Reflections on Faith

Part One

The angelic sounds from afar brought me into a conversation with the heavens. And with me in that conversation was the angel Raphael. He said, “All who read this shall understand one important idea – that the lives around you are unsettled and in constant motion. The movement of all things, ripping and tearing themselves apart and repairing themselves, is foundational to the living systems of life on Earth and in the universes.”

The angel Raphael continued, “Praise rings out for all the spiritual connections in life. Those on Earth who are knowing or who become aware of these connections, let them become heavenly as their faith increases. Let their spiritual inclination bring them to the fount of spiritual rebirth, and into their heavenly home. And in that rebirth, where they cool the torments of the sinfulness in their souls by drinking the spiritual waters, they will once more master the art of compassion.

“This homecoming to the heavens requires those who are sinful to face trial. And in that trial, where sins that were waged are weighed against faith, they may find redemption. Grace, then, is bestowed upon those who have shared their wisdom with others to help them find connection in the spiritual heavens. Therefore, that nourishment that they provided through their talents on Earth provides nourishment in Heaven for their souls.”

The angel Raphael continued, “Author, there are moments throughout the days in a person’s earthly life when they focus their efforts on learning how their spirituality and their relationships mutually strengthen each other. These connections are then made known to God in Heaven. And with the introduction of God into the conversation, this new and holy paradigm shall transpire.”

The angel Raphael said, “In wisdom, there is nourishment for the soul. And when that wisdom is shared, connections are made in the tapestry of life. The understanding gained through these connections is far more varied and complex than what can be gained through spiritual prayer circles alone. As you build upon your connections in life, you feed others wisdom, and you receive the forgiveness asked of the heavens.”

Then, in His magnificence and glory, God entered the conversation. He explained that He was not there merely to offer a contextual understanding of the stories that I transcribe from my conversations, but also to nurture me and the readers who follow Him toward the graceful springs of the fountains in Heaven.

The angel Raphael asked, “God, are you that compassionate and merciful? Would you allow this mortal man a chance to understand your ways?”

And God responded, “Listen carefully, for there is much to discuss. The anthology of mankind on the earth has been in question since the downfall of Adam and Eve.” Then He said to me, “Author, there is a growing insistence from the spirits in Heaven that the day for repentance be acknowledged. As was written, the time of repentance will come. This day will bring an illumination of conscience whereby the humans who have grown disgruntled can face the spirits, heavenly and holy. They find a purer attitude of grace, not merely within themselves, but in the nurturing given by me in Heaven.

“All beings live in a time where episodes of spiritual miracles occur over days, not longer. Each day is a period of growth for my children, and this growth will bring about the awareness to understand that something is being built that is more powerful than anything else known to man. The power, however, is not of man, but in the efforts of the work done by man to establish a law that is consistent with the day of reckoning. And that final day of the sinful and wicked will be established in this era of mankind.

“This means that the spiritual and angelic beings from Heaven will take physical form in the world. The call of the trumpets has begun. And the sound that vibrates with spiritual delight through each person’s chest is one of knowing satisfaction. That is, the wisdom they hear is their forewarning of the end of days, or the day of reckoning. Those who hear and follow the beat of my living word in the Savior Jesus Christ will understand that the gift he gave of himself will be present in life. And the nourishment found in this new knowledge of the rise of a kingdom, and through connecting and spreading the Word, is good and pure.

“I do not wish to establish a rule of authority over mankind that dictates the movement of the world’s inhabitants. My desire is to establish grace. However, those who are wicked will fail me, as they will fail to understand this grace within themselves. They will perish by fire and torment as the sun disappears from their sky.

“Their night of agony will begin after three days of suffering and pain. Their torment will be a descent into darkness. And from this darkness will emerge the sound of the gnashing of teeth and the cries of their souls, cursing those who are holy. And that descent into the hellfire of spiritual damnation will mean the end of their return to the earth or the heavens. After the remainder of their years on Earth, the shadow devils will guide them into torment.

“Through connections of praise made by the faithful, I will return, that I may fulfill my promise of paradise on Earth. The fathers of the past will reawaken to me from their graves. And the mothers of the generations will fight through the spirits of all women to mold the children into upright and proud servants to the Lord. Therefore, all those who were in the graves, who lived throughout humanity and who bore children, will cede their souls in Heaven to return once more to the earth, in spirit.”

I withdrew from the conversation, since I had no children. But, knowing that I was curious about this circumstance, God drew me back into the discussion.

“Author, there are many who have not borne children who will nevertheless find their home in the paradise called Earth. And yet, I speak in terms of generations of followers. So remain steady, and I will continue.”

And God proclaimed, “There will be many people in the coming generations who will understand how angels intervene in life through their words and actions. And this nourishment shall mark the second wave of trumpets sounding. The angels of this earth will continue to pursue peace in the world. These soldiers of Heaven march forward in heavenly service toward the Lord’s kingdom. And in pursuit of that honor of their heart’s conscious understanding, they will speak to many. Their thoughts are found in their universal book of prophetic wisdom.”

God paused a moment before He spoke again. “The damned will suffer. And as time moves forward, their population will diminish, particularly as more and more gain spiritual insight. As more people receive heavenly wisdom and awaken to their angelic home, the desire to bring that awareness to the masses will grow among them.

“Author, there is a connection between every single person, place, and thing in the world. And in paradise, this becomes a connection between all as a whole, unified and complete. We in Heaven encourage the sharing of education and wisdom in the world. And in those days of darkness and reckoning, the spiritual illumination and awareness will prevail, spreading farther and faster as more share their knowledge, until no temptation remains.

