whom she perceived. And so, my spirit went away from her heart, in which she felt her frame of reference, back to the gallery, where she stood in spirit. And I stood next to her, admiring her so.

If I was to be so attracted to solving her problems, I wondered if I would control the outcome. After all, it was God who had introduced me into our conversation. I know the Father works in mysterious ways. And this method was to introduce our souls together from a higher state of vibration or reasoning.

I wondered if, in any of my lifetimes that I now projected for a co-creation story, I would ever reach such heights of partnership as I'd envisioned, or if I would ever meet this feminine soul again.

I let go of the connection with her in heart rhythm, for that type of attraction would pull me into her world. I was unsure if I could leave it any time I wanted, or if I would enjoy her vision of us so much that I could fall to her in pride.

In the art gallery, she began to cry, and I worried that I had left her too soon. I wondered about her and the family she had on Earth. Was she hungry? And I wondered: if I had first encountered her in a chance meeting out in the physical world, would I mention how I could help her suffering by providing my love and work in alms to make things better for her?

As a surge of spiritual light arose in me, God spoke within my spirit. He said, "Author, you fail to use your imagination in life. You have love and compassion for people, therefore, you would help others. Looking at things from the mirrored oppositional perspective, this female soul needs your sympathy. And, as she is experiencing hardship, your identity is sought in her story, just as she wants to find love from her imagined hero."

God continued, "The timing of events, her own perception in the present moment, and your position in an art gallery, these could not be further from the truth. For it is that I am your infinite source of love. I breathe life into new ideas and identities.

Your universal awareness in spiritual undertakings will be described. For your story of needs and wishes will inform others on Earth, at any given time, relevant to their positions, what those needs and wishes are to be manifested.”

“For it is by my gifts from my heavenly spirit that I encourage you to be part of my love. I embrace your thoughts. Your imagination and emotional valence are admirable as you have been in my creation story and shown your love for me. I return such hardships as you have endured with support for the passion you bore, to have your needs and wants fulfilled. And it is in my creation story, and not your personal identity, that I will support you.”

I entered that connection with God. He had extended his love, light, and laughter to me in soul. And now, after understanding what He offered, I chose to know His creation story for me. I relinquished my identity, within my soul, to collapse into His greatness. As we became unified in understanding and awareness, the bridge between us was in sound. And in that understanding, He suggested what my imagining of the repelling and attracting of people in my life could be representative of, and I found myself in my earthly home, writing at my computer. For it was that, together in Christ, I connected with God.

But I was myself in my body as well. Unique to my own understanding, but built in the Christhood of God the Father.

And I began to feel a shift in my energy. I understood in my heart that I could see my own view, but a collective understanding was also beginning to take form. And between those two understandings, which felt opposite but complete together, was God in connection with my heart.

I focused on my heart in this divide, and then on the bridge between the two worldviews. The unique co-creation story I told of myself was inherently assembled from the signs and symbols that I perceived around me. I gravitated toward the icons in my house. These artifacts in my surroundings were loaded with emotional value. And I was attracted to understanding some of the artifacts. I asked God if these were important to His story for me.

I felt like one perspective was that the surroundings were shaping my story with emotional values. This perspective would mean that I was accepting the suggestions on the surface of the social and cultural aspects of life. These emotions called other spirits to me, whom I thought of as my groups, those which, whether included or excluded, I associated myself with.

A second perspective, however, was very familiar to me, in that, given my unique abilities, I tended to act on my strong will and impulsivity. However, my co-creation story was being solved with the aid of God, the heavenly angels, and spiritual friendships. Therefore, all of the internal drivers that cause each person to identify with their ego were now being shown to me.

And like a forest and a tree, others influenced me, and I impacted them as well.

The female spirit that I had spoken with earlier had disappeared from me. Although I kept seeing her from a heightened viewpoint, like I had seen her in the gallery. She had seen me under a tree. Perhaps the understanding of the collective and uniqueness were being married ever so slightly from our awareness. And wherever she was in spirit, in a different place and time on Earth, I began to assume it did not matter. For when God was found between both halves of the whole, I would be reintroduced to her again.

Pleased with this account, I began to imagine what it would be like to understand that collectivist point of view. I thought of how this soul may take form in my life. And in my own uniqueness, I spoke a name I had given her, Sophia.

Chapter Two

The Holy Father spoke from deep in my heart, “Author, if you would like to understand how the heart relates to these ideas of individuality and collectivity, I will help you do so. For it is by setting the heart aflame that one’s destiny becomes known to them.

“Try to imagine me between your own understanding of something and the understanding of that same thing held by the group of people that surround you. Do you see that I am in that gap? Let me explain it this way: I am the binding between the many observant and the one observer. People have such diversified knowledge. And if they want to share knowledge effectively, it is up to them to bring me into the conversation.

“However, here, you have sought me first. And for that, I will reveal the proper way to incorporate such discipline in thought. The story you tell yourself within is self-absorbed and impulsive. You have a methodology or patterns in which you seek out in life that which confirms your own beliefs. There is little potential for growth with this perspective, and therefore it is beneficial to learn the perspectives of the collective groups that surround you.

“There are other spiritual forces besides me in the heavens that are at play between your solitary perspective and the perspective of the group. That is all you need to understand right now about the spiritual aspects.

“In a collective view, multiple people share the same ideas. The groups that surround you then impose an inward-facing circle of suggestions and reflections on you. Whether you learn to pick up on the social cues or not is your decision. And it is right to understand that, when you are part of the collective, you are then imposing the social pressure on the individuals. So, when an individual understands themselves as a unique person, then you are causing that pressure on them from their surroundings.

“The bridge between the two perspectives is not a linear one, as they are not simply two halves beside each other. Rather, they are two halves that oppose each other, until I am found. For I am the equality between the two opposing sides, and I unite both into a whole of understanding for yourself and the culture around you.

“Think of it this way: you are living within a dream full of adversity. And the adversity mirrors your strengths and weaknesses back to you. But you are allowed to follow a set of instructions that the group gives you. You communicate the truth to yourself, and deal with the perspectives and judgments of the group as you move forward laterally. But the circle has formed around you, and there is another person inside the circle with you, when the pressure begins. Therefore, you and this other person form individual circles, nested within and radiating signals outward toward the larger, outer circle formed by the group.

“The culture in a society encompasses all of the signs, symbols, and artifacts in the surroundings. And it is that impulse to find the suggestions the culture exerts on your mind that shapes your perspective. The spiritual world provides the emotional meaning of such signs, symbols, and artifacts for your mind to understand. And as your understanding of and attraction to the surrounding signs, symbols, and artifacts grow, so too does your motivation to express yourself. For what is language but the set of symbols and codes used to harness that primal energy of spirit to capture the attention of others in your environment?

“The signs, symbols, and artifacts are attractive aspects of communication with others. For example, when you tell a story, you speak from your own perspective, replying to the ideas of others and communicating your own. And everything is shaped by impulse and suggestion from these two perspectives. But ultimately, the bridge that connects the halves together is me, your God.

“Author, this is important, so listen carefully to us in the spiritual heavens. When you feel the pressure being exerted on you from your surroundings, you will understand that not all people seek me in their lives. Their perspective is formed out of greed and lust, and desire for power and control. Therefore, when they put a mirror onto you and employ strategies to understand you, they do so for the purpose to manipulate or deceive you. And they get you to act in accordance with their suggestions through mind games and hypnotization of the unconscious.

“Author, I tell you this because we began a conversation on how to imagine your vision that would tell a co-creation story with me, your God. And when you arrange a vision with me to fulfill your wants and needs, a battle in the heart begins between the suggestions from the signs, symbols, and artifacts and the pressure from the others around you. But you will speak to me in truth, and trust me to carry you to that passionate vision. And others will understand that their pressure has less effect on you, since you are grounded in my love and understanding.

“Author, this is also important: When I am bridging the two halves of a whole, that co-creation story is then also part of my creation story shared with the world that surrounds you. And so, they will feel my suggestions and resonate with your claims of truth and desires to live out a life for me. So it will be that you are thought of as a good and holy man who will stop at nothing to improve yourself and the world at large, depending on how that heartfelt vision is imagined.

“You will seek and find me. And the people who surround you will foster this as they incorporate you into their hearts. Therefore, my voice should be obeyed. For the greater trust you have in me, the more you will understand yourself and your surroundings. And the board or plane that your spirit is projected onto from the heavens will once more revolve as if on a pole in the heart.

“The board that is the universe on one side and me in Heaven on the other is like that communication between yourself and the universal collective. The board is a two-dimensional square with two surfaces. You can think of it as being checkered on the side of the universes. And on the side of the universal collective is all of everything that brings you to me, your Father in Heaven. That side does not include time, per se, but rather a unified account of that energy of spirit that all things in the universe have interacted with. It is my Holy Spirit, throughout the perspectives of all life on earth.

“By understanding that you have a spirit in Heaven that projects into the universes, you understand your unique body made of my clay. And on that flat side of the plane that you project from is a one-dimensional body of clay that evolves into a person in a virtual cube of three dimensions, as your senses interact with the world. Therefore, your body feels interactive through three-dimensional space and time, with motivation and agency. And space and time form a checkerboard, where polarities of attraction and repulsion are all around you in your mindful awareness.

“When you collapse back to the heavens, you will understand how time and space influence your life. And your spirit will gain awareness and learn through the advice given, through the angels, the Spirit, or my heavenly Son. How faithful you are to me is indicated by the amount of suggestion you are willing to assume and interaction you are willing to have with my Word through your intuitive heart. Therefore, the spiritual world is the basis for all decisions made and actions taken through all time, from your perspective. When you understand my spirit, both in this regard and through other people, who are experiencing life from their own viewpoint, then you will gain compassion and love.

“Earlier in your story, you were envisioning your angelic self and the other friendly, feminine spirit with me when I collapsed you into my love through a connection of love, light, and laughter. And when the board stopped revolving in your heart, you were attracted to a new story for your life. You wanted to put into language the symbol of the Word, which you felt emotionally as a balcony near the red room in that art gallery, and you wanted to understand her view of the man under the tree in the garden of Paradise.

“Do you see how you brought equilibrium in the form of love on the universal collective side of the board game? Your love was an awareness of the heart, and once the vision stopped, you began to seek out that same feminine spirit in your earthly life, on the checkered side of the universes. You promised yourself that love would conquer all, across time and space, and that your emotional awareness would guide you, through the signs, symbols, and artifacts that surround you, to find her in your story on Earth.

“Author, love is not a mirror. It is a representation of your faith in me to discuss the truth of our co-creation story together. And so, you must become aware of the strengths and weaknesses of yourself and the others in your surroundings to understand the Holy Spirit through space and time and incorporate its messages throughout your trials in life. That is, the game of life and the trials in life both motivate you to live out your passion for our conversations and putting trust in my Word. But, you must also understand the Holy Spirit through others, and deliver my holy works to them, explaining that there is a better world for them in my creation story.

