Call for Papers

The IEEE Texas Symposium on Wireless & Microwave Circuits and Systems invites paper submissions for the 2026 conference, to be held in-person April 15–16, 2026 at Baylor University in Waco, Texas.

Authors from academia, industry, government labs, and other organizations around the world are invited to submit papers based on their original and previously unpublished work in all areas listed below (and similar related areas):

- RF and microwave circuits and systems
- 5G/6G and millimeter-wave/THz wireless technologies
- Wireless technologies for biomedical applications
- Computational electromagnetics
- Antennas, propagation, and electromagnetics
- Spectrum management and coexistence
- RF active and passive devices
- Microwave metrology
- Wireless power transfer
- Electromagnetic materials and modeling
- Wireless and optical communications
- Photonics
- Geophysical and subsurface modeling
- Radar and sensing
- Internet of Things
- Emerging wireless technologies

2026 Special Session: Integrated Sensing and Communication

In addition to the paper presentation sessions, the symposium will include invited talks and tutorials from leading experts in fields related to the conference.

The conference also offers a student research competition that is open to both graduate and undergraduate students, in addition to other student and industry engagement events. Awards will be given for the best student research presentations.

We look forward to your participation in the 2026 symposium!