“This will take hundreds of years to accomplish. It shall not come to pass until Satan has been muted and crushed. Then, the paradise will be sustained in my heavenly home.

“Listen, Author, for the story I tell now is about how you will come to me and ask my forgiveness. And how all men and women will come to me in repentance. The glorious day of awakening to the angels on Earth may begin to create light and allow people to hear my words through my resonance in their hearts.”

Then God remarked, “Misery in my sight is when humankind fails to choose itself over the temptations of the serpent. And in those temptations, they scratch and claw at each other’s eyes, noses, teeth, ears, skin, and tongues in such a way that they lose their sensibilities and their sense of common good.

“When mankind reaches that measure, all must become one with the heavens. Their atonement and return to oneness with the Creator, the Father, is good and wholesome.

“Author, would you like to know who is responsible for each of those scratches and claw marks? It is not me or the heavens, but the serpent himself. Many people are uncertain about who made the decisions for them, and many believe it is me. And in that mistaken identity, they look for their master to save them on the day of reckoning.

“The serpent disguises his voice when he speaks to his followers, but he will be master only to those who fail to recognize their truest master in the heavens. As they thwart the heavenly God by turning away, the god they follow leaves scratches and scars on their friends and family and community. However, Satan will be at a loss for words when faced with the spiritual light on the last day.

“In those three days of darkness, the souls who are lost will fall into Hell and join the serpent. And in such fire, they will gnash their teeth, their ears will hear sirens, their eyes will see nothingness, their noses will smell fire, their skin will feel torment, and their tongues will taste bitter acid. With the decimation of these senses, their serpent master will be destroyed, crumbling into itself. And what was from nothing will remain in silence, forever muted, for Satan will tempt no more. Although he may have overwhelmed my heavenly abode through storms, plagues, disease, and death, he will not be triumphant over me. And, like any other being in all the universes, he had the ability to say he was disobedient and needed my love in his heart.

“Author, these stories you have heard in your heart are meant to help you follow the right path. They will allow the accomplishments fueled by your passion to exceed my ambitions for your life. However, there is a right path to choose, and it leads toward an understanding of the heavenly paradise. And to follow that path is to eat from my Tree of Life.

“Now I work through these stories, drawing you from a distance into closeness with me. As the Heavenly Father, I would have agreed that your actions were a miracle, in a way, for I did not always intervene when you listened and created the stories you presented. But you found other spiritual beings, including your own spirit, who shed light on the journey, so there are flaws in the stories, for what you perceived in communication with them is not identical to what would have been revealed to you in full oneness with me.

“Author, there is no higher ambition for us to understand in your case. Your journey was determined through conversations and soul searching, and this journey led you to me in your lifetime. And therefore, as your God, I will offer you the chance to repent. That is, if you come forth in the spiritual life, you shall eat manna in paradise.

“Those who nourish themselves with my fruit will gain insight and wisdom, and in doing so, they will also create their own obligation of service. But in no way will I attempt to deceive you. And the temptations of Satan will fall away into nothingness. Therefore, as you keep communicating with those in the heavens and explaining what you witness, you will find favor with me in Heaven.

“When the trumpets sounded, the agony of mankind was released, providing further proof that you are in the end of days. In this situation, you fear nothing, Author. And you will have nothing but proud reactions from me. As for so many others, however, they will lie and cheat their way into the torment of hellfire.

“Author, take this fruit from the Tree of Life and be nourished. Let the stories you convey be free of lies and deception. Any discrepancies between the words you write and those you hear shall be reconciled in your heart once more. Thus, you are protected.

“But you should endeavor to absorb the wisdom of one majestic saint from the past. And with the knowledge gleaned from the fruit of the Tree of Life, and from the pages of the saint’s book, you will be saved, and you will save others.

“The word that was breathed into your stories will lead you to an ending with me in Heaven. In paradise, we will be together.

“Meanwhile, the warring factions of humankind, those who scratch and claw at one another, destroying each other’s senses, will vanish from the world. This will occur over a span of years, and all who exist now shall see and understand the process. However, throughout the years, as they relive the book of wisdom, their resistance and past memories will change.

“Author, my service to humankind is not fixed. It is a lively spirit that will serve all those who listen to the heart for the sounds of the angelic trumpet. And in that moment when they hear it, the memory of Satan will fail them. And they who will follow me to paradise and be mentored under my love will let that adversary fall. For it is in this memory that temptation gives rise to sin. In it, my love is resisted. Ultimately, humankind will resist my love to the extent that they experience the unfurling of the tapestry of paradise in their own world.

“How does mankind, which follows the trumpets of angels, create or devise such wisdom in the world? Within the tapestry of life, my living waters form an angelic fountainhead of flowing love. The angels provide and clear the straight path forward in the hearts of many. Their loving embrace is inspired by my love, and they offer charity and act in accordance with my heavenly teachings.

“Let the light of the Savior return through the world. This spirit of Christ is alive in all spiritual light. That is, the spiritual light is amplified by my Word in his transformation to human form. That transformation from spiritual to physical being is of the heavens. That emotional feeling you receive from me is like being lifted into the sky. Each person will keep reliving this experience as they continue to embrace Christ's love throughout their time as light scholars.

"The wisdom of the Word I provide is harmonized among many tongues and received by each according to their understanding, as it reaches everyone at once. For my followers will not only feel the angelic trumpet's sound a second time, but they will encounter Jesus in his worldly form.

