Pastor's Notes

The Psalm I am coming to for the Wednesday night Bible & Prayer time is perfect for this time of year. Here is the first few verses from Psalm 19.

Psalm 19:1-3, "The heavens are telling of the glory of God; and their expanse is declaring the world of His hands. Day to day pours forth speech, and night to night reveals knowledge. There is no speech, nor are there words; their voice is not heard." I like this, there is no speech, words or a voice heard. But yet their message is heard loud and clear. The God of the Universe has shouted through the beauty and complexity of His creation. This Psalm speaks of the stars in the sky but it is also true of the earth right around us.

Michal enjoys having her fingers in the dirt, planting bushes, flowers and trees, sculpting the backyard. We don't have to go far to see the beauty God has created, it is in our own backyard. Later in the summer, when everything has had a chance to fill out, you should take a drive through the alley and see how she has transformed what was a barren backyard to a beautiful garden spot.

You will find us many times in the backyard, setting back and contemplating the beauty of God's creation. God's handprint is everywhere. In the smallest bloom of a sand cherry bush to the ornamental grasses that have large plumes. As we look at these from a few feet away, their beauty is amazing but as we draw closer, within inches of their blooms, the intricacy and beauty is overwhelming. And to think, God did this for us. He did this for us to enjoy. He did this to show His glory and majesty to us.

It is healthy thing for us to slow down and smell the roses so to speak. To notice the small things of creation and to ponder the Creator. Day to day pours forth speech and night to night reveals knowledge of Him to us. Don't miss it.

In much love, Pastor Darrel
