Moscow, Idaho – March 4, 2024

James Fry, a seasoned law enforcement professional with over two decades of dedicated service, and the last eight years as the Chief of Police in Moscow, Idaho, is stepping forward to serve his community in a new capacity. Today, he officially announces his candidacy for Latah County Sheriff.

**Proven Leadership Under Pressure****

Chief Fry's recent handling of a high-profile quadruple murder case showcased his unwavering composure, professionalism, and investigative leadership. Despite national media scrutiny and arm-chair sleuths, he led a multi-agency effort that swiftly resulted in the apprehension of a suspect.

Fry's commitment to justice and public safety has earned him respect both within law enforcement circles and among the citizens he serves.

**A Bridge Between Parties****

As a well-respected Conservative Republican, Chief Fry has consistently championed community values and upheld the principles of law and order. His decision reflects concerns about the direction of the national Republican party, and his aims to transcend partisan boundaries to serve all Latah County residents.

**Appealing to Voters Across the Spectrum****

Latah County's diverse voter landscape includes voters of all affiliations. Chief Fry's campaign strategy prioritizes law and order. He will protect the Idaho state Constitution and the U.S. Constitution, deliver fiscal responsibility, enforcement training and transparency, crime prevention, mental health support, and community engagement.