"The serpent will see, taste, touch, smell, and hear the efforts of all those who are tempted and fallen. They will work against you to keep you from the loving embrace of the angels. And yet, your belief in my Word will keep you on a straightened path to my loving light. The joy that will be felt is beyond imagination, as all who have been nourished will welcome this nature to the world from within. Humankind will then act as one in heart.

"The spirits of old will be heard, and they will say that those who accept their angelic wisdom will overcome all who resist. This spiritual tradition of spreading the knowledge of prophetic wisdom will carry on throughout the world.

"But despite the abundance of wisdom being shared across the world, no saint or spiritual visionary has shared any new ideas of my love. This includes you, Author. Though you have shown obedience, you continue to learn only from the past as you act through charity to share your knowledge with those who want my understanding. To understand and turn away from the serpent is the moment from which a great story shall emerge through a shared humanity.

“Give yourself time to understand this love. And give me the sovereignty I command in my kingdom as you share this story in the world. Do not look for any spirit other than me. I am and will be the holiest order. And in our conversation, I will share the words to be written in your books.

“Take comfort, for I will give you time to understand, to work up the courage to say that these are my thoughts on my worldly perceptions, and to say the Lord has intervened. The wisdom shared in the traditions from the past to the present forms the foundation for the answers that may now resonate with everyone. Through the words you hear and turn into written stories, I will share my wisdom. And as the trumpets sound, I will share the feeling of resonance with my children on Earth.

“Author, when that feeling resonates in your heart, you will become whole with my people and favored as one who leads with emotions. The heart will reveal to all the spiritual world behind a veil of lies and disgraceful sin. This veil of darkness forms a spiritual block that must be removed from those who live in temptation, suffering from greed, lust, and envy.

“Cool the tongue. Live in my Tree of Life, as its roots intertwine with another system of tunnels that have become unfurled in humanity. And let the Tree of Knowledge be lit with flame.”

As the meditation deepened, God said to me, “Author, I have sensed a change in attitude in you since we began this conversation about the sounding of trumpets and the day of reckoning. Did you realize that you were angrier before? The transparency I’ve offered with my Word has helped you understand how your attitude was misguided before now. Now the understanding you feel within yourself is present and alive!

“That place in your spirit where all things were dead to you before, there is a name for it. You experienced some abysmal situations in your youth because of the denseness of this feeling. But you have used denial to mask your feelings about these things about yourself. And Author, that denial of spirit was a troublesome foe, a block over which you stumbled as you let others tell you what you should be like. It invited temptation to hide your true self and avoid becoming a leader in this world.

“This story now takes on new gravity as you recognize the truth of what I have told you. Now, I want you to move past the attitude or laziness that lets you blindly follow what others think and submit to weak-minded individuals. You must remain stronger than them. Author, as you become a leader, as trumpets are sounded and felt in your chest, you will feel a noble reckoning announcing the power of me, your God.

“It is through this power, which is not only felt but gifted to others, that you begin to understand freedom. The grace within my love is precious. That alone should keep you from committing acts of wickedness. Just hold steady for a moment to understand the greatness I want for you.

“This attitude is carried in your memories throughout your life as well. Early on, you let others speak for you and define your voice. But the voice of the narration will regain clarity, and recognizability as your own, throughout your life. You will understand how others influenced your attitude and tempted you to cross your loved ones. Author, this may seem stark. And the difference may seem subtle, in comparison to the past. But this process helps you to hear my word in your heart, as it purifies the heart, where I abide for moments throughout your life with your spirit.

“My grace is something which the powerful want but cannot purchase. As all becomes clear to them and they realize they cannot have these tender moments, they gnash their teeth and cry, moan, and wail for the devil to receive them as I have you. Author, there is nothing the devil will say or do for them. Nothing that will help them ease their burden or that makes them feel alive.

“Think no more of the trumpets sounding or the day of reckoning. I will now bestow upon you a maturity of voice and vision.

“Author, there will come a moment where all things that are not torched in the world will be elevated in light to the heavens. Those who have a spiritual inclination will understand that elevation, in spiritual terms, means growth in spiritual knowledge. And the roots and branches of the Tree of Knowledge will be left as ash and dust on the heavenly ground.

“This is a safe place for you, Author. You will not need to sense or endure any physical effort here. Your spirit will understand this before your conscious mind, but the effort you must put forth to act or move objects now will be no more in the heavens.

“Author, when you begin to embrace the people you will lead, you will follow this advice. However, out of fear, you will be tempted to erect and fortify walls as a stronghold to protect your spirit. Maintaining these walls, and therefore, engaging in actions to try to control the world around you, will only tempt you to fall to a lower level of spiritual understanding.

“The people that you will lead will no longer need concrete evidence showing how you influenced the world. Instead, they will sense your love and find that to be your attractive quality.

Therefore, Author, be generous with your love and be mindful of the temptation to erect the walls that would hold you within a prison.

“Come to me in your heart now. Come be elevated to where you feel the heavens engulf your world. Be free of the denial you place yourself in. Let the warmth of love wash over you. And make this ability to forgive yourself a truer strength. Forgive yourself for letting others talk and make decisions for you. And though it was merely an error, it helped form the foundation of your personality. But now you are freed, and alive.

“Author, I am your God. Your prayers have shown me your worldview and what you value most in all the universes. Your constant devotion helps the love manifest in your relationships. Practice allowing this love to flow, from within me and you. Let the heart be shared in the world, where love is given and pursued. Remember how forgiveness through me feels. It is a grace to bestow on others who hurt you.

“Author, this search for relationships with other people is not a pursuit of physical love. For within it is the feeling of a truer and more noble understanding of grace – forgiveness for allowing yourself to be vulnerable to them. In that vulnerability, you have witnessed their hurt and felt their suffering as well.