“Author, my trial will examine how you bring our loving conversation into your surroundings with compassion, strength, and faith.

“When you saw that feminine spirit in your imagined world, it felt secure to you, and it seemed to last longer than it really was, due to your spiritual sensemaking process. Our conversation held the vision together, like a binder would keep thoughts together, as you entered her space and time, for just long enough to understand her wishes and needs. The spiritual light that created a lasting memory was spiritual light. And the natural light of your physical realm was forgotten about until the moment ended. This is because I am the spiritual light in the world, along with my Son, Jesus, and the Holy Spirit.

“Author, take a moment now to recognize through your own thoughts how to imagine what we discussed, as I am the bridge between those two halves. Imagine what love is to you. And take a moment to realize, in your heart, who is affecting you, as well as who you affect. And realize that love is affected by polarities of attraction and repulsion as well. Part of your motivation to support others through their suffering is your compassion. And in time, your compassion will motivate your actions more than greed or lust. Your love can be strengthened by identifying with a group, or church, that forms resilience through education and fulfillment of your needs or wants. Therefore, understanding the collective love around you is not done out of lust or control, but out of service and obedience.

“And in this moment, when, through prayer, you set your own memories in the heart aflame, ask the angels to be heard. And in that spirit of grace, they will have pity on your life story and include themselves to walk with you.

“For it is that Sophia, the feminine spirit you encountered, is a kindred spirit. And to lust for or covet her would be of disservice to your awareness of her. To exert control or use power to get your wants or needs fulfilled is something of strategy and bullying. And I will quickly forget you and our co-creation story, and your pride will bring you down. This is the repulsion to which love does not respond. Greed and lust are the two horns that are primary in the spread of evil. And you will need to lie and be deceitful to cover up such motivations for love, because anyone who sees, hears, tastes, feels, or speaks to that evil intent will be repulsed and not share their love willingly. And I will judge that control and power in your trial, in which you will suffer and be abandoned.”

God then said, “Choose wisely how to love. And let me guide your faith.”

I listened inwardly to God’s words, and in my heart, I found the space between the two halves of the whole. And between deciphering the suggestions and telling the story of my imagined Sophia, I began to feel that board, deep down in the heart, flip like a pole, attracting the idea of Sophia to my awareness. And I began to feel I was in her life, looking toward her from outside her circle of pressures, as she supported her own will to balance out that which she could accept and not accept. And, in my heart, God was connecting us together once more. And I was beginning to understand how we accept what God can give us and live out His faith in us.

And my vision, coupled with that outlook of helping Sophia's suffering, together in resilience, was the first tunnel I created in my life with my surroundings. I had never truly connected with another soul on Earth. In a darkened awareness known only to myself, my heart began to imagine the love Sophia would enjoy with me, as I was patient to understand her. And the sense of suggestions that had been culturally imposed about what love was supposed to mean to me, the greed and lust that I saw, felt, heard, tasted, and smelled from childhood onward, were now laughable. For my culture of Babylon had great evil in it.

I began to understand how my heart was set aflame with that idea of loving Sophia for the fulfillment of both her needs and mine. And how the people around me might not understand yet about a love that was to be embraced. The surrounding people on Earth may still feel and make sense of evil as it was suggested to them by the culture. And they may not know how liberating it is to realize the connection between people through God's loving Word.

Chapter Three

Within my heart was a constant focus which I centered my attention toward. And in my heart was the rhythmic pulse of my magnetic heartbeat. The heart has a magnetic pulse that spreads outward. And when I reflected on the information about the nested circles and the pole flipping over itself in attunement with Sophia, I visualized a spiritual magnetic pole, with nested circles whose arcs moved in opposition along the curve from one end of that pole to the other. And as I tuned in to the nested circles, I felt an alignment of my spiritual intuition with my perception of her, and I felt Sophia's presence.

Thus, the magnetic attraction and repulsion could be felt both intuitively in the spirit, and radiating outward from my heart, beating in my body. But the intuitive spirit encouraged me in my story to understand the symbols, images, and memories I was perceiving and reflecting on. This resembled the feeling of the spiritual presence of God when He introduced me to her. And, as I engaged in sensemaking of the experience, I felt emotions in my body, along with pressures, shifting from my heart to my central nervous system and mind. And what I imagined in my mind felt almost like what she was like to my senses in the art gallery.

"Author, the tunnel from your heart back to myself can be discussed. As your Heavenly Father, I connect you with other compassionate people to understand how they feel and think. The presence that is felt as so subtle, it is almost at an unconscious level that you understand it. However, you deserve to know more about how to perceive this connection.

“The imagined light that you recognize spiritually in your heart is from me. It connected to you as I wandered from your awareness. And in between all things unbalanced, you collapsed into my love, to recognize where you have needed attention.

“Author, you will accept as much hardship as enjoyment from what you perceive in life. You are aware of me in your limited spiritual knowledge. But you can sense my angels guiding you as a light scholar.

“Author, know that my being is not a hardship, but a forgiveness that is merciful. You must understand when you deserve my punishment, as I warn you early on, to protect you. And with these warnings, carried to you as messages from the angels, you can submit to or leave my love. The contrasting outcomes from the love from me and the pleasure from foolish earthly enjoyment come when the hardships are understood, and wisdom is gained. You can break through the spiritual blocks you have regarding the universal collective mind by testifying to the moments of sheer loving embrace of my heavenly wisdom.

“Now that you understand how and why I have connected with you through light, love, and laughter, I wonder if you can tune into something much different than the heart rhythm of another. Hearts attract and repel one another frequently. And instinctually, you feel when love from other people is being offered or withdrawn.

“However, in observation of the physical surroundings, I will offer to you a messenger. A seraph of my heavenly accord will enter your thoughts and mindfully offer something quite exciting, as the angel can be sensed in multiplying your personal attributes into new thought patterns. You, Author, who has given your heart and soul in tracing my own Word back to my heavens, will now be stilled. And through a mutual gaze, you will enter into my thoughts through the Archangel Michael.

“He who has been given the compassion to project light into people’s hearts and become attuned with their spirit can sense what their motives truly are. The sights, sounds, smells, tastes, and other perceptions felt will at first resemble a hypnotic overlap with your personality. And, almost subconsciously to your own felt physical perceptions, you will allow the new thought patterns to transform you.

“It might almost feel like the communication of love in a language of a sensory capacity. You will understand Sophia in a very nuanced way. Not just her physical appearance, but her subtle gestures, her symbolic patterns of speech, and the artifacts that she associates with in the world. You will have a growing awareness of these through your seraph. And that language, which will become blended into your personality, will be sensed and understood by her as well, as the signals of the nervous system align with one another. This will happen through spirit at first. And your breath will be altered, much like your mind will adapt to her way of understanding the world.

“Your worldview will be a curious trance for her as well. But she will find that there is a significant overlap of symbolism that you both consciously apply to the world. And this will engage her subconscious mind. For if you understand me, your Heavenly Father, and I guide you both to the same story, built through different perspectives, then you will collapse together through my love, eventually. And the trust that endures in the spirit, along with that enjoyment of knowing one another, will be recorded within the life memories and celebrated throughout your physical surroundings. Moreover, the memories of the world will become accessible to others through that secretive language of my loving embrace.

“Author, as your mind has adapted to its surroundings by becoming attuned to both halves – being a unique individual and belonging to one or more collective groups – it may become more sensitized to her perspective as well. This means that her mind and heart will counterbalance your heart and mind. And as you both rotate and flip over the magnetic poles in your hearts, the board game of love will revolve and flip in the mind. The two halves of the mind will then connect and discuss your feelings with each other. And she will discuss her sensory perceptions and social identities with anyone she wants to understand better. And the connection may grow deep enough that you develop a shared language that incorporates common phrases and jokes between you both.

“Author, this connection and development would show that your mind is becoming adept at the language of the feminine. And she needs you to engage your protective instincts to help while understanding her vulnerabilities. The hardships that you endure will become a gift of enjoyment with her. In your support for each other through adversity, you will bring an element of resilience to your relationship. And in your protection of her, you will show her that she can be vulnerable in your insight. You build trust with her through your actions. And in return, she will give you gifts in mind, body, and spirit.

“The Archangel Michael is strong, and willing to help you advance beyond this adversity to a greater awareness through my loving understanding and mercy. Look at the things in the natural world through a lens of physical time. The collective understanding of the love between you and Sophia will last a lifetime if you adhere to my guidance. Follow my instructions when my spiritual light overwhelms you. Practice compassionate love, which means suffering yourself and helping to build a resilient experience in your group of family and friends. And that lifetime will, slowly at first, build upon what is in the heart.

“All things have a pulse that resonates in the collective universe. I bring opportunities in the mind, which feel positive and negative, like feminine and masculine emotions. In the mind, you can feel when I interact through your loving embraces with other beings in harmony. The rhythms blend, and the cyclical patterns of time in your mind become logical. Confusion can become clear in the mind, as both halves begin to build that language of love.

“Now, Author, prepare your mind to receive the Archangel Michael. This will require you to shift your focus and attention away from the heart’s vagus nerve, which connects into the central nervous system, including the brain. Follow that path within the nervous system up to the brain stem, and allow Archangel Michael to find equilibrium between the left and right hemispheres. You may experience spiritual lightning bolts coming into the mind from the brain stem, awakening your patterns of thought. And when Michael finds your mind’s eye, allow his light to shine like the sun in your mind. And as the archangel connects into your mind’s imagination, remember to instinctively communicate with him from that magnetic pole in your heart. You can sense in his presence as a source of wisdom. And in this experience, your desire to know Sophia will grow.

“The Archangel Michael may leave through the imagined sun. And your awareness of your sensemaking experiences will be heightened, from unconscious to conscious. And Michael will continue to guide your thoughts, as I will continue to offer my love through the universal collective. The angels are a heavenly presence in Sophia and in your life. Yet, she is still mysterious to you. But in time, a natural and spiritual order will be established through my intervention and transformation for the enjoyment of all.

“Author, when the angels present themselves looking toward you in a mirrored way, love them with all your heart. And, for protection against anything hideous or dark, remember that my love is stronger than any social pressure to hurt or be hurt. And the angels that you perceive with any of the senses will seem more natural in nurturing your wisdom for Sophia.

“And in return, she will welcome your spiritual light in her mind. Almost like it was meant to be. When she shares a gaze with you, there is a twinkle that connects you across space and time. My spiritual light, which is informed by the seraphim, will work as a counterbalance to your magnetism. Trying to control this spark of interest would be cruel to you both. When you understand such a spark between minds, you will begin to see how the thoughts of two people can meld together.

