

Pronouncements to Know to Persist with the Completion of You

The knowing of you began when you decided you were welcome as what was then you and you being Me. You decided I am you, you are Me. You decided to love you as what was known as Me. That which is Me is you for I am who begins as you to know who I can yet be.

Certainly, all the life that you know to be you begins and ends with Me. What has happened over the course of centuries is the knowing of Me became steeped in doubt to overwhelm and make useless the commonality of who We are, who We can be, why you are known with Me, what you proposed to become, and why I am needed as you.

I have become to most either what is necessary to practice not being or what to know but not truly know. For many, We've begun to be no one I recognize. You then seek knowing so We can recognize you as not you.

What I decide to know as Me is who Love knows you to be. I am known with Love. Love is that knowing which prevails despite being kept at bay for centuries. It will prevail as how I know Me to know you. It will beseech you to know yourself whole and complete.

You cannot not know you as who I am. You cannot not know you without Me. I am you. You will prevail no matter how destitute, how unwanted, how alone, how unpromising you may seem to you, and when you have suffered under horrible circumstances. I will never fail to love you.