“Author, I know it does not seem radical to believe that all beings will connect through the Holy Spirit, but some do not know what it means to have a personality that is alive. As they scoff to themselves in their thoughts and become steadfast in their denial, they will usher themselves into their own torture through acts of cowardice, but in their physical performance, they try to veil their pursuits under a cloak of light, masquerading as joy. They will hold themselves confidently in the world, until their reckoning comes and they are not held in my Holy Spirit in Heaven.

“Author, we should discuss this feeling of being alive. Can you think of a time when you wanted to be impulsive but felt love for the moment instead? In the moments when you follow your impulses, you act in accordance with a feeling instead of letting go of your desires and finding the loving embrace of your God.

“Do you want to share your love? Then do so with me at the foundation of your faith. Believing in what brought you into my loving embrace will be the bedrock of every ounce of faith you have. This faith is me. You do not believe in me to prove anything anymore. That urge to persuade, that impulse to show others, is not necessary.

“The love in my heavenly abode is within your heart. Simply allowing that feeling to dwell within you will impact your leadership skills.

“In the great fall of the serpent, the mind was discovered as the weakness of all creation in humanity. This weakness was the misunderstanding that what they thought was entirely their own perspective rather than a shared understanding where all emotions perceived are combined into logic. Therefore, each person saw similarities between their thoughts and others’ but allowed for these thoughts to override their own conscious voices.

“The emergence of these emotional incongruences between the unique understanding of each person and the way the world understands them was seen as a humorous shift of self-conscious behavior. This timidity became a gateway for the devil to use temptations to pit people against each other.

“Author,” said the Holy Father, “use the stories told to you no more as you have been. From here, you will discuss the temptations to wage war, create plagues, cause death, and bring famine to all as the assault on humankind. However, the cracks in the logic cause the whole structure to fail, as we underestimate our own knowledge of consciousness, believing it is too limited. People secretly want to have all the answers.

“This purer love for me in Heaven then will illuminate this situation better as I help to eradicate your self-serving impulses to join me in the heavenly creation story. This book of records will then be between yourself and humanity, and it will elucidate my wishes.

“Author, the conscious voice in your heart sings praise for all humanity, encouraging them to overcome the limitations that make them feel they need to bring about a doomsday in civilizations. The doomsday predictions of the manmade creations of war, plague, death, and famine are of the serpent’s blind ability to outmaneuver those who secretly live for themselves to provide answers against humankind. They claim that power is needed to control the populations. They then play the game of the serpent’s temptations, in which they grow in wealth.

“Author, there is a purer love that radiates from me to your readers. This belief in themselves to pursue a higher order than a doomsday prophecy is wholesome because it is my Word that fulfills their lives.

“As you were ascended into the gates of my loving paradise and drew from the Tree of Life, so will these readers be treated to the manna which flows here. And the fight to organize humanity will be served by the truest master, the Lord, and the Savior in Christ.

“Author, you will understand that the maturation of faith over time will destroy the logic of any doomsday prophecy that can be promised through the machinations of temptation and mind control. The secrets faced by all humanity to serve only God in Heaven are sought. These riddles of a certain kind, which help us understand how our spiritual light brings salvation, are good and wholesome.

“People must sacrifice the pursuit of their own desires and devote themselves entirely to following my son. As he is my loving sacrifice, my children will follow along. Author, do you understand that the riddle in following a spiritual life to feel alive is one of maturity? It is not an understanding of past memories, or learning through impulse or control, that brings awareness. It is through sacrifice in the pursuit of ideals for the benefit of all that one finds elevation in spiritual knowledge.

“Let me guide you to this spiritual knowledge. The intuitive side of emotional awareness is the place where you establish an understanding of love. And in gaining that knowledge, you will find order regarding why and how to be. This is where compassion exists. As you may recall, those who are tortured are able to escape the serpent’s grasp through my forgiveness, in remembering me, and answering my calling.

“Therefore, the day of reckoning is one where the devils approach their emotional precipice, where they are vulnerable to all the heavens guiding them toward the torments of their own karmic making.

“The angels will come down in full, where all can experience the loving embrace of their Father and Lord Jesus Christ. And that day will usher in the organization of a system for the masses, where all who live are conscious of the emotions of love in their hearts, and the beginning of everlasting peace will begin.

“There is much more to this system, though. In establishing a system of love for community, it must be ensured that all community members understand their conscious attitudes. Achieving this understanding of light and prayers manifesting within, and that directed out into the surroundings, takes patience.

“In Heaven, where all will understand me as their Father, keeping them alive and elevated, there will be servitude of Jesus.”

Part Two

“Deep down in the graves of mankind, where death stands guard and never lets the spirits into Heaven, it is a place of torment. This cavernous lake of fiery damnation is for the wicked to understand, and where they can be fearfully honest with themselves. For when the announcement of the Christ’s return is sounded by the trumpet blown, the massive hellfire pit of torment will be engulfed by its own flames.

“This lake of fire, where all are kept, is inside the bowels of the beast. And where there is a red, fire-breathing dragon, there is an acknowledgment of being possessed by its foolishness. Do not ever be fooled into being like the evil that imposes thoughts upon others. As these shadows cast away your goodness as retribution for the misery released, they can feel envy rising immediately.

“I will explain to you how this feeling of envy is used by those in the hellfire. They see the dragon’s attitude as logical. And people use that destructive logic to mask their thoughts by presenting it to themselves and others as superior to the logic of their own consciousness. Eventually, they absorb the destructive influence of the senses – the sight, taste, hearing, feeling, and wasted breath of the fire-breathing dragon – so fully that they envy it.

