Rabbi Gross's
Fourth-Sunday
Life-Long Learning Series
for 5782 (2021-22)

Sunday, January 23 - “Tell Me a Story (or Three).”

Ours is an ancient people, with a rich tradition of both oral and literary narrative—from Biblical dramas to Talmudic anecdotes to Medieval legends to the folk traditions of far-flung Jewish communities all over the globe. Come engage with a sampling of this diverse story-telling legacy. (And even though it's not bedtime, feel free to bring a teddy bear to hug while listening!).

Sunday, February 27 - The Most “Grown-Up” Book in the Bible.

Our ongoing exploration of the Five Biblical M'gillot (Festival Scrolls) turns this year to Qohelet, or Ecclesiastes. Traditionally attributed to wise King Solomon, this richly engaging, challenging, and uplifting book explores the ultimate existential questions of who we are and what meaning can be found in our all-too-brief lives. Don't miss it!

Sunday, March 27 - Culinary Crossroads: Jewish Cooking.

Ours is an ancient people, whose centuries of meandering all over the world have led to a lot of both cultural cross-grafting and parallel evolution when it comes to cuisine. Come explore the surprisingly wide array of things that constitute “Jewish” food... including a few tastings, and lots of recipes.
