Yalkut Mordechai: Notes from Rabbi Gross

A Vortel Out-of-Season

I am away from the JCMI community during the Summer months and will return to the pulpit in September.

In the interim, I offer a couple of wry existentialist Yiddish stories as a schtikeleh Toyre ("a little slice of Torah") to see the Congregational family through my hiatus months.

"Please advise me, rabbi," the schlimazel cried out. "What should I do? Anything I put my hand to, fails. If I were to make umbrellas, it would never rain!"

The rabbi suggested: "Become a baker. That way, even if no one buys, at least your family will have bread in the house."

"Yes, but what will happen if I don't have the money to build an oven and buy flour?"

"Well, then," shrugged the rabbi, "in that case you won't be a baker."

Kaplan played the number 49 in the lottery and won a large prize. When pressed for his inspiration, he said: "It came to me in a dream. I saw six sevens dancing before my eyes; and, since six times seven is 49, I bought that number and won!"

"But," Goldstein protested, "six times seven is 42, not 49."

"Yeah?" retorted Kaplan. "All right—so next time you be the mathematician!

A royal procession was once wending its way across the countryside. Every once in a while, the king would turn aside from his position as leader of the entourage and ride back to inquire into the welfare of his son, the prince.

The fourth or fifth time he did this, his most trusted adviser rebuked him. "Your Majesty," he declared, "what you are doing is wrong! It is beneath your dignity as king to ride back and forth, when you should remain in your position of leadership up front. Moreover, it is the duty of the prince, as one of your subjects, to defer to you, as his monarch; and, as your son, to defer to you as his father. On both counts it is he who should be riding up to the front of the procession, to see how you are!"

"Ah, there you have it," replied the wise king. "He has known me since the day of his birth, when I was already a grown-up, so he is accustomed to me and understands me quite well. But from my viewpoint he is always growing and changing before my eyes, so that his nature and condition are a mystery to me. It is only in constantly consulting with this wonderful and ever-new creature that I can demonstrate my loyalty and love."

Even "off-season," the Rabbi is at your disposal any time by voice or text to 954-798-6037 or e-mail RabbiMarkGross@gmail.com.

My goodness! My goodness! Season is almost over! Where did it go? Hopefully Rabbi Gross will have a rejuvenating, rewarding summer back on the East coast – and miss us a little.

And what are we doing in his absence? Well, Steve Goldenberg will be kicking off the spring-summer season's first three Shabbat services at the rabbi's lectern. The first of those services will celebrate Yom ha'Atsma'ut (Israeli Independence Day; this year beginning the evening of May 4th) by bringing in Jane Galler to join me in delivering and leading Israeli songs during the "parashah slot". When Steve returns to Massachusetts, Mary Pinto will take over the rabbi's lectern for Erev Shabbat. And, since it appears that we will be able to continue our services in the flesh, Joanne Blau has generously agreed to volunteer volunteers for delivering this season's parashi'ot. Here's hoping our year-rounders will take this special opportunity to join us on the bimah as a presenter. Of course, I'm more than happy to assist each of you who might like it. Anyone who has delivered the Torah portion in the past will vouch for it being a very rewarding experience.

Both Joanne and I will more than welcome the call from anyone interested in this Aliyah.

For those of you travelling away from us, please have a wonderful time, and I look forward to seeing the rest of you this spring and summer.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

As the season draws to a close, do not forget about the last of our movie series, "Neighbours," rescheduled to be shown Sunday, May 1st at the Temple. This Passover, we held the first Seder in two years which was a resounding success. Thank you to Sue Baum and Mary Pinto for organizing this event. And thank you to Rabbi Gross and Cantorial Soloist Hari Jacobsen for continuing to make these spiritual events meaningful for our JCMI family. I look forward to JCMI's annual Fourth of July Barbeque at the Temple, I hope everyone will be able to make it to this annual event. Look for the flyer in this issue of the Messenger and be sure to RSVP to the office.

I'm happy to report that Marty Wolfson, a new member at JCMI and a CPA, has volunteered to serve as Treasurer filling the remaining vacancy on the Board. Thank you for coming aboard, Marty. In the months following our Annual Board Meeting in March, our committee chairs have already begun planning for next season. Charles Blum and Keith Alter have started planning for next year's Pop Concert and Cultural series. Steve Goldenberg is already at work planning next year's movies for the Sidney R. Hoffman Memorial Jewish Film Festival. You will be hearing more about these events as plans solidify. The Board has a full agenda as plans start for the coming year.

Be sure to check your inboxes for the Monday email and read your Messenger as these are the best ways of staying informed as plans go forward.

Stan Alliker President

Friday evening services can still be accessed using the Live Stream link found on our JCMI website – instructions are available upon request but are also found in the Wednesday email.

"Yizkor" on June 03

Our Friday night Shabbat worship on June 03 marks our observance of Shavuot, the fiftieth day since Feast of Passover and a commemoration of Revelation at Mount Sinai. At this conclusion of the fifty-day Spring 'Omer season, we will be reciting Hazkarat N'shamot, the recitation of the "Yizkor" memorial prayer.

We will have available that evening copies of The Memorial Book distributed last Yom Kippur. Those who will be livestreaming worship from home that evening are encouraged to pick up a copy of the "Yizkor" memorial prayer from the JCMI Office during the previous week.
