

Kroger now part of the Indiana Vaccines for Children (VFC) program

We have some fantastic news for families with children 11 years of age and older! Kroger pharmacies are now part of the Indiana Vaccines for Children (VFC) program, which means getting your preteens and teens vaccinated just got a whole lot easier.

Here's what this means for you:

- Convenient locations: With Kroger's many stores and extended hours, scheduling vaccine appointments can fit into your family's busy life.
- Speedy visits: Pharmacies are known for quick service, so your child can get their shots without a long wait.
- No out-of-pocket cost: For those who qualify, the VFC program offers vaccines for no out-of-pocket cost, helping every family access these important immunizations.

This is a big step toward making sure all kids in our community can stay healthy, regardless of their insurance status.
