Now Hiring: Community Health Worker (CHW)

Perinatal and Infant Community Health Collaboratives (PICHC) Program

Location	Sullivan County, New York
Position Type	Full-Time, Non-Exempt
Program	Perinatal and Infant Community Health Collaboratives (PICHC) Program

Be the Connection That Helps Families Thrive

Maternal Infant Services Network (MISN) is seeking a compassionate, community-focused Community Health Worker (CHW) to join our Perinatal and Infant Community Health Collaboratives (PICHC) Program serving Sullivan County.

This position provides an opportunity to make a meaningful impact by supporting pregnant individuals, new parents, infants, and families as they navigate healthcare, social services, and community resources. As a trusted community resource, CHW helps families overcome barriers, access support services, and improve health outcomes through education, advocacy, care coordination, and home visiting services.

What You'll Do

- Conduct outreach and engage families who may benefit from PICHC services.
- Build trusting relationships with pregnant individuals, parents, caregivers, and community members.
- Provide health education related to pregnancy, postpartum care, infant health, nutrition, breastfeeding, safe sleep, and healthy child development.
- Conduct home visits and community-based visits to support participant goals.
- Connect families with healthcare providers, WIC, housing assistance, transportation resources, behavioral health supports, health insurance programs, and other community services.
- Coordinate referrals and provide follow-up support to ensure families successfully access needed services.
- Collaborate with healthcare providers, social service agencies, schools, and community organizations throughout Sullivan County.
- Collect participant information and maintain accurate documentation in compliance with program requirements.

Qualifications

Required

- High School Diploma or GED.
- Experience working with families, community members, or human service programs.
- Strong communication and interpersonal skills.
- Ability to work independently and build trust with diverse populations.
- Basic computer proficiency.
- Valid New York State Driver's License and reliable transportation.

Preferred

- Community Health Worker Certification or willingness to obtain certification.
- High School Diploma or Associate's Degree in Human Services, Public Health, Community Health, Social Work, or related field.
- Experience with home visiting, case management, outreach, healthcare navigation, or maternal and child health programs.
- Knowledge of Sullivan County resources and services.
- Bilingual English/Spanish proficiency.

Why Join MISN?

For more than 30 years, MISN has been dedicated to improving the health and well-being of individuals and families throughout Hudson Valley. Community Health Workers play a vital role in connecting families to care, improving access to services, and supporting healthier communities.

As a Community Health Worker, you will make a direct impact on maternal and infant health outcomes, serve as a trusted resource for families during critical life stages, work with a mission-driven team committed to health equity and community wellness, and receive ongoing professional development and training opportunities.
