

My Curious Life

If My Grandkids Ask About Me, Tell Them This

Reflections on a Life as a Lover of Science and Reason, and Being a Skeptic and Humanist

Why Now?

“I feel like letting my freak flag fly.

Yes, I feel like I owe it to someone.”

Lyrics from

Almost Cut My Hair

By David Crosby, 1970

Crosby, Stills, Nash & Young

Me in the early 1970s

The Power of Curiosity

Curiosity propels us to seek knowledge and understanding.

For what purpose?

Continuous learning and discovery of self, others, ideas, and all things in the universe.

Business Leader, and Intellectual

Unmasked and Letting My Freak Flag Fly

Atheist, Secular Humanist, Skeptic, Rabid Gun Control
Advocate, Anti-war, Anti-facist, Pro-democracy, and a Non-believer in Anything Supernatural

Whoa !!!!!

Me in the late 1970s

My Curiosity = Experience Junkie

An insatiable desire to learn about and experience everything
(well, as much as I can.)

Science, music, art, politics, religion, culture and society, business, and the world and universe around us

Live is best, but virtual may be an acceptable alternative.

My Values and Guiding Principles

Live the Golden Rule:

Treat others as you would like others to treat you.

Be curious and always skeptical.

Work hard and never stop learning.

Do not compromise your integrity.

Value honesty and openness.

Be responsible and accountable.

Live Aloha.

Caricature of me in the early 1990s

Let's Talk About Living...

- ...with your inherent pesky personality.
- ...to 100+ years old.
- ...in our complex world.
- ...your values and principles.
- ...to the Max.
- ...Aloha.

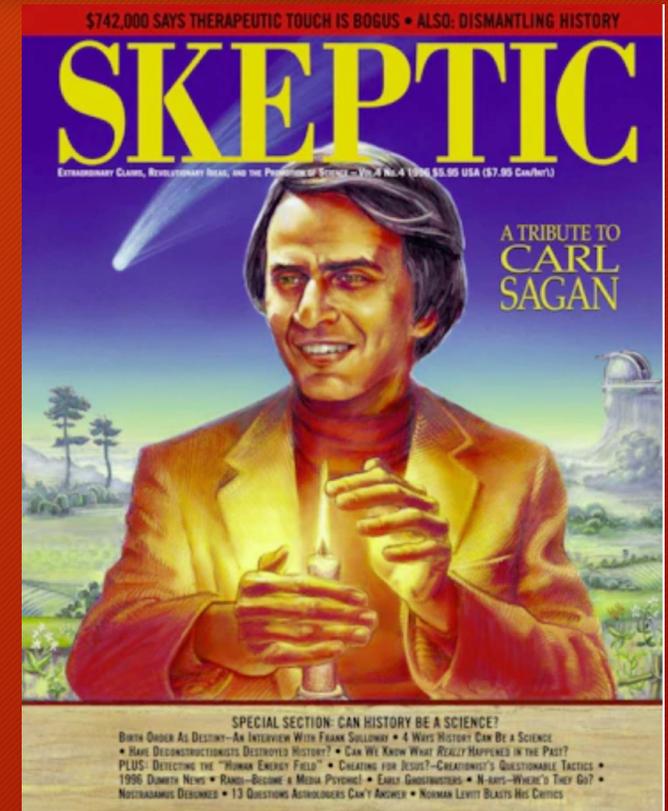

Stage-Played Guitar - Early 2010s

What Does This Mean For You?

Understand what being curious means to you.
How does this manifest in your life?

Identify your core values and principles.
How do your behaviors and actions exemplify them?

Be always skeptical and continuously learn.
What are the top three interests that drive your passion?

I have always been a skeptic