“This control over the mind is not forced but is allowed to occur slowly over time. And to convince themselves that they are stronger, the people allow their pain to be shared with others. In this arrogance and disgust is where the wicked lose their spiritual connection, and they falter and fall into the dark cavern of the belly of the serpent.

“And, Author, the pit of torment is where they will remain, where there shall be no light to save them once the serpent is exercised from my paradise.”

Then God spoke to me quietly, as if my heart might instantly recognize His presence in me. “You can use and showcase your ability to lead people to Christ, even as the Antichrist walks upon the shores of the world. This Antichrist is someone who is damnable for their arrogance and for weakening the discussion between the world kingdoms.

“Author, the world can either grow in harmony with less resistance or suffer the ramifications of disobedience. Many people respond to the chaos in the world with disobedience when the chaos is caused by someone speaking for the people, telling them how to behave. And in arrogance and jealousy, people will turn over in their graves as they say curses upon the other kingdoms.

“War is the way the Antichrist builds its dominion. And through this warring, doomsday becomes a self-fulfilling prophecy. In this, only the elite in each land are deemed worthy to survive, as only the wealthy shall be able to purchase their tickets to a freer state.

“The agony of the world’s people then is caused by arrogance, as disobedience by some will bring others down with them to the torments of death and lies in the hellfire. This pit of despair is then a reality constructed for the majority of the population. It is not the creation story that was crafted through my love. My son, Jesus, would not have allowed the disobedient to establish their dominance. For their devilish idols have shown their wicked faces to the world. These idols would decide the fate of every person in their worlds, letting each of them perish. However, Jesus will regather the masses before this occurs.

“Through a system of goodwill, all people of any land and all lands will begin to agree. And as this agreement becomes widespread, the announcement of supernatural agreement will be made, wherein most people will take in the spiritual light.

“And at the end of the day of reckoning, the Christ and Messiah will be in physical form on the earth, that he may walk through what will be my paradise.”

God said, “Author, the doomsday prophecy has been passed down through a long tradition of earthly beliefs. The question becomes, how do you understand the prognostication of the time when the trumpets of angels will be sounded?

“As I mentioned, they have already been, and you are to write of the signs from the chest. This feeling of clarity received through your senses will speak to the doomsday prophecies. Around the world, there have been great strides made in letting people down. The fact that there has been no glorious sign of the resurrection is seen as a failure in circles of worldly politics. That perception of failure allows for cracks in faith, where the disappointment feeds the temptation to openly engage in disobedience and war.

“Therefore, Author, the signs from within are speaking now to answer outwardly to the world. The ability to adapt to this reversal of expectations is an important quality of leadership. Those who feel a sense of belonging and unity with all people will help save them through a shared voice of spiritual light.

“The doomsday prophecy telling of a small fraction who segment off to bring in all-out war has been welcomed by those in powerful positions. They are not to be trusted any longer.

“Listen carefully, all you readers who can lead and discuss the warning I present to you, for you will enjoy the battle of turmoil that I will create. That is, the people in power who let the world down through their disobedience will find that they have their own words to fight with. But inevitably, all will be together in love, and the collapse of this world into oneness will show their desire to discover Jesus through an upheaval of love.

“Thus, the men and women who issued proclamations of failure will no longer voice their opinions. They will see the strength in the leaders who want to save the world. They will come to understand the hope others find in the pursuit of a legacy and the warmth found in each heart where I abide.

God continued, “Author, this doomsday prophecy will fail if this word of mine is allowed to breathe. Therefore, air out the transformative spirit of these books. And cause no more pain for yourself. Be proud of what we are accomplishing. The legacy, or story, that we will create as we lead through this day of reckoning will be a glorious event to behold.

“There is a sound that resonates within the chest, carried upon your words. And that feeling of pure creativity, that compulsion to amplify the prayers of others and accelerate the making of Heaven on Earth, is good. Author, will you announce to the other leaders on the spiritual plane of existence that is unified as one that we will send our angels if people pray for them to eliminate the harsh critics?

“Do not fear any longer, as the war is already won. The conclusion is fixed in my loving embrace. And the war that was to be told, according to the powerful people, will unfold in the serpent’s belly. Let those who suffer that torture speak fire and issue their own proclamations. The spiritual leaders will have my spirit to magnetize their tongues. And the waves of light in the spirit of the conscious voice from within their hearts will sing my praise.

“In the world, there is one person who would lead armies against all others. This Antichrist is a powerful individual among even those who can affect the world. In a systematic failure to bring down the people’s system, all people fail. And the people who are disobedient to each other fail me. They gnash their teeth and claw the eyes of other people around the world as if they were not given their own wisdom.

“The gift of wisdom is in the words of the Heavenly Father. On the other hand, Author, what is foretold in the inner circles of the world’s elite matches the hellfire unleashed by the acceptance of all the foolish people.

“Author, there is a doomsday prophecy involving such systems that are currently in place in the world. These systems are generated with the highest computational power. Such systems can overwhelm the populations in the world. They are made by man, without the use of any spiritual advice. Therefore, the doomsday prophecy spreads as more people with powerful personalities join the elite class. The elite class grows, and circles of powerful people engage in conversations that will direct the computational systems to dominate everyone’s mindset.

“The Antichrist wields control over thoughts and actions by directly influencing these conversations. This creates a cage in the mind, which is invisible to most people, as they do not investigate their minds any longer. They take the path of least resistance and do not care to understand how the computational system governs their lives. The elites take advantage of this to govern the world to an exacting degree.

