

Case Study

USAID

Purpose Built Software: $600 / yr

QuickTemplate: $5 / yr

Marco

Overview

Marco is the local contractor for USAID in El Salvador. He works to develop small businesses through the use of technology. He works with 140 companies across the country.

Problem

Marco is required to collect information from each of the companies he works with each quarter. However, the people have "more phones than there are people but they don't have computers or printers". Marco is unable to collect this information electronically. He is forced to drive all over the country to get paper forms signed by his partners

QuickTemplate Solution

We digitized the information collection form and turned it in to a template. Then, using the built-in E-Sign capabilities the partner companies can fill out and send in the details required to be reported. No driving necessary!

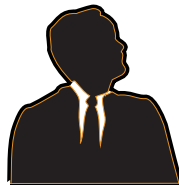

Business Info Template

The business info template allows users to enter the required details about their businesses. They enter information about their employees, their customers and how the USAID programs are affecting their day to day business.

On-Chain Off-Chain Connection

Partner companies enter details in to the business info template. They send it to Marco using their phone.

Marco collects all of the information in the Quick-Template app. He then downloads all of the completed forms and submits them to USAID