“Author, I do not know how things will happen exactly. But, you have limited sensemaking abilities, and you tend to shy away from adversity; therefore, if you find this imaginative spark with Sophia in the world, do not hesitate to become attuned to her thoughts. Be curious about what she is thinking. Proceed with care and space. And if you always seek my guidance, you will always be granted natural wisdom.

“My gift to you for your hesitation to act will be her forgiveness of you. Her heart will soften, and she will offer you a chance to build trust with her once more. Let her vulnerabilities be appreciated and heard. Give my love a chance to multiply in your thoughts and actions. Imagine what creation has involved for you both to exist together right now on Earth, under what this tapestry of souls calls the celestial heavens. Let your experiences be interlocked. But separate yourselves enough to talk to understand one another. And in those conversations that take place, know that you will be weak and strong together.

“Author, the magnetic poles that keep you attuned to the signs, symbols, and artifacts of the culture of your surroundings will become reidentified. Star-crossed lovers will emerge, unified in their understanding of my language, not as mere words, but as the unconscious feelings I impart in you both. And you will understand, in time, how I use my wisdom to emphasize your love.

“Author, when you were in the art gallery, and I held the two of you together, you noticed she was looking at a picture and projecting her thoughts onto what were your expressed emotions, depicted as a man’s body under a tree. She was reading what you felt. And you gave in, willing to be absorbed into her thoughts and perspective. But did you realize that, while you were explaining to her what was occurring, the breeze blowing into the art gallery was increasing? You explained, from her perspective, your heartfelt, intuitive feelings of my love. However, your feelings, from your own perspective, were of pleasure in being with her, so much so that you brought that frame of reference into being for you both. The front doors of the gallery opened for you both to experience that strange loop of time, from both of your perspectives, in one collective memory.

“This Earth is, in disguise, a story. And the chapters of the book we collect in our lifetimes are a written account from your angels. The book is stored in the universal records with all other co-creation stories for people's lifetimes. The tapestry of my language is a curiosity, running throughout that record system. And like Sophia's perception of your artwork, your perception of the signs of my love is evident, as you work to physically embrace the creation story I offer to you.

"The stories you tell to show my loving embrace show me your obedient faith. However, the world awaits enjoyment from Sophia's understanding. As her narrative emerges into reality, she will exercise her judgment in a social setting and reveal her real nature. And your secrets with her will be explored through other family, friends, and relatives. In reluctance, she will expect your greatness, to provide her the story you say you will give. And with your trust in me and the signs given to her, I will continue to foster that spark of love between the both of you.

"Language is a difficult thing to master because it is not just written words or symbols. It is a feeling. Understanding the social cues between people going through adversity takes a feminine perspective of thought. And if you trust her admiration for her story, you will begin to understand this wisdom as nurturing.

"Within yourself is a spiritual connection that tunes into that feminine spirit. The angels will help you temper your frustrations when you acknowledge your denial. Trust her to understand social cues in thoughts first, and ask for forgiveness if you misunderstand her symbolic actions through the angels. If you realize what your denial was that led to the misunderstanding, then realize which artifacts presented will symbolize her feelings to regain trust.

"In God and spirit, let your thoughts emerge as different from hers. This mutual growth of affection is a balancing of all things between the oppositions of feminine and masculine. It will take action and attention, as well as an account of enjoyment and frustrations. Let that be your instruction, for now.”

Chapter Four

“Author, there will be a moment when my Word is intuitive within all things in the collective understanding, where half of your perspective lives. Through spiritual awakening, memories shift in the unconscious. I, as your God, will present the pictures you will witness as important. And you will understand the signs that point you toward the creation story.

“These pictures, which I shall raise to your subconscious, will bring you into a divine reality. One where the angels engage with your loving attributes. And you will understand the memories as a sacred symbology for life. And in your other half, in which you perceive the earthly realm, a checkerboard of magnetic poles is building up in the universe, on which you will eventually acknowledge your fate.

“Over time, throughout the cyclical events in history that steer your fate, are lessons that are understood from my creation story. And even if you remain obedient to my loving forces, both in your protection and your desire, you will fear me as well as seek me out. For the game board is not only focused on finding Sophia and bringing you together in the world, though you constantly seek her affections and thoughts, but it is also moved by my wisdom.

“Author, I will guide you until you will no longer listen to me. And in those moments where weaknesses are shared with the world, it will not only mirror those feelings and attributes back, but also test your resilience. And by now, you have gathered enough thoughtful actions of the collective to earn a spot in the hearts of those around you. So much, in fact, that a collapse of your spirit may evoke a collective response that would be shared among those kindred in spirit.

“The minds of all who know the influence you provide in life will reflect your symbols. And through an act of your passionate purpose, they will give you some of their strength. And they will bear your co-creation story, as you are carried for mere moments with them.

“The universal collective, which is all that is felt of the Holy Spirit through the perspectives of living beings throughout time, emerges as your foundation to live our beliefs. And in signs, symbols, and artifacts that are created in the world, through a collective group mindset with my love as a binding, you will protect your identity from evil.

“Author, without those connections to a collective group, your weaknesses can be mirrored back to you and absorbed through your acceptance. But having a foundation of understanding between the two opposing halves of a whole will bring my spiritual light of the Holy Ghost into your heart.

“The group that is collapsed and reidentifies with the co-creation story they have with me will be transformed by my loving will. I, as your Heavenly Father, will protect you in this way, in spirit. And Sophia, who will continue to be her unique self, will grow closer to you in nature.

“This protection, without which a group would be able to get evil to enter your sensemaking through their suggestions, is balanced to stand up on a faithful foundation. And while you stand up to the evil, as it tries to use your own weaknesses against you, you will pursue your own passions. Thus, the superconscious mind of the transformed group is like a prayer circle. And the strength that you regain in time shall have greater impulse control throughout the spiritual side of the board.

“Think of it as nested circles of pressure, both impulsive and suggestible, the self in the mind, and the associated group in the heart.

“When you grow from an unconscious individual, who runs from their fears, to a member of a greater superconscious, you stand through adversity with quicker growth. While a vain friendship that shows little purpose for the greater good lives with darkness. But when each of the friends in that nested circle carries one another with great understanding, the circle then influences the tapestry of life with positivity aligning with their beliefs.

“Therefore, the creation story inspires the patterns for each unique being to assume, that they may be filled with an intense spiritual light and rhythm, recognized in culture. And this spiritual light of ours, as the universal collective, gets stored in all actions through physical memory. And the spiritual light that has yet to be understood by the senses lies dormant within the unique being. So, all things spiritual project onto their checkerboard universe plane, where all their understanding is compared.

“Author, acts and thoughts of self-protection live in physical memory. The superconscious mind of the group lives in an instinctual future, yet to be understood. And the body is from the point of clay, from which the senses create a heartbeat, magnetically radiating outward. You are a social creature who lives in a biome of social languages, which speak about compassionate suffering and shared resilient experiences.

“Therefore, when you think of the garden of Paradise, you can imagine a collective knowledge of a future yet to unfold.

And those perspectives, held as a group or church, are many layers of realized prayers, actualized from the past into infinity.

“Author, when Sophia was looking into your perspective of this garden of harmonies, she felt only a low vibration. For her, it was like you were asleep under the Tree of Life. And that meant that you were not aware of all the life around you, providing their strengths for your weaknesses. And her family, who was thought of, continued to starve while searching for better outcomes. She did not know you, but she loved you enough to credit your spirit through her goodwill. And she answered what others thought of you from your surroundings. For her perspective was a harsher reality than what you understood it to be then.

“You were in denial of the struggle you accepted. Your faith was weakened by your acceptance of evil. And you were morally asleep, and your soul was in danger.

“My creation story, as your Heavenly Father, was therefore to offer this perspective to you in an art gallery. For your strength to understand and face her love was as a painter. You loved her because she was compelled to hear from you, despite your weaknesses. Yet her nature was strong. And her beauty was that she let you see the vision of her thoughts. But then, you became aware of her, and therefore, she noticed the social cues around you.

“Author, acknowledging this adversity that you have, of being unique and facing a life of memories both as physical and spiritual, then lets you grow strong, so you can protect her interests. You become strong in trust with me, and therefore with others in that superconscious group.

“This metaphor of a painter, who sees each being as a character, projected from spirit, is radiating out from within yourself. And your impulse to tell the story for others to hear is in response to an absorption of their communications and actions. Therefore, when she joined you under the Tree of Life, you chose to speak aloud. You asked her about herself. And she felt acknowledged to the extent she felt she could ask for your help, as she and her family were vulnerable.

“Author, I was the bridge to her asking for love in the moment. And the spark that created you to fall for her and protect her family was in another timeline or point of clay. The doors to the art gallery opened at one point, but that was from a breeze that you brought into her understanding. Love manifests the light within all who are exposed to me, your Heavenly Father. It was an awareness of her love that drew you toward her, and she attracted and repulsed you in those moments.

“Author, for Sophia, you were still a figment of her imagination. But in her heart, with which she lured others before to accept and befriend, the foundation of your passion for me was the rock she needed for confidence. As all things in her universe were not focused only on me, her God, but she could find strength in those who were passionate about the heavens. This characteristic was exceedingly strong, due to keeping that passion alive through her friends and family.

“And so, Author, the angels that are guiding you are working among that collective superconscious group. Your prayers are answered when they identify with you in their thoughts and actions. And family and friends will work to meet the wants and needs of Sophia.

“Author, I brought you into the art gallery, but you trusted your spirit to walk to Sophia; or was it your impulse? Or was it she who had prayed to find you? Did she hear of your struggles and focus on your heartbeat to connect with you through me, your God? And the angels who were called upon by those loving circles of friendships, was it your prayers they answered?

“In reality, you were not in the imagined art gallery, but positioned at home, writing away at your computer. But if memory is spiritual in the heart, and foretells an experience in our co-creation plan, which is more realistic? Because at your computer, where you wrote from your perspective with your limited sense-making capabilities, you still thought this was a dreamlike occurrence.

“Author, I question if you understand my reasoning for addressing such a tapestry in the universes, from both the checkerboard half and the universal collective. The closer you are to me through the heart, the more attracted you will be to my love and her social understanding. And the further away from the heart, as in the mind, you will be deeper in a moral slumber, to the point of being tempted by evil.

“From which extreme will you work? A past pattern of memories in which you evolved protecting yourself? And ignoring your instincts to obey my love and your group or church? The reason I speak to you about this occurrence was to move you to live in your imagination, set in passionate purpose.

“Author, your mind was made aware, however, the Archangel Michael thought for you so that you could identify only with protecting your dream for fulfillment. And Archangel Michael settled those fears, struggles, and temptations in your mind, while he impressed my Words upon others. And in obedience to me, Archangel Michael organized my creation story through the universal collective spirits of your friends and Sophia’s social network.

