

Credit Summary Report

A credit summary report gathers information on a candidate's financial well-being and provides insight into their reliability. This closely aligns with a candidate's sense of responsibility and their financial history.

Accelerate Hiring

Decrease your time to hire with ScreeningCanada's fast turnaround time. API connections with Canada's major credit bureaus, enable results to be returned in less than 24 hours.

Confirm Identity

The Credit Summary Report will add clarity around a candidate's employment history, physical relocations, identity and aliases.

Compliance

A Credit Summary Report is completed by accessing a National Credit Reporting Agency in Canada. The search does not impact the candidate's credit score and all their data is securely stored in Canada.

Understand Financial Reliability

Get an understanding of your candidate's financial responsibility with information related to any fraud alerts, collections, bankruptcies and overall financial risk.

A credit search verifies the following:

- Name
- Date of Birth
- Social Insurance Number
- Aliases
- Address History
- Employment Entries

A credit summary report is often used when an individual will have financial responsibility within the organization. Management positions or positions in finance often require a sense of the candidate's financial responsibility.
