December 8, 2017

The 2017 holiday shopping season is seeing a flurry of activity with a growing number of shoppers flocking to online stores. In the midst of a trend favoring Internet sales a new alternative has emerged to meet consumer needs -The OneStopSolutionsShop.com, an innovative shopping hub.

As the reality sets in that Christmas is right around the corner the pace of holiday shopping has quickened. Nothing unusual about that. But what's different is the surge in online shopping and in the shopping opportunities available.

The selection of virtual retailers has grown dramatically in recent years as have the goods they have to offer. An alternative to further meet consumer shopping needs has emerged in the form of an innovative shopping hub: the OneStopSolutionsShop.com.

The Internet has single-handedly transformed the world of shopping for all kinds of goods and services. Used to be a shopper's only choice was to drive to a physical store, look around, be waited on by a clerk, go through a check-out line to pay, and drive back to home or work. Now a fast-growing number of purchases are made at the click of a button on a mobile device or computer.

The OneStopSolutionsShop.com offers the advantages reflected in its name. It's a hub of many different online retailers -- from the big and bountiful like Amazon to boutique shops with hard to find products and services of wide variety.

The online shopping option is becoming increasingly popular for a host of reasons:

- Convenience - Shop from wherever at whatever time of day or night

- Time saving - Get it done when needed without having to travel or wait
- Energy savings - Save on gas driving to multiple stores, reduce pollution from vehicle emissions, "be green" in the process
- Choice - Unlimited variety at the shopper's fingertips
- Reduced stress -- No crowds to contend with, lines to stand in, people to deal with when the crunch is on, or the typical rushing around
- Flexibility - Doing it all on one's own schedule with no worry of store hours and inventory
- Comparison shopping - The ability to quickly see what else is out there and at what prices
- Instant access - Some sites offer downloadable products for immediate use
- Privacy - Keeping holiday surprises and other shopping selections to yourself

Hub sites like OneStopShoppingSolutions.com provide all of these benefits and to an even greater degree by consolidating multiple retailers in a single online platform .What's more, they offer not only a host of tangible goods but varied services as well, like training programs and coaching. Gift givers who want their gifts to stand out are also finding hub sites like this desirable given the unique and otherwise hard to find items that can be found there. They've been referred to as "the best of all worlds" for shoppers and browsers alike.

OneStopSolutionsShop has monthly features, vendor discounts, giveaways and a shopper alert for those who want to be notified by mail when special opportunities are about to be unveiled -- including finding out first when supplies are limited. PayPal and major credit cards are accepted. Credit card processing is through PayPal for maximum privacy and security of consumers (as vendors never see a shopper's credit card information) and a PayPal account is not required to use their credit card platform.

Under the hub concept a shopper can, in effect, enter a virtual mall where they can see single items at individual kiosks or, through a single click, connect to all the goods a retailer has to offer. Today's busy consumers can expect promising results from this innovative shopping alternative.
