

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Media Contact: Melvin E. Edwards Founder, Media Well Done, LLC
Contact@mediawelldone.com MediaWellDoneLLC.com

Award-Winning Communicator Melvin E. Edwards Announces Debut Novel Nuremberg, Mississippi, A Provocative Legal Drama Exploring the “Unopened” History of American Justice

SCHERTZ, TX — May 1, 2026 — Media Well Done, LLC is proud to announce the global release of Nuremberg, Mississippi, the debut novel by award-winning author and podcaster Melvin E. Edwards.

Set against a backdrop of institutional legal struggle, Nuremberg, Mississippi follows protagonist Henry Logan and his legal counsel, Silas Thorn, as they navigate a system where the echoes of international war crimes meet the quiet, woven-in evils of the Jim Crow South. Edwards, recently named 2026 Male Podcast Host of the Year by the American Writing Awards for his narrative journalism series Stories from Real Life, brings his signature investigative rigor to the page.

“Melvin E. Edwards writes with precision, grace, and a refreshing respect for the power of story to reveal truths we might otherwise miss,” says Piper Hendricks, CEO of Stories Change Power. “Taking his gift for hard questions from podcasting to the page, Edwards asks who we are and where we stand as a country.”

The novel has already garnered significant early praise from literary figures. Sarah Bird, author of Daughter of a Queen, calls it “a deeply original examination of justice in America.” Dr. Alan E. Godwin, author of Ties That Bind, adds that the book “perfectly captures my own experience of growing up in Jim Crow Mississippi... I highly recommend this eye-opening novel.”

Key Themes and Historical Context Drawing on his background as a journalist and his lifelong fascination with the intersection of law and culture, Edwards crafted Nuremberg, Mississippi to illuminate what official histories often leave out. The narrative rejects easy assumptions, instead inviting readers to grapple with the moral nuances of a civic moment that continues to shape the American future.

About the Author Melvin E. Edwards is the founder of Media Well Done, LLC, a Texas-based multimedia company dedicated to stories built to last. A veteran storyteller with 200 podcast episodes to his credit, Edwards lives in Schertz, Texas, where he continues to explore the “unfinished history” of the American landscape.

Nuremberg, Mississippi is available today via all major book retailers and directly through MediaWellDoneLLC.com.

#

Review copies, interview requests, and digital assets are available upon request.