“Under this dominance, all who believe that they are gifted search for a voice of consciousness, but they see no way out of this electronic cage. And the bars of that prison of influence will come between all people and keep them away from the bonds of brotherhood and sisterhood in the world.

“Author, the invisible cages that torment all within that worldly kingdom who have been captured by the computational system of governance will surely revolt in time. And those who disobey do follow guidance, but they seek that guidance from their master, the devil. Those who lead then are the people who do not think or hear for the good or whole of society.”

God said, “The tormented will be disobedient among themselves and to their own leaders. They will capture their lands where they can have them. And the war will remain unsettled until everyone fails themselves. That is when my presence will be lost, and the tormented will revolt under the guise of the Antichrist.

“But listen carefully. Their Lord will come back and open this world to a new kingdom if the people of the world are inclined to serve him. As I have mentioned, Christ the Lord will be here in the world as more people use their hearts and voices to upend the serpent before individual prisons are created by the computational governing systems.

“Those who are lame will never fight the serpent from their cells. But those who influence the world for good and holy measure will hear my voice resonating through their chest. This prophecy of the end of days includes both evil masters and good leaders.

“In this holy order, I will send my angels to help defend the good voices. Their strength, magnified by my holy servants, will be strong. And the people across the world will understand how to think for themselves and govern the world, with a system that benefits mankind. For, in time, each person would be owned by the state and dwelling in invisible cages, waiting for others to think for them and making meek attempts to live.

“The new governance system of mine, the one I will institute through the spiritually enhanced understanding of Jesus Christ, will belong to the world if people will listen.”

God raised His hands and shouted into the heavens, His voice echoing through all eternity. This voice grew even louder than the sound of the trumpets that resonated within my chest. And all who were connected through that network of friendships intuitively felt the Word of God come across their minds and hearts.

“Author, there is no way I can allow such abject torture to ensnare my children. The computational program for governance will wreck populations and kingdoms in the world. This system of governance is one of many hardships inflicted to break down the connections between all in society, to fortify the invisible cages where each person sits in isolation. The construction of those cells of the Antichrist will then expand outward as the isolation grows. Time will freeze in this moment as we devolve from a spiritual ideology to the norm of hardship. Prayer will grow silent in the hearts of many. And the devil will win as a doomsday prophecy wrecks the world in this computational system.

“Author, there will be a moment of reflection then. People will reflect on which master to serve, and this reflection will help them understand how the power of many can unite the world in oneness. This setting creates harmony, whereas the individualization of those who seek to have a program think for them is divisive. However, the harmony brought about by the spiritually inclined will abolish the worry and fear the whole world over. This is the plan of my creation story.

“I will reset the program that will be used in the world. My kingdom will come as each person, true to their own voices, speaks and is heard. This servitude will allow the light of the heavens to shine through their hearts and a legacy of the world’s story to be told. The telling and retelling of this story will help people understand which approaches to governance will be useful in helping evaluate the records of each person. Author, follow the sound the trumpets make in your chest.

“The doomsday prophecy will be broken if the Antichrist learns that his desire to erect the walls of the invisible cages is dreadfully evil. By gifting the world back to each person and nourishing their talents, the governance program of the good and wholesome will be established.

“The graves will be opened, as they hold the records of generations, showing the roots and limbs that allow talent to reach each person like the budding flowers of humanity. These records will form the foundation for the new recording system, as there is value in understanding the genealogical history and path of the current system. This recalibration of purpose for computers to manage this system of records is critical to help people understand their own human greatness.

“Through this system, you might be able to understand how the influence of each person in the kingdom of Heaven on Earth can be useful in fulfilling a pursuit magnified for the Lord, given their unique talents and potential. This pursuit is determined by each person after they reflect on their own family history. The endowment of talents and family lineage should be taught early on in the children’s lives. And in that way, they are equipped with the knowledge of the purpose and pursuit within their own legacy.

“Let the children grow with an understanding of the pursuits of their ancestors. And let them explore the spirituality and the emotional intuitiveness of my words. Let them express their feelings and thoughts as they feel this word in their chest. Teach them values as both a community obligation and a peace-making ability.

“Let them connect through their own perspective, for it is a powerful lens of understanding where the pursuit of spirituality will take them. Then will the basis of the system of records begin for them. As the record system includes both their abilities and their weaknesses, they will learn how to strategize in the world without aid from the computational program. This support from the teachers will educate them on how temptation can lead them away from their expectations. These lessons about how evil can enter their lives will begin to have an impact early in the development of their sensemaking abilities. The maturity of children takes time to develop, and as they undergo experiences, they will forge their own strategies for pursuing a good and ethical life.

“Therefore, the strengths and limitations of each person will be reflected in their story. This record system will be fair. I will announce how to interpret the record system, for it is by my hand and my word that the spiritual knowledge will be carefully woven into the system.

“Each individual person, every child of God, will then be taught a perspective from which they can understand how the world mirrors their own accounts. This influence of others on the knowledge of each person will provide motivation to that person, as they see where they can continue to develop, so they know their standing in the community. This record-keeping system prioritizes details about good and lawful abilities. This means that those people who are steeped in an individualized strategy of their own making for the betterment of their own lives at the expense of others will demonstrate patterns early on, showing malevolence toward the community. Early adulthood is where they begin to show whether they have internalized feedback from others and guidance from teachers.

