

Robert Good Ph.D.-- ROB GOOD is a retired high school social studies teacher (Ladue High School) and an adjunct professor at the University of Missouri—St. Louis. In his 27-year career as a high school teacher Rob focused on issues of equity and inclusion in both the curriculum and the policies and practices of his school community. He has facilitated diversity workshops and dialogue groups for a wide variety of organizations including the National Conference for Community and Justice—St. Louis, the Episcopal Diocese of Missouri, the YWCA's Witnessing Whiteness Program, Focus St. Louis, and CommUnity—Santa Barbara.

He has also served on the staffs of NCCJ St. Louis' Anytown Youth Leadership Institute, the Dismantling Racism Institute, and the Inclusion Institute for Educators. Rob has a Bachelor's degree in history from Westminster College, a Master's degree in history from Ohio University, and a Ph.D. in Education from the University of Missouri—St. Louis. Rob was named the Tachau Teacher of the Year by the Organization of American Historians in 2012, a Peabody Leader in Education in 2015, and the Missouri Teacher of the Year by the Gilder Lehrman Institute in 2016. Rob also received a Brotherhood/Sisterhood Award from NCCJ-St. Louis in 2017. Rob previously worked with DPS 61 DLT staff and Administrators during SY20-21 guiding them through a year long PD series focused on culturally responsive teaching and equity.