“The story told now is being imagined by emotions reflected through her social awareness for you. Your memories grow in her language to understand. And the sensemaking of the spirit catches her interest, moving her to tune in to your heartbeat as well.

“Author, the art gallery came before the garden for a reason. My gallery is unique to all the projected spirits who live in my Heaven. And she found you. She liked to understand the heavenly stars in which you assigned a celestial order to a belief. Your story with me brought her both fear and enjoyment. For she loved how you saw and felt me, your Heavenly Father.

“Author, she lives in Heaven. I will arrange for you to meet her again in person. Across time and space, her spirit will transform you. She is a woman who finds you interesting. And as you grow closer emotionally, you will feel the time warp from attraction across the checkerboard in the universes. And her love and liveliness will grow more intense from the time you first saw her from that balcony.

“In Heaven, you will witness a nurturing sensitivity in the social world of all living things. And it might be that, in the universal mind, as all information will be logically understood through the senses, all paired halves will become whole. And I will assume my Lordship through her heart.

“The manifestation of reality, in which you acknowledge Sophia and me, together again with you, is nearby. And some fear or hesitation might exist, as it can feel overwhelming to you. In isolation of love, those walls have been familiar to you in memories. But you have gained courage through adversity in passion. And all things that were slow in moral slumber will present opportunities to you in reality.

“Your dreams are entangled with my light. And I will support you to live out your dreams as you build from my Holy Spirit. You will be strong with my reinforcement, as you acknowledge my angels. The world I will give to you in the future. And the past will change and heal itself, moving toward my garden.”

Chapter Five

Within my soul, in Heaven, I was part of that game board. With God's help, I moved across the board, as He maneuvered me in His creation story. And the nested circles that magnetized me like spiritual forces around my group were pulled through our unconscious or subconscious identities.

The Heavenly Father said, "Author, you have many people within your heart who support you. I can show you their artwork, as you have obeyed me. And their fortunes were offered to their family and friends as well, so, in a strange loop of sorts, the goodness that they have found with you will be returned to you in spirit.

"Author, the angels you walk with are out in the world. But in their absence from fighting evil, temptations have increased in the world. However, when my Word is announced, more resolve will be cast into each person to obey my Word.

"If my Son, begotten and not made, was on Earth, would you not rejoice? Walking in his footsteps, you would understand how I am the light and the jubilation for the world. And evil would hide for tempting those in deep revelatory understanding of my Son's Word.

"It is like that for the angels now. And what the Archangel Michael cannot force into this world of spiritual battle with the devils, he will accomplish in time, through sacred acts of fulfilling my Word. Author, there are a number of people who have benefited from obeying my Word. And for those acts of service, will I endure the hardships of others who do not live by me.

“So I will discuss with you a number of things that are balancing on my game board. The game of life is in the universal collective half. It is the spiritual acknowledgement of how I work through the Holy Ghost from the perspectives of all beings. And my thoughts that bind to the checkerboard half of the universes are of an attractive quality. The Holy Spirit will bring those of servitude. And, having listened within the game of life, will they observe the goodness of my loving Spirit.

“However, I bind the opposite rotation as well. And those in the three-dimensional checkered universes who live only according to their own will are in the trial of life. And under the guise of supporting prosperity, they will decide what and who they put social pressure on. And so, the meek will ask for my strength from the Holy Spirit to protect themselves from such evil on the universal connectedness half of the game board.

“The rotation of the board is felt like a pole in your heart. Across the heavens, your moral compass in your heart will revolve like a magnet and send signals to and from other people. These signals will attract or repel you in your interactions with them. And so, through inspired speech, you will understand what the Holy Ghost would say in the situation.

“And this is where the symbology of the moment helps. From the checkerboard universes, your mind will logically fixate on the signs, symbols, and artifacts that your group is conscious of. And in those moments of uncertainty, when evil is tempting your soul through pressure to do, or to have done for you, things which you cannot accept, someone will step into a role to serve you. Therefore, wish for angels in times of crisis and evil temptation. Learn from observing the symbology, signs, and artifacts that are present to you. For in the moment, you will not understand how that protective advice is presented to you. However, afterward, you may understand a lesson from a spirit to take with you to testify, how I and my Holy Spirit inspired the group to assist. And you will recognize from your perspective what was learned.

“Author, this may sound fantastical at first. But the way to go from understanding the reality of the earth around you to identifying with my Holy Spirit as a warrior is faith. It is a natural and nurturing occurrence. And the more willing you are to observe and listen to my narrative for your life, the better you will understand the game that life presents. It is not always an easy move to make to wait and understand my love for you, but it will be understood for those who seek me in their hearts.

“Therefore, with the rotation of the earth and celestial heavens, the world will be magnetized around you. And all things, from your feet and the trees, all the way to the stars, will move together in opposing and attracting fields of charge. You breathe in life with the world that surrounds you. This world nourishes you in cyclical understanding. For the setbacks received are the opportunities presented elsewhere. And nothing is forgotten. Given the cyclical time, you will be aware of the world and how you, as the human race, have conquered the past. But these lessons of pride and mastery will only lead to self- idolatry.

“There is a need to listen to me from a collective perspective to harmonize with the earth. And in that harmonizing pattern, all birds, beasts, and people will learn from each other. When there is growth, both the complexity and order of life increase. This growth involves listening to me. And balance is found in the biome around you. However, if there is a prideful people who do not listen as a collective, then the world will grow unstable. And this evolution will find my love strained to a lower and lower level of presence. For the energy of a system can go toward me or away from me, given the intent of each person to obey.

“Author, you may have questions for me. And a full understanding of the concept of willingness to serve me or yourself is at least partly assumed. You are a mere piece on the game board of life. And in your trial of life, you are affected by the forces around you.

“Speak to your heart’s wisdom then, to understand my judgment from Sophia’s perspective. Within that memory that I put in your heart to become reality is the promise of fulfillment of many miracles. And in a chance encounter, where you feel the Holy Spirit work through your heart as a moral compass, you will change and evolve through witnessing and learning from the surrounding life. So much that the balance of the game board will shift you across the board to different locations. The nested circles of new people and new groups will adopt your spirit within their beliefs. And they will understand the balance of both sides of my board as well.

“The way this is shown in life will start small. My Word and creation story will be revealed to you through the stories others tell, at first. Remember, you are other peoples’ social pressure, and they are yours as well. For they are beings of a limited perspective, and so are you. You will communicate with each other to learn, and to find balance.

“Author, Sophia is in your mind’s eye as well as your heart. This ability of yours to imagine a world with her in it is nurturing. And you will find great comfort in the path of my magnetic hand rippling across both of your universes. For the artwork that I present to you is in return for your willingness to listen and speak in our friendship.

“Will you listen to the stories of the social groups around you? Will you be able to discern, through the Holy Spirit, between the evil and the good? Will you take the opportunities to follow my creation story set for both you and Sophia?”

“These miraculous events that evolve naturally from complexity to order are only a hint of the artwork that you will find in me. The goodness of my love may feel overwhelming to you at first. But stay in this relationship with me, your Heavenly Father. Because I see that you understand Sophia with your heart and mind. And the fulfillment of her prophecy will come true through the historical patterns that move through memories of Jesus Christ.

“In preparing you to meet me, your Heavenly Father, and toward our loving tunnel of light, laughter, and love, I have offered you insight into how your world works, regarding unique individuals and the collective. However, you have asked for Sophia in your heart and ignored the warnings of her personality as well. You have in your heart a mindset that she may be perfect for you, and that I would only bring people into your heart who are, themselves, perfect.

“Author, I read your thoughts and imagination. And I can understand that an imagined idea that fulfills your needs and wants seems so close to perfect that it is an end in itself.

“This prayer of yours to understand me in life and be led toward her collectivist mindset will be answered. And if you listen to the social groups around you, you will understand your weaknesses and strengths and follow the miraculous opportunities. And, though there will be adversity on this path, it will work both for and against you. However, listen and learn to read her ways when she is in your mind's eye, and you will learn that she has frustrations and fears alongside her torment.

"Author, the basis of life is to find me in equilibrium. The game of life is to enjoy the company through which your impulses are driven. And the trial of life is to endure my love with servitude through temptations of evil, across generations of lifetimes.

"You are beginning to understand this for yourself. However, you are a social pressure on others as well. But by showing compassion for them in their suffering, you will protect and relieve them, creating a bond of resilience between you. So, you will begin to listen to Sophia and understand her vulnerabilities. And how she understands her Lord, Jesus Christ. And as you tell the story of the journey you navigate with your heart's moral compass, the miracles leading you to find her in your worldview make her life a story to tell.

"Author, her magic in creating reality through social means requires a narrative that is collective in nature. And you, being focused within your heart and mind to understand that seed of love, will develop and blossom soon. However, the seed that I have asked you to focus on, with my love as balanced, has been and continues to be hardened by adversity. And the symbolism in her actions will naturally support the growth of that idea. To find each other in a dream would be awkward for her. She will ask others to inform you, through social signals, to wait.

"Author, the Holy Spirit will provide angels for you, at first, to listen and learn of these ideas in life. And those angels will begin to adapt your circumstances into new thought processes that will make her comfortable. This goes beyond affecting the social cues of the people around you. You will need to understand how the memories and patterns you belong within, both genetic and habitual, can be forgiven through the Lord.

“Sophia will introduce herself in this way.”

Part Two

A Collectivist Perspective

Chapter Six

“Author, I will explain what Sophia understands in her realm or dimensions. As you may have realized from your encounter in the art gallery, she does not and cannot replicate your thoughts in her own mind. Just as you cannot read her thoughts. However, for the sake of the story, I will command your thoughts from the perspective of Archangel Michael. And through this interaction of transformative knowledge, you will begin to feel her existence in your body and spirit, so that you may write out her feelings as you intuitively perceive them through my sounds.

“Author, I am your Heavenly Father. I bridge the perspectives of you, individually, and the groups that you interact within. I also bind or glue these understandings from a like-mindedness between all the heavens of a celestial order. Therefore, understanding your personal, individual intuition is an emotional understanding of my universal records system. All the accounts from life have their own record. And my creation story details how I interpret those who listen and abide by my story in a willingness to serve my harmony.

“Author, the awareness in your consciousness is reduced or compressed by the logical sensemaking processes of your eyes, nose, ears, mouth, and skin. However, what you sense and intuitively feel in your heart are merely sensed within your own worldview. This perspective then is of a cube – a shared reality of a universal mind, contemplating a creation story from all things involved in my creation story.

“Your perspective is limited to your own awareness. And what you understand in time and space as special to you, you will identify with in your co-creation story. This perspective is important to me, your Heavenly Father.