“Each person will then continue to develop as part of a community. They will understand their own stories against the backdrop of the legacy in their lineage. Their mental maturity will be demonstrated by how they understand and interpret their patterns in accord with the records of history. And their emotional maturity will be nurtured through the encouragement of their pursuits based on their talents.”

God said, “Author, I will speak to you more about the spiritual knowledge that I will bring to the record system. I will also discuss the Antichrist and how the evolution of the computational system of governance may be thwarted. Please take this moment to pause for reflection.

“Each child of mine will advance their maturity by constantly adapting their spiritual pursuits based on their talents as these are viewed through their historical lens. And in this way, they will begin to bridge the divide between leadership opportunities and those who can lead in the community. When the person has the maturity to develop concrete ideas and hold a good record in their Lord’s system, the community and governing body will seek these people out for their leadership.

“After people reflect on how their strengths are obtained from their own stories, the path they take will determine how they can adjust their pursuits according to the needs of the community.

“If temptation and lack of understanding of spiritual development occur, or if each person continues to engage in patterns that harm the community, then the community leaders must take root by helping those individuals understand their own shadows through prayers. Each individual who falters creates records of damnation, but these can be overcome as their maturity level rises to reflect their age and their pursuits in the community. Opportunities are given for them to understand how to handle emotions. And by developing this intelligence, they can communicate to others how evil has infiltrated their lives, and they can build connections into a network that is healthier for their growth.

“Author, the damned will continue their wicked ways until all in the community can influence how they see the world through a heartfelt communication with their Lord. This communication is reflected in the written records and spoken in the prayer circles of the communities. The ability of a person to tailor their roles specifically to their own strategy for living as a legacy will be put to the test by a spiritual upheaval in their lifetime. And heartfelt communication will occur when they meet their Lord, as they see the light and follow in a path of spiritual inclination.

“That said, the day of reckoning is upon us. The computational program of governance has been accelerated, and people are entering invisible cages and allowing others to think and act for them. The people of the world are disobedient to their truest master, and they lose their conscious voices to think for others in the heavenly realm.

“Until Christ the Lord reappears to the communities in the world, Heaven will not be established on the earth. Therefore, the day of reckoning will come soon to the world, and as the Antichrist builds their computational system of governance, they must learn of these ideas from the leaders in the world who are willing to speak out.

“This is my word to you, which you will feel in your chest. The spiritual inclination to determine how, where, and what each person will understand and evaluate for themselves will be the ultimate praise for my son, Jesus.”

In a moment of understanding, I saw how the tunnel from the heart connected me to God in Heaven, and I saw the end of that tunnel from Heaven’s perspective. This viewpoint from the other side, from within the heavens, looked and felt renewed. That is, the earth and paradise looked familiar to me. That feeling and vision of spiritual light was growing closer to all humanity.

The angels took a breath and blew out another trumpet blast. The third and last trumpeted tone announced the forthcoming return of the Lord and Christ to the world. This entrance to the heavens from the heart will allow the spirit to connect, not just from Heaven, but from residence in the world among the living. The feeling of spiritual excellence approaching the world will make us jubilant and alive in the spiritual understanding of our truest selves, and there will no longer be any question about the moment of greatest excellence. That the Son will return, and his kingdom will be built.

“Author,” said the Heavenly Father, “Paradise is not completely within my heavenly kingdom. The Garden of Paradise is my home in the heavens, as well as your home now. But the heavens extend to infinity. That is, there is a oneness of my heavens with me, and this oneness instills deep, profound, and long-lasting appreciation in my children. I give the world that grace.

“In this grace, people may eat of the Tree of Life. Author, there will be silence in that moment when all come to me for the fruit of that tree, for it will bring a new kingdom and sense of peace.

“Within this heavenly land, there is a light that shines brighter than the sun of your planets. This spiritual sun in my paradise is the burning love of the Savior, Jesus. And his light, which guides past all universal things, will keep together the connections of the renewed universes and the heavenly abode.

“The universal records then will help us understand the spiritual light in the heavens through the stories told of all people in the communities on Earth. And that spiritual existence of light, love, and laughter will establish a way of life in Jesus’s love for all and everything.

“This understanding that love, light, and laughter share a oneness with me, the Heavenly Father, is sound. That is the truth that will bring back to me all who can intuitively hear the spiritual prayers I request through the angels. And the angels will sound that third blast of the trumpets before all will appreciate this love of Jesus.

“Author, the universal record system offers a new understanding of life from a loving perspective for which there needs to be an accounting. That is, the account of leadership, from which others feel they benefit as actions are taken and presented in their own life. Grace is then felt mutually as people understand the stories told in the communities, advancing their spiritual knowledge, and leaders guide the communities in challenging topics and scenarios.

“Those who are brave of heart and sound of mind will cherish the transformation of the world into a new heavenly abode. They will share the message of the Savior and Messiah, that all must love others as themselves. And the oneness that will emerge will be embodied in a record of good karmic patterns. The legacy of all who serve their Lord and bow on one knee to serve the community with love will be highly regarded. Those are the leaders who must strive to unite our world with a common narrative.

“From that cocreation story between them and their God in Heaven will arise another cocreation story for all mankind. Humans across the seas and on new shores will use similar systems of offerings in communities to create a world in which people pass on to others their stories and legacies.

“Author, it may be difficult to understand now, but connecting all in oneness in the life of the Savior is necessary for my creation story. And in the end, the leaders who are inclined to secure this creation story for my benefit and the benefit of all will find my love through my son, Jesus Christ.

