ABOUT THE EVENT

We invite you to be a part of the 2023 NH Environmental Health Conference taking place on Thursday, October 26, 2023, at the Grappone Conference Center in Concord, NH.

The 2023 NH Environmental Health Conference (EHC), formerly the NH Healthy Homes Conference has been re-envisioned through a collaborative effort from multiple state agencies to better represent the breadth of environmental health beyond the built environment.

The event focuses on the relationship between people and their environment; and fostering healthy and safe communities by promoting sound policy that protects the health, well-being and quality of life in all communities throughout New Hampshire.

THE PURPOSE

The purpose of the 2023 NH Environmental Health Conference is to

- engage and inform stakeholder organizations and state partner groups about the environmental health resources available throughout the state and how to build new partnerships to ease access to state agency resources;
- educate stakeholder organizations and state partner groups about the New Hampshire specific environment and its link to societal and personal health impacts;
- and examine environmental inequities across the state that affect various geographic population groups, and how a future focus on environmental justice can improve regional inequities.

WHO YOU'LL REACH

This is a non-clinical conference and is intended for those whose work impacts the communities they work and live in. We anticipate approximately 200 people to be in attendance.

- Health & code officers, building officials, and home inspectors
- Maternal and child health, home visiting, WIC programs, Head Start, and Community Action Programs
- Public Health Networks & City Health Departments
- Community health workers
- Housing and Urban Development programs and housing authorities
- City and town leadership (mayors, city/town managers)
- Real estate professionals
- Home inspectors
- Community advocacy groups
- Legislators and policy makers
- School district leadership
- Academic partners

AGENDA & REGISTRATION

This year's conference kicks-off with a welcome session and morning keynote presentation. Throughout the day, there will be multiple refreshment breaks with time to network with exhibitors and colleagues, student poster presentations, a resource room, concurrent breakout sessions, and lightning round presentations. The day will conclude with a final plenary featuring a panel discussing local success stories.