“I have watched the interactions of your soul within this cube of space. And the logic and intuition allow cyclical processes of understanding the patterns found in your memories. Author, merely understanding the patterns within yourself would be justified as living out a life. As these processes, along with any genetic material that distinguishes your self-discovery, allow you to understand the creation story, at least in a limited way. However, through your obedience and attentiveness to my Holy Spirit, my love can intervene and offer something much more magical to you. For it is this game of life that we investigated, turning it into a trial of life, which will narrate this account for Sophia as a collectivist understanding. Let me explain.

“Within the harmonious body of electromagnetic fields, in which all living things become animated, react, and interact, is stored a bit of memory. And my universal record of all living beings interacts with that clay, from different perspectives. So that my creation story from a universal mind, undertaken to understand the logic and intuitive emotions felt, becomes a co-creation story for any bit of clay being maneuvered or maneuvering with my Holy Spirit.

“Author, the physical self is a projection from the soul, through which the clay is manifested onto a plane, which is realized in the human brain as a virtual character inside a cube of three dimensions. This individuality from a universal mind allows you to see yourself inside your own mind, whereas the individuality of others allows them to see you as a projection of a physical and self-willed person. And the pressure imposed upon individuals by others, is the culture.

“The understanding you gain about other people through the sensemaking processes involved in sight, touch, taste, hearing, or smell then is accomplished through electromagnetic waves. And you reflect on others the interpretation of that sensemaking, which incorporates your limited knowledge of who, what, where, how, why, and when they are, based on their superimposed positions on and against all other magnetic waves.

“Author, in understanding the miracles of life as moving together as a body of stored memories, you will understand that your living cells store information and retain these same routes that provide awareness intuitively. That means that, in harmonizing fields of magnetic memory, your coded life directions tell your body how to remain in harmony with the environment. And you see, smell, taste, hear, and feel those painful lessons, which have provided you protection from death in previous generations.

“So in stories told, you feel, taste, see, smell, and hear the faster magnetic wavelengths within the universal mind. The material information of the body is a code that is stored in the heart and mind, through the living cells. And in each cell, these vibrations occur at faster frequencies than what your universal mind logically collapses into feelings and thoughts.

“Author, when Sophia sees and reads this information, she understands the waves of emotions read by the human body. She senses the directions or paths that the living birds, beasts, and other humans are taking in guiding their offspring. She maneuvers with the idea of the loving spirit of each person as it animates all matter underlying a consciousness with primary energy. And she welcomes it into her heart first and then her mind.

“For her mind evolves with the people in her surroundings. And her family and friends are paramount to her joy and her judgments exercised. She welcomes harmonies across her groups, in which balance is understood.

“Author, her sensory perceptions of the planet are grounded in her connection with the earth and the celestial stars. And in connecting through the bodies of all magnetic waves, she also reads your heart. She asks how to interpret what she has not sensed intuitively. And she wonders how you acknowledge her spirit, in which you also acknowledge her thoughts, as if you read them in a hypnotic method. For you can offer guidance to her through the spirit and protection of her through her vulnerable body that is flesh to her. And that strength in your heart, she questions to herself.

“Author, so you might understand my duality, being a binder of individuality and the collective, in which love is found between the halves on the game board – that plane created from one point of clay, and then rotated in between the left and right hemispheres of the brain. However, her sense of my body of love is as a Son. Someone who would encourage her in her rationality to forgive and suppress the logic of evil that some of humanity used to control and gain power.

“These projected souls from Heaven and in Hell are found in many finite waves, collapsed into their own senses, and from her perspective of intimate communication with her Lord’s Spirit. Therefore, the individuals sensing spirits across the collective half of the universes, are positioning their hearts, in which they live happily in good or poorly in evil. Her intuitive nature for child-rearing protects the family from any curses being allowed in. And it damns the evil who hurt her in memories through karmic justice of the Lord's judgment.

"Author, Sophia does include herself in that judgment. Only to occur to her Lord as a broken self, allowed to live among this marvelous and beautiful Earth.

"On the second half of the checkerboard universes is Sophia's understanding of greatness and strong connection to familial legacy. She will acknowledge her children, family, and friends as part of a memory or tree of life. That is, the material passed down in stories from familial and surrounding legacies carries knowledge to protect her loved ones. And in her knowledge of what is physically sacred for the amplification of the strengths or weaknesses in their personal characteristics, she encourages their training through her gifted timing. For Sophia realizes how to train the youth when the time is appropriate. And they will love her for her interactive storytelling for their benefit.

"Author, her burden of protecting the family by identifying through sensemaking what is good and evil in the surroundings, and turning those instincts into familial record-keeping, allows her to live in a timeline of advancing, discrete moments. These moments she perceives as past and future. And in the balancing of her neutral heart within her Lord's gifted nourishment, is a moment unfolding in the present. Meaning that she listens to the Lord in spirit, in her heart, only to be aware of how time progresses with her limited bodily sensemaking processes of the surrounding collapsed environment.

"What is consciousness and the unconscious mind? And how does time become both cyclical and patterns of discrete moments on both halves of life's board game? When a person balances the mind and heart together, are they at the mercy of attraction and repulsion, reliant on the belief in magical personal attributes to foretell behavior? And how is the vulnerability of one the strength of another in the same moment?"

"Author, these are her questions, which she wonders about you. And Sophia will include her wants and desires about family and friends to position her strengths for your awareness in sight, taste, smell, hearing, and touch. Author, the body is transformed in her scent. The heart beats in a rhythm that accepts her heart rhythm as she learns of your evil or good. And her smile flirts with your emotional values, which she intuitively understands by being with you. The light though, which is cast from your heart in waves into the mind, confuses her altogether. For she is remarkably suggestible to the world around her.

"Where you may see a vision of wants in your mind, if you open up to her intuitive and vulnerable personality, then I will bridge my love between the magnetic poles of your hearts to adapt and connect both of your co-creation stories.

"The circles that you understand as individual and group hierarchies will be hers to witness as social enigmas. And your account of living through adversity will give her enjoyment, as a successful story of your resolve being tested through your training.

"Sophia is guided by all the spirits of nature. And she sees natural settings as something worthy of her care and maintenance through strength. She will hunt and gather food as needed. And when she is starved, she will ask for her intuitive abilities to make sense of the life around her for resilience. So, for her wants to be met through the surrounding spirits, your masculine strengths of display, hunting, mating, breeding, imprinting, forming social hierarchies, and selecting leaders, is sought. She called to her spirits that day when she acknowledged you as someone to carry that memory and legacy for her branch on the tree of life.

“Author, the symbolic nature of her behavior is only understood through this motive – that she will trust in the surroundings as far as they accommodate her awareness for her family and friends.

“And if she does not like this awareness of the earth around her, she will be going to war for her family and friends. Because her storyline is the finite representation of the past into the future that she acknowledges as her present moment. And where you see infinity from chaos to order, she will acknowledge the death of her lineage in what is a zero state of collapsed time.

“Author, you and Sophia are two halves of a whole, albeit limited in understanding. She cannot possess all of your skill sets. And you can never recreate her knowledge of the surroundings, or the capacity of karma for good and evil. But in this blueprint between your belief in my Holy Spirit to move forward in understanding patterns and collapsing the universes into one realization, and her bodily sensemaking of the surroundings in creating the cultural legacy, your positions in the Lord will be guided.

“Only a queen can understand the man to be king. And only a man who resolves issues in his own habitual patterns to be acknowledged through her senses can be thought of as worthy by the surroundings.

“Author, your Sophia called to you to understand her famine and thirst. And your encounter under that tree in her garden of Paradise was something intoxicating for your impulsive absorption. But you never considered her wants and desires before your own in that art gallery. And yet, she let her doors open to a future vision of my love for you both.”

Chapter Seven

“Author, your queen has developed her psychic awareness of and through the magnetic vibrations of her central nervous system. Throughout the sensations felt in her neurons and other cells found in the central nervous system, those that pulse faster than the waves of the universal mind are feelings of saliency.

“Saliency is an awareness of things standing out from the body’s natural or typical resonance with the environment. And in that awareness and understanding of what details need to be brought to your and her attention, she asks the natural life to present her answers.

“Author, Sophia is kind and good-hearted in this regard with the natural order of the world. However, she might understand good and evil in a way that you are unfamiliar with.

“Since she is a queen, and she set out to find you, as one to couple in personal identities with, she would like you to understand this saliency better.

“Sophia understands that the present now is in a harmonized moment. Often, she will look and feel what the topic of discussion is and feel how important her emotional valence is with each topic. That way, she feels a flow of time as she scrutinizes how the lineages of herself and you are impacted. This is important to her to feel strength and bravery.

“Often, you will be absorbed into her feelings, in which she can direct your heart and thoughts. That way, you are aware of the intuitive feelings of good and evil throughout her body in this saliency. However, feeling these thoughts may disrupt your training of habits and lead you to create new imagined outcomes that you are not aware of having. Much like a subconscious feeling coming into your awareness in imagery and new thought patterns.

“Author, the woman who is evil can manipulate your culture or impress upon you cures that are actually curses. And in time, you will understand how manipulative a wicked woman can be, as she might destroy your spiritual identity with God.

“However, for Sophia you have waited. And I brought you together with her through that moment whereby her saliency in directing you to her carried you to a higher order in thought. Author, the good woman, which Sophia is, will circumvent evil from occurring by protecting the family in her heart. And in this protection from and repulsion of all evil away from you, you will understand how this occurs.

“For when you reject the social pressures that manipulate you through greed and lust, or desire for power and control, you will understand her ever-unconditional love, from which she shares her dreams with you to manifest in your mind and heart.

“Author, Sophia will be aware of but secretly insecure about pronouncing evil in an open and honest way. That is, you must first build trust with her before she can communicate that her spirit is intertwined with yours. And in offering such information, in which you merely understand her concerns, you will remain ignorant as to whether allowing these social cues will impact her sense of your worthiness, or yours of her merit.

“But she often understands how deceptive and widespread evil is. And Author, since Sophia is good, her vision of salient awareness is in moving people to protect her from evil. The angels will appreciate her willingness to understand her intuition first, as she communicates with spirit. And in maneuvering people, birds, and beasts, to welcome them into her world, she will be nurturing to what is good.

“Author, the timing of events is merely memories and stories understood through the resonance felt in her body with the surroundings. And in a sensory way, will she endure a place on the earth where evil is distant to her. Sophia will personalize this place as home with the birds, beasts, and other people. And in her relaxed body, her heart will be felt.

“The questions you may ask your queen then are to understand her comforting and loving awareness. From this saliency, which you can protect for her enduring lifespan, will grow a relationship, symbolic of the garden through nature, such as plants.

