

Vote tactical in the General Election

Boris Johnson wanted this election to get a Tory majority. He wants to combine two appeals:

- Let us get Brexit done (no matter how)
- Vote Conservative for expensive politics (Money to all; NHS, investment, Police etc)

By mixing the two agendas he gives the Conservatives Remain-voters enough goodies to put up with Brexit. He hopes. And he hopes to mop up the rest of the leave voters as well - now helped by Mr. Farage tactical offer.

The electorate is now less party loyal than ever before. Between 25 and 40% changed party in all of the 3 elections since 2010. People are more willing to move than ever before.

NE Surrey for Europe has therefore decided to recommend TACTICAL VOTING in our area. We have compiled recommendations for which party it would be best to support to achieve as many as possible MPs supporting a People's Vote, where the alternatives should be a negotiated deal and to REMAIN. We have based our suggestions on local knowledge and "Best for Britain" nationwide suggestions. You will find a table below.

We have also added contact details for the recommended organisation in each of the constituencies for those who want to engage more directly in the election campaign.