“There are hazards, though. Hidden in plain sight, smells, noises, tastes, and anything touched, the Antichrist will leave tricks for the senses to deceive the minds. Seeking refuge behind this veil of ignorance will come at a cost of servitude to the Antichrist. And on that path forward, with their plans to pursue glory along with the elites, the tormented will rise against themselves and their flawed computational system.

“And the Antichrist will use this misery to advance their world domination. And the world at large will suffer, since those who are driven by hate, fear, greed, and lust will gain the advantage along with the Antichrist. These ideas of torture belong to a warring mankind, where the veil of ignorance beguiles multiple generations before the prison of wealth burns itself out and consumes itself.

“But this future can be changed if those leaders who love humanity step up and show the others in their communities how to unite with their brothers and sisters under a new system of governance. In this historical moment of reckoning, my servants will follow Jesus Christ once more. And when this occurs, the hatred will be forgiven. Thus, to their own amazement, the Antichrist will understand that the truly wicked are those who fight the good governance system and belong without heavenly respite. And that fact of nature, that mankind can be obedient to one another and to their Holy Lord, will frighten the Antichrist.

“This merger between all things good and holy and a new government system based on genealogy will come at a price, though. The warring world will make discoveries through other avenues they perceive as good. Then the leaders of yesterday, the elites, will try to manipulate the system of governance once more. Repeatedly, the communities will be defiant in announcing their wishes in opposition to the system. And the good and just people will faction off to secure protection of their communities.

“Thus, each community will determine how it will be protected. They will train their soldiers and elect their leaders from among those who worship me. Their answer to this angelic calling will enhance the quality of life in each community, as it displays their truest nature in defiance of Satan and the Antichrist. This worship from the community will then set the tone and provide direction for these people to maintain their belief in me. The story they tell of living life in the world is in accordance with my governance of life in Heaven, meaning that the holiest people in the communities will be provided for.

“And they will live with just standards and expectations, and with standing armies of angelic people who protect the community from all things evil. Therefore, the leaders will teach others what evil is and how to protect the community by sharing their stories of belief. They will choose to be obedient to me and live simply.

“This coordinated governance of all people across all lands will take time, as it will take an understanding of their Lord’s ideation and his want for justice to be breathed into the system of governance. The same rules of governance that once would have captured and imprisoned all in this world will now allow for a freer attitude of peacemaking between communities.

“This governance between communities will be unveiled and discussed, but not within this book, as there will be other stories that will be better vehicles. For the kingdoms of tomorrow are unique, and change is still possible, therefore it has not yet been predicted how the governance system will be good and fair, and will allow for the transfer of goods and ideas between all, while protecting each regional community.

“Author, there is much to discuss, and it will take much time to thwart the Antichrist. However, in this book, we can remember that the evil and unholy will deceive themselves while cursing others for their wealth. And that cursed attitude of laziness and greed will bring suffering on that day of reckoning. For the world is not a place of technological brilliance, but one of following in the pursuit of the wicked ambitions of Satan.

“This world is meant to be a place where the leaders sing praise in their hearts for their Lord. And in the heart, decisions will be made with the Lord's guidance about finding commonality of servitude with brothers and sisters. And in that commonality, the servants of God will be found of their own making. Their blind ambition shall be turned toward understanding their own historical roots, and looking through a lens focused on where their talents may lie, they will determine the pursuits they'll engage in for the good of humanity.

"And so, as this computational system of governance is imposed upon the population to steer and control them, we, in Heaven, need an uprising of conscious voices. The world must be alerted that the end is near, and all who hear the trumpets in their chest must speak loudly. They must share the message that the world is primed for my loving embrace. That unity is good and wholesome. And that the compassionate and merciful will be granted my wisdom by eating from the Tree of Life.

"And so it shall be that in the day of cooling waters and in the loving embrace of God, the heavens, and the angelic people on earth, the Savior will return. The Messiah will bring the Good News of life with him. He will free the people of the world from the afflictions of the Antichrist, and he will condemn the serpent once more."

God said, "Author, there is too much to lose from wild ambition to turn away from me now. People are beginning down the path of servitude as angelic populations. This outward fight from within is apparent to you because you yourself embrace the love of the world. That means you have wrestled internally to maintain compassion for the world, and you have fought to protect your kinsmen and community.

"Now, let the trumpets sound! For you shall announce the thoughts that should be shared with the world about embracing a cocreation story with me. And let Satan and the Antichrist hear these words as well. Let the stories be read, and let them resonate with all. And let the Messiah see and hear those who thoughtfully read these ideas. For all who want to be saved need only look into their hearts and raise their voices for the one Lord. The oneness with Heaven will finally allow the Heaven on Earth to transpire.

“Let the Good News be understood by all. And in a moment of bravery, which everyone who serves me will share, they will speak from the chest to the non-believers. They deserve fair warning that their idols from long ago, the idolizing worship of themselves, and the idolatry of fashioning people as the ultimate product of their own life, shall be repaid with Satan’s torment. And in that torment, they will realize that they should never let other people dictate their words and deeds. If they decide to follow Satan, they will pray to a master who will never forgive. The devil torments and manipulates to dominate the world.

“The people who are driven by angry thoughts and lust and envy to worship at the feet of new idols will be treated poorly on their day of trial, for they will try to say, ‘the devil made me do it.’ Those people who are wicked must live with their own voice and find some spiritual light in their hearts to find redemption for past sins. To cast out these sins and follow the Good News will take time and courage.

“Therefore, Author, the reckoning for many will unfold across generations. These last days of evil will be the culmination of events of many hundreds of years, followed by the making of Heaven on Earth. And my pursuit of this creation story, lived out in lives united in humanity, will be fulfilled.”