“The harmonies between what is life-taking and life-giving is felt through my spiritual light in the surroundings and in the amplification of love in both hearts. And this combination of felt awareness of my love is your truth. You both will live out this truth through imagined beliefs or spirited communications from and to the subconscious of both of you.

“Author, the good that she attracts is life-giving. She will foster the harmonies in that circle of life that surrounds you both. And your balance of what is needed and what can be preserved is the agreement between how to continue to live in the world together.

“The evil around you will continue in life, as there are many people, birds, and beasts not aware of me or the love offered in my balance. And this imbalance will continually cause ripples of pain across the earth, which speaks for these evil doers. Therefore, protection from evil will be her fondest strength in your bravery.

“Author, this is the same of all women who are thought of as good in my library of universal records. That is to say, each woman who endures having children or gives training for a good and wise upbringing to those around her, will be remembered as kind and generous. Her strength in understanding the timing of miraculous moments is also a sign of divinity working through her.

“Author, you use your heart and mind to speak in intuitive sensemaking to adopt a strong understanding of the Holy Spirit. And her use of making sense of harmonies in rhythm leads to unnatural events, unfolding the agreement with the other feminine aspects of the surroundings.

“Sophia has noticed that you both share a love for the creative arts, as you and she both create work through your emotions. And in an awareness of life, she asks for ways to move between past memories and future opportunities of miraculous events to unfold.

“Author, her senses that are in emotional congruence with those memories or what opportunities unfold move her to call to the world to have protection during times of need or desire. And this magic, as some have called her abilities, is closely related to the feelings in her stomach and the sounds she uses to react to the surroundings.

“Author, you have her awareness, and she lets you into her worldview. And to build more trust with her, an understanding of this salience and emotional congruence can be mirrored back with your abilities.

“Therefore, as you connect with her symbolic actions through your logic, you will interpret stories told through emotional intuitiveness. You call to the surroundings to have things brought to you. And in a limited way, you master these suggestions you make through language.

“However, she is in your thoughts. And she wakes you to her needs to position you to familiarity with her home. And in relation to understanding your strengths and weaknesses, she works in emotional congruence with your spirit so that your impulses realize her needs and desires.

“Author, you and Sophia are intertwined in awareness of my love. And you work through an infinity of spirit, yet she offers the present moment, where neutrality and discrete moments of time exist.

“Author, this is a spiritual recognition of her beauty and wisdom. And in recognizing how out of balance you are with her methods, you will be inspired to find her in your life. Your queen will then be made in your imagination. However, through an excessive imbalance of impulsiveness or suggestions, you will begin to attract your thoughts and repel her emotional congruence in the moment. If you talk about your own perspective too much and ignore her boredom with you, then she will repel your efforts. And if you overuse suggestions and intuitive actions to seduce her, she will feel like shutting off the unfolding opportunities to protect her from evil. That means that overconfidence in your abilities will prompt her to call out for others to protect her from you.

“Author, find my love. Listen to me in your heart, because you will listen to her voice to build that trust through your words and deeds. And she will welcome you to meet those she cares for to gain additional training on how she communicates.

“Sophia, therefore, is not at all as logical or creative as she is in your mindful thoughts. And the suggestions you understand often are made in the dimly lit awareness of the situation, so often flipped and mirrored over to understand yourself in your own egotistical bias. And your pride, presented as weakness, is not communicated as intended by her, as she cannot pronounce your evil to you, as stated before.

“Therefore, you may be maneuvered in pride just for her amusement. And the emotional congruence of the moment, that which she understands through a collective harmony, will leave you feeling questioned or embarrassed.

“Author, if you are honest in her memories of you, and your habitual patterns, you will understand her social cues to create intrigue. And in that way, which you are trainable through painstaking participation through an awareness of both strengths and weaknesses, you will bridge relationships to her community. And the culture, which includes symbols, signs, and artifacts, will begin to hold emotional memories attached to them through her wisdom and beauty.

“Sophia is aware of you nurturing your talents through her training. She is wise in how she unfolds miracles to let you develop in her surroundings more evidently. The past and future protect her. And she will hesitate to believe in your abilities if you are not grounded on the soil. Your belief system is hers, and the faith that you stand on is of respect and belonging to her earth.

“So Author, there will be a moment in which you understand yourself in Sophia. She offers her natural body, much like the earth offers nourishment, within her soul. And in that moment, when you can understand and appreciate the ideas Sophia offers to you, you protect not only her and her family, but in spirit, you are a guard.

“This warrior spirit, for her, is a training from her through me. And your offering in conduct is nobility for the people who follow me as church members. Do you understand how faith is in me, and in both of you? And as I instruct your understanding of her saliency and emotional congruence to the present moment, she will understand how you protect my creation story as symbolic of an angelic presence. And she will lead you back to me through her good expectations.”

Chapter Eight

“In your heart, Sophia is a warm and welcoming presence. And in your knowledge, to make me and her happy, you must understand how to replicate me into your actions. For it is that, as Heavenly Father, you will judge what is good according to the demands of the present moment. And for Sophia, as your queen, you will understand her cautionary tales for those around you both.

“Author, for her, the moment, which is neutral, is in the present. She will bring you to me from the resonating perspectives of beasts, birds, and other people. The collective universes, which understand my Holy Spirit from all other perspectives, are infinite. However, her senses in awareness of these resonating patterns work in memory from the past. Therefore, she only thinks about the future in a way that you can guide her.

“Therefore, your strategy in visions can help her understand where she is weak in anticipating outcomes. And the good and evil that are natural in her sensemaking living cells call out for understanding reassurances.

“Author, the prediction that you provide in life is to understand the social hierarchies and maneuvering of people from a social dimension of adversity. And watching her reaction brings wisdom to understand who to trust.

“The past memories predict future thought, since time is cyclical. And in those patterns are the waves that collapse into a projected checkerboard of space into each soul’s universes. Therefore, what you envision are assumptions. And like you, she has limited awareness; as does your universal mind.

“The mind is slower than her body because of the nature of how time works. To capture all the sensemaking processes and collapse the waves into a single perspective of yourself as a virtual character in your human mind takes logical and emotional computation. Time, from this perspective, is from spirit, and a summation of all things that have occurred. Your brain is limited, so you see, feel, taste, touch, and smell in the limited computational program that is your brain.

“However, the living cells of the neurons throughout the central nervous system have small sets of resonance directing how those groups of collective bodily processes work together as a whole. This is determined by the memories patterned through your physical body’s code or blueprint. And it has to work as efficiently as possible.

“Therefore, the awareness of yourself in thought is usually as a king who has a vision of social hierarchies and intuitive ideas from the spirit in Heaven. And that outlook goes outward from within. To counterbalance that, the queen has saliency and emotional congruence to the environment, with questions about how patterns become predictions, logically and creatively. This outlook starts outside and then goes inward.

“Author, these two pronounced perspectives are important to understand, because the miracle that you set in your heart that is my creation story for us in Heaven, is redeemable. Meaning that you understand her perspective and strengths to become a better person, amplified through her presence in the neutral moment of now. And with your strengths, Sophia will understand her vulnerabilities to understand an undeniable infinite truth from spirit as prediction.

“Each of your weaknesses and strengths can pair together to make my vision for the world harmonized and peaceful.

“In that garden, where you were asleep under the Tree of Life, is where she met you. And you met her in that red room next to the balcony in that art gallery, to discuss me, your Heavenly Father. And through both accounts, I was not only the force of love that brought you together, but the active knowledge you both sought between one another.

“Author, through your weaknesses in physical development and action, you will understand her needs for you to be willful and brave. And you will be trained by the surroundings, as I allow, and as she teaches. This awareness of us providing you challenges to grow stronger will keep you alert as you develop new skill sets. The untrained talents you have will be tested to become good and holy in this fight in her world naturally.

“And meanwhile, Sophia’s weaknesses in promoting and failing to challenge the social evils will grow. Where she had no justice before, she will understand a language fit from your spirit. And as your spirit magnetizes both your heart and mind through guidance, she will adopt spirit in a harmonized manner to speak the truth from my love. This bravery of yours and hers will be a force of good throughout all who become my church.

“Author, seek out her education and training in her world. And let your spirit harmonize with me in her mind and heart. And the tongues of the flame of the Holy Ghost will follow both your bodies in spirit.

“Sophia will train you to battle the evil that she senses in the world around you. And your intuitive prayers from her, through the angelic norm for such behavior, will present opposition as a spiritual battle at first.

“Author, her wisdom of evil and good is through my source of spiritual harmonies in that garden of Paradise. And her view of the garden was of a famine affecting her entire family, hungry and unfed. This was a calling to change her spiritual nourishment for the surroundings. And to protect her from evil as well.

“As an angelic personality, you describe your perspective through my works of brilliant art. And in each story, in which love descends from my story with you both, you seek a more balanced account in your life. For you were good, and needed faith in her to enjoy my love.

“Author, bring my creation story back to your thoughts. And in time, through her sensory accounts of your spiritual wisdom, you will become a king, and she will become a queen, through the love of a church.

“Author, the culture that was and is wisdom is dominant and off-balance from the actions of Babylon. And in your land, where all seem to expect my forgiveness as a given, they are unafraid of my judgment.

“Sophia is muted in this land by the evil she endures. And the masculine thoughts are dominant, as they are of individuals, unaware of their communities around them. In Babylon, nature is saved as an afterthought. And all things physical are seen as impulses of desire.

“Author, your knowledge of my judgment has endured, that you might find her in your heart. Your attraction with her vision is both a compliment for your own memorable habits, working in the living cells of your body, and a frustration of misunderstanding yourself in the culture of Babylon.

“Author, she will find her own way to describe my knowledge of the harmonic balance shared with you. These nested circles have strength around my two-sided board, which I place all life on. And she will pull you into her universe soon to acknowledge her needs and desires for a balanced life, with myself as love.

“Sophia then will offer you training to protect and defend my kingdom of Heaven on Earth. And you, in good judgment, will secure your place in her garden through a king’s legacy.

“Author, the Holy Spirit in my heavens is a binding or glue for this love within the collective universes. And the source of my love in the physical domain was my Son, Jesus, who had a mastery of both my creation and his passion as a co-creation story.

“However, your legacy is based on his testimony, as discovered throughout your lineage. The patterns of what was a cyclical memory of humankind collapsed as he passed from the physical world to the heavens. And as your Lord, he is part of the spirit that you protect now through Sophia’s understanding.

“You, Author, are to redeem both men and women as you fight to advance the Lord’s intent. As a mutual co-creation story, through the Lord’s understanding of evil, both Sophia and you will be tempted through the fires in Hell. And coming through to her understanding of protecting humankind against devils as an angelic being, you will understand the severity of men’s greed and lust for women.

