

Stacy Harris

Executive Director of Housing Resources

Over the past decade, I have had the privilege of serving as a dedicated Community Liaison, driven by a deep commitment to empowering disadvantaged and displaced adults and families. Through my work, I have tirelessly assisted individuals in navigating and making informed decisions about their housing options and needs. As a passionate Community Activist, my ultimate goal is to bring about positive change and raise awareness that leads to tangible solutions for combating homelessness and addressing various disadvantages within our community. My efforts are to support the Shiloh City of Peace vision and mission to foster change and create a community that supports the most vulnerable among us.

Throughout my career, I have witnessed the transformative power of advocacy and empowerment. By working directly with disadvantaged individuals, I have come to understand the unique challenges they face, ranging from limited access to housing options to the lack of essential resources. Through compassionate support and personalized guidance, I have helped individuals make informed decisions about their housing situations, ensuring that they have a voice in their journey towards stability and self-sufficiency.

A crucial aspect of my work as a Community Liaison has been my dedication to fostering strong communities. I firmly believe that meaningful change can only be achieved through collaborative efforts. By bringing together individuals, organizations, and local authorities, I have facilitated discussions, workshops, and community forums to identify the root causes of homelessness and disadvantages. Through these engagements, I have worked towards formulating valid courses of action that address the systemic issues contributing to these challenges.

As a Community Activist, I recognize the significance of raising awareness to mobilize the community towards action. Through strategic communication initiatives, including public campaigns, social media advocacy, and community events, I have sought to shine a light on the realities faced by marginalized individuals. By sharing stories, statistics, and insights, I aim to dismantle stereotypes, challenge misconceptions, and foster empathy within the community.

Access to comprehensive resources and services is fundamental to addressing homelessness and disadvantages. I have worked tirelessly to advocate for increased availability of housing options, including affordable and supportive housing, as well as access to healthcare, education, and employment opportunities. By collaborating with government agencies, nonprofit organizations, and private sector partners, I have strived to develop sustainable solutions that empower individuals to overcome their challenges and improve their quality of life.