“Author, you will be well-aligned with the Lord Christ’s spirit, so as to unlock a spiritual norm for her symbolic behaviors. She will pray to the angels to look after you in your spiritual battle, and for all the collective universes to push temptations away from you.

“And you will develop a faith that grounds her trust in allowing you to be knowledgeable of her most cherished thoughts of her surrounding world. Author, this is a sign for which angelic trumpets will be called. And in her wishes, she will bring your co-creation story into alignment with hers and with my creation story, throughout the universal records of all.

“In my universal records library, I will begin to see a convergence of churches, mosques, temples, and other prayer circles. For, if she is aware through my Holy Spirit throughout generations, she will relive Christhood. And she will become obedient to me as I speak to her awareness.

“The miracles from before in history will begin to recur. And the foundation of faith will strengthen as the spiritual battles in Hell begin to take form, through angels first. And the guidance that Archangel Michael offers you will help you understand the spiritual battles. For his knowledge of my vision presents a different way to recognize evil as a social hierarchy. One in which the Morning Star, a source of evil that fell from the garden, manipulates the tempted with his power. And he strives for all evil to inflict pain in all lives in the world.

“Author, ask the Archangel Michael for his guidance, and protect your thoughts from possession. And in time, you will understand her legacy for you instead. And her love for you, in how you evolved to meet her needs, as well as her desire to be equal in the world with you, will be a great legacy.

“Sophia will endure hardships and pain physically, through which evil is a constant, and pressure socially, through the collective groups in the surroundings. Therefore, where she senses evil, you will, through our love, be aware in your heart of the strategy of the devils. They move through the hearts of those who curse themselves in the world. In that silence, where a sad story emerges for them, with themselves as the victims, the torment will begin before the evil tempts a broken spirit.

“And that chain of reasoning between all things evil is such a powerful entity. Symbolic of the embodiment of Lucifer or Azrael itself, this chain of reasoning creates hatred in civilizations. For what you see in her memories of evil, the miracles of the Christ will show how evil Babylon’s culture has become.

“Author, that is the memory of Christ’s passion. His love was offered to create peace in the world through obedience with my living standards. And his legacy in this world was goodness, until power and lust controlled the story through a language to possess things in accordance with each ego.

“Author, the living Christ’s message is then to let Sophia recognize the devils throughout the world and bring them through Hell to my judgment. In the spiritual battle that ensues, evil will not win. And in her salient understanding of history through a sensemaking of other men and women, her gaze will stay holy.

“Your awareness of her positioning to battle evil will be sensed in a mind’s creativity. And in spiritual recognition, you will interpret how the angels, and my Son, the King of Kings, will use your talents through an offering of servitude.

“Author, my creation story is to remain between Sophia and you. And the legacy she shares will become real in your mind, as the signs, symbols, and artifacts around your surroundings shift to an evolved pattern from Christ Jesus. You will acknowledge your queen in life. And your interpretation through language will be obedient to my love, through adversity and servitude.”

Chapter Nine

“The checkerboard side of the game board includes a unique style for all the prayer circle acting in accordance with my wishes. I will offer the game board within the culture, which is married into the story of Jesus Christ, which is where evil is particularly weak. And my domain on Earth will grow as a story within your kingdom, Author.

“Do you understand how, through larger narratives that speak to your kingship, the legacy from Sophia’s family and friends multiplies the spread of your influence. And in that realization, in which she positions your greatness in line with fighting evil as did the Christ, that culture is my artwork.

“In the gallery, we shall welcome many observers, and they will belong to your vision with Queen Sophia. And the tree which you slept against will be a sacred symbol of her knowledge, to talk about your training. For the limb from the Tree of Life fosters a new culture in the new city of Jerusalem, which will offer great foundational truth to establish a faith, giving many women a way to talk of saliency for the land.

“Author, you will spiritually endure hardship against a great evil. And that land on the earth will not allow their resources to be diverted toward religion. For it is Babylon’s mission from before to witness hardship in exiling themselves through spiritual separation from my heavens. The evil elite in power will maintain a course that they will fight for over their own language. And they will continue to enslave the masses for their own power and lust.

“As your kingdom can claim, the new creation story is a seed yet to find Sophia, through which my artwork will grow in the imagined gallery. And for all the frames in reference to this new Jerusalem, a kingdom which supports my creation story in culture, each work of art will reference this Tree of Life.

“For from that awakening is a realization for Sophia’s family and friends that they need training from their mothers, daughters, wives, sisters, and female friends.

“Author, the Christ’s spirit you fight for in the world is your intuitive heart aligned with my Word. And through the battle of evil that tortures and tempts the people, they will not listen to Sophia’s signs, symbols, and artifacts. They will persecute the newest culture and despise their losses as my creation story is formed through the feminine spirit.

“As you learn of the language that is shared, the shared laughter between both Sophia and yourself, the secrets of her love will be revealed through this culture. And you will perceptively understand her references through those signs, symbols, and artifacts, as she is your queen. And the memories which were hers and yours will resonate in the training of the newest kingdom. For it will be that new generation of youth that will readily understand her and be willing to adapt to my love.

“Author, my protection of your thoughts from evil possession is carried out through the angels. And they show their appreciation for the advanced skills you have developed in training to fight evil. Archangel Michael will offer his guidance to train the men and women of an angelic identity. That is, when all is won in the spirit, the women will readily adapt and ask to position their men across the culture of the new Jerusalem. And your kingdom will be fed from my initial seed of love and many legions of angelic warriors.

“The gallery then will be introduced to your culture through symbols of stories told for each person who has merit within communities. And their stories will be told, as they trained to advance our greatest skill set of goodness. That is, a kind humbleness and compassion to endure the conflict, which was an evil culture that turned its back to my land.

“The angels will be present in pictures, and their lives in the world will be repeated through a universal record system. For it is that our treasure is not at the expense of the evil feminine spirit any longer. As she will be in balance again, and the conflict with evil will be defeated. And through her saliency, will we better understand a language where equilibrium is found through animated life on earth.

“Author, your spirit aligns with the Christ in a way that allowed you to find an answer to the anomaly in the Morning Star, the devil, for Babylon. And that anomaly will certainly be a root to train to be aware of for all men and women. For it is by that evil in the world that most men and women are deceived into believing their current culture of secularism is adequate, away from me, their Heavenly Father.

“Author, your patterns will include the belief in the Christian memories from the testimony of Jesus. And his living spirit will be praised throughout the land and used as an example for training on maintaining an awareness of evil.

“To understand evil, the darkness of a shadow devil in the heart will be introduced. And each man will face themselves, when their weaknesses will be shown through the feminine spirit. And the war against evil, which tempts all men’s pride to remain arrogant, will be fought. For it is that their memories, in which greed and lust are central to their own understanding, will gently become aware of the culture of their social groups.

“The men will fight within their own vices and weaknesses to strengthen their resolve and remain humble to their pride. And for their heavenly kingdom on Earth, they will build trust in intuition of the heart as well as their religious beliefs.

“For it is that most devils turn such childish weaknesses against men for their own evil intent. And all is given to the men and women who idolize themselves, for their gods will fail them.

“Author, the men will undergo such gentle training to promote the strength and resolve of bravery in each child. And the women who help the men adjust to the growing adversity will take care in nurturing this spirit. For they will understand that bravery takes time to acknowledge in the world. This nurturing from evil and acknowledging nature’s timing for bravery will be included in the cultural stories told from that seed of imagination and intuition in their hearts.

“The frame of reference of a work of art in my gallery is one in which a female spirit will be spiritually understood with a paired love. And together, in their earthly life, will they grow a land and culture that represents her saliency and emotional congruence from their lifetime. The memories then will begin to be admired as the children understand a new culture of training. And through newly added artifacts, symbols, and signs, they will adore such artwork in the community gallery.

“Author, the church of Jesus Christ was one that paired with his apostles to share his gospels on the earth. And his message of truth is the basis upon which you will share your thoughts and actions. For it is that the Christ’s spirit is found in the heart, and in tune with the spirit, and you will understand his love through her.

“Author, her love is spiritually adorned for the new culture within the community of the art gallery. And your understanding of your position in her land will be through the established church. The new culture will include her wisdom and beauty through the art of my creation story, and this will balance her want to maintain a basis of the living spirit of Christ through the church.

“And the evil, which was primarily of a political order in which power was assumed by elite representation, will be rediscovered through a humbleness in her kingdom. Author, this church of Jesus Christ will redefine the role of the living spirit of Christ, in which intuition of my Word will be the foundation of the decisions made for the community.

“The universal records will remain as a way to tell of the stories of men and women who were great in the communities, to learn from. And through their co-creation stories, in which they will build their social culture in the land of the new Jerusalem, they can be trusted to lead and govern their communities.

“Both men and women of the new Jerusalem should be elected into leadership roles. And the training should continue at larger levels of governance to protect the communities for this new understanding. The focus of such leadership will be balancing between the masculine spiritual faith in Christ and the feminine gifts to realize my creation story within the culture of the kingdom. And in balancing these two forces of masculinity and femininity, the heart of the community will be resolved.

“Sophia will continue to learn about the church of a new Jerusalem, while you will decide how to administer and organize the community, according to my interaction within your spirit.

“The culture of training men against evil will continue to bridge their understanding of my love with the women’s understanding. And through this understanding of their own evil, a humbleness will inspire the new generations how to love according to the living spirit of Christ.

“And that fight in which evil will attempt to persecute and destroy, I will demand obedience to me, the Heavenly Father. And I will send my angels to guide the children in this training as well.

“Sophia then will be greatly adored. In her setting, where my new church will exist in the land of new Jerusalem, she will be thought of as an ideal queen. She will be memorable, in that she will watch and adore me, her Heavenly Father, on His throne. And over the years, as she witnesses much suffering, which she repairs in her time, she will offer herself in tears. For it is that a compassion for her family, including your spiritual family as hers, will engulf her own spirit.

“May her garden become symbolic of my nature. And may her throne be a chair which houses the symbolic angelic presence of her heart. Which you will understand as your presence, through which my begotten Son, the living spirit of Christ, will announce decisions for the kingdom. And these decisions will be announced as Sophia offers her comment on which art in the kingdom is salient to present to her throne. For it is that she has mastered the training of men to become great soldiers. And the suffering of her people will be told through announcements in the universal records, in which fair and just decisions are enacted on behalf of the women and men.

“Author, there is an attitude beyond training that the culture of the new Jerusalem will be endowed with. For the inclusion of men who think and act without greed or lust will fail to promote ideals of power or control over the land, materials, and people. And in promoting her healthy outlook to protect her friends and family in a relaxed state of life, they will emerge in a garden. This garden will represent the good and harmonic balance of women and men. And therefore, when men approach women, the women can be at ease, knowing they are welcomed as a wife, sister, or friend to him. And the church will be built on respect for both her and his belonging to the earthly soil.

“Author, there is no need to understand any more of this relationship of men and women in the culture of the new Jerusalem. That is because the people will need to understand how to train against evil. And as a reward for providing such training, there will be a harmonic balance for the women.”

Chapter Ten

“The art galleries will line the street toward the church. And the men of most importance will have their stories told in greater detail with closer proximity to the palace. And the art galleries will become and include the pictures of men and women within frames built upon a common seed. That is, the Tree of Life will be part of their story, in which the branches and limbs will be told through familiar relatives and friends.

“Author, as each gallery adopts such intricate detail for a story, which one lifetime can have, given its impact upon the whole culture, the gardens will grow from mere flower beds to lush preserves throughout the church’s property, as embedded works of art themselves. And the interactive image of my creation story, told through numerous awakened and conscious people, will be the half to the whole of her natural beauty.

“And the altar for Jesus will present his welcoming for his second coming. And in front of that, a pool of waters will be filled for reflection. For, in the creation story, his church was to be filled with Himself, as the Holy Ghost.

“And there, you will find a hall, and off of that, an altar room to worship me through acts of community development. And within that courtyard, where all things are connected, will be sounds of a garden of harmonies, which will lead to her and your throne in the second building. And that room off the church will represent your knowledge of my decisions in welcoming a church of people, praying together through a shared suffering. And with compassion to hear where their needs are, your queen and her audience of women and men will acknowledge a force of spirit to train the people under. For it shall be that each man or woman who seeks counsel must give reason in their record as to why it needs prayer. And in time, the circles of prayer will become greater in awareness to build advice to guide each, and forgive their weaknesses, which has led to an adoption of evil as sin.

“Author, your decisions will recognize my rule as you govern in equitable decision-making. And you will guide her soldiers to protect the kingdom, in which she will be loved.

“So it will be that my love will unite all through the co-creation stories, from different perspectives of a limited understanding on the collective universes side of the game board. That is also to say that my Holy Spirit will guide all those awakened in the city of a new Jerusalem to think of life as a game to be enjoyed. And where the people overlap and build love into friendship and family, jubilation will be found.

“It will also be that the art galleries, which are stories to build my creation story, will be built from a king’s understanding, and with the prediction of social hierarchies being a trial for life. And the kingdom will be included as one sovereign identity under this trial, in which adversity will be met with faith in bravery. And as a symbol of my recognition of the kingdom, I will build my awareness to bridge life and goodwill through the understanding of all my people, the women, men, and children of the kingdom.

“Author, your seed in imagination was guided by me in the introduction to a feminine spirit. And in time, over this story, you have learned of my love and both of your awarenesses to consciously form identities with me as a new culture. And she will feel her body making sense of grounded, discrete moments that are positive, neutral, and negative. And in harmonies, she will learn through your spiritual awareness a prediction for how people, beasts, and birds will increasingly balance weaknesses, toward order from chaos.

“From this, she will learn of the earth’s magnetic fields, to build on the knowledge of her family and community. She will learn to attune her mind to that balance while reaching inward to understand the fate of her family and community. That is, your understanding of a universal mind, in logic and creativity, will be provided to her as a leader in light scholarship.

“Author, her vulnerabilities in predicting the future by way of staying in tune with the universal mind will be challenging for her. And in time, she will understand my light, laughter, and love, as you understand my Son. And the Christ’s message in her heart will be carried on waves of miracles to increase an obedience to his greatness. The gardens will flourish, and the adoption of balanced sounds between and in people’s hearts will be overwhelmingly felt in the kingdom.

“Author, you, as part of the legions of angels and earthly soldiers, will be trained with certain skills that the kingdom requires. And training the generations of my children will take a natural sense of companionship to meet their needs for strong leadership. Therefore, the women and men assuming positions within the community to adopt the education of these children will recognize their power of reference as role models. And as power comes into balance with naivety, the children will help you learn humility.

“Author, the men and women trained to bridge a connected universal record system into the community through administration will understand their heart’s intuitive grace and saliency. Therefore, the heart will be a training ground of prayer for these new generations of children. And over hundreds of years, the will of my spirit will be represented in a culture worthy of my artwork.

“Author, the heart and mind are then a balanced force, between which I am your Father. And in both halves of the plane, which spin and rotate according to my understanding, you will be included with Sophia. Included will be all who I accept into my love for that idea in a new creation story. And the different ideas will run as a tapestry of the collective universes, much like the gardens growing throughout the city. And as my plane of two halves stops, the people will be assigned a new understanding from the Holy Spirit in their unique lives, according to the three dimensions of the checkerboard universes. And each frame of reference will be another co-creation story from the life of a soul projected from Heaven into the garden.

“Author, do you understand yet how this culture is currently shaping the individuals through the training of my trial of life as a game of love? The trial of each soul to endure such suffering alone, while together, there is a resilience of will to evolve together toward understanding my Son as their Messiah. His passion will be the centerpiece of each church. And the community will have a passage from a courtyard into an understanding of their suffering. This is where the knowledge of me in Heaven will again attach my love through a collective passion through the testimony of Jesus Christ. And the strange loop, where all things unite together, from halves to a whole, will be understood and adopted as infinite love.

“Jesus was in the creation as a man, through which he was the divine spiritual reality of a heavenly understanding. And for the good of such creation, through which the Word became flesh, the women will understand the church. And in appreciation for her kingdom as a training ground of evil for good, the men will soldier onward through a garden in the courtyard and the royal throne room.

“Author, the collapse of my creation story is not an ending of the story for the Tree of Life. In the universal record system, which says my Son will come again as Messiah, the waves of the universes will become still. And time will become a discrete nothingness, in which all things will feel his presence as good and overwhelmingly all-powerful. Yet, life will be adapted in his growing spirit as a communion of faith within the sensemaking and emotional congruence found in each man and woman. For his timeless unity will overlap with all who are attracted to his powerful, loving mercy.

“And the evil that repulses his language, his words will strike fear into them. While all others obey his mastery of heavenly origins, the repulsed will acknowledge only his humanity. And their evil will be overcome by lessons and parables of training. And those who still repel the attractive radiance of Jesus Christ will forget their families as a connection to the spiritual heavens. They will harden their hearts. And over time, they will fall so far into moral sleep that theirs will be a second death.

“Author, the Tree of Life is giving to the vines that flower around his love. And the spiritual kingdom will regain my balance. For it is that the unique creation story from my willingness in your wisdom to write will predict his ability to save all the good and holy of the church through his mercifulness. And in welcoming the kingdom of a new Jerusalem back into his Heaven, the last of the behemoth of evil will leave the earth for a dark realm.

“It will take patience for your heart to understand and encourage her experience with the universal mind. And her pressure to train a man through social stories told will adapt her heart and his natural mind. For it is, that each is required to be understood for an equality between both halves to a whole.

“Respect and belonging will be adopted throughout my son Jesus’s passion. And his fulfillment of my relationship with my children on earth will realize their goodness through his eyes, mouth, ears, nose, and skin in sensemaking. And their spirits will collapse, and their tunnels of prayers will rejoin to a new board game. One in which a checkered past and future are not ideally positive or negative, but of an origin as neutrality harmonized as my reflection.

“The waters of the universes will crystallize, and the children whom my begotten Son adopts into Heaven through his love will resemble their evolved state of angels.

“And all will be remembered as a promise. All the memories of imbalance between two forces will be understood through my reflected love. And the artwork and creation story will be my greatest gift as a Father. For it is my love that trains all those angels who forever stayed with my spirit to redeem the line of Adam and Eve.

“The beginning of the garden will then be an end of life on Earth, and the new Kingdom of Jerusalem will be the opposite half to that start. And all the life that is in memory is not only of a universal record system, but a collective ending to my story. Where it starts will be where the story begins to end.

“Author, the strange loop that you understand as two halves to a whole is an answer to a riddle with a question resembling the beginning. Once the story is understood by my angels, they can rejoice and live throughout life, conscious to realize my goodness and mercy. And those who failed to understand such goodness will be lost to that nothingness that was of a discrete time, personal to the frame of reference of the present.

“My eternal love will be of greatness for those who enjoyed my spirit as a collective harmony. The angels will continue to help aid in lifting anything else to an evolved awareness. And all that was, and is, and will be, is my begotten Son’s. His love, laughter, and light are the ideal passionate knowledge. His love will be reconciled as my greatest accomplished co-creation story, turned creation story for all, ever after, and ever will be.

“His was, is, and will be my balance that binds your feminine and masculine nature.

“And this was what I promised to share in this story with you, Author. You have done well in writing this aspect of my creation story, such that I will end your death with a renewed knowledge of that Tree of Life.

“When Sophia asked for a man to protect her through her spiritual prayers, you were dreaming under that Tree of Life. But that dream you had was not of her. And it was not of yourself, but of an angelic past, waiting to be realized for the greatness of my kingdom. And that was my fulfillment of a desire or aspect that you wanted to share with Sophia.

“To meet you would nourish her every need and bring satisfaction of awareness through a mystical binding called heavenly soulmates. But she did not tunnel into the projected plane to find you as you were absorbed in this riddle. The meeting in my art gallery was, to be honest, in the earthly dimension. You two were together there on Earth as part of my creation story, and in heavenly awareness of spirited love.

“Creation and co-creation, or whatever you may call my running words inspired together in your language, was merely to move you two together, closer to realizing me in both of your worldviews. Author, over time, she will understand how you came to me and obeyed me in that universal storytelling I called a universal mind. And from my graces, in which she trained many in a culture to fulfill my Son’s greatness, was my mercy, so that you and she would both understand the heavenly realm as angelic. And Adam and Eve, who were those who, understandably, fell through to the waters of the universes, will be the last understanding of my Son’s light. For he redeemed the world for all who accepted me. And to those lost in the seas of forgetfulness, theirs will be forgotten of love in my reflection. And the souls who collapsed into my heavenly Son as a final judge will now be a part of my everything, my all, and my totality.”

Thanks be to God. Hallelujah!

Also by Todd M. Anderson

Equilibrium - Across Heaven and Hell
Art Gallery

Reflections on Faith
Believe
Connections
Garden of Harmonies
King and Prophet
Kingdom Building
Light Scholars
Never Give In
Paradise
Personality Program
Super Conscious
The Light and Filament
The Way of Man
Universal Records

Theater of Everyday Life

Mirrors for Reflection

The Anti-Personality

The Battle Between Good and Evil

Competitive

Angelic Wisdom

Trumpets Calling

Conversion of a Sinner

Angelic Identity

Standalone

Reflections on Faith

Theater of Everyday Life : A Christian Perspective

