

Lesson 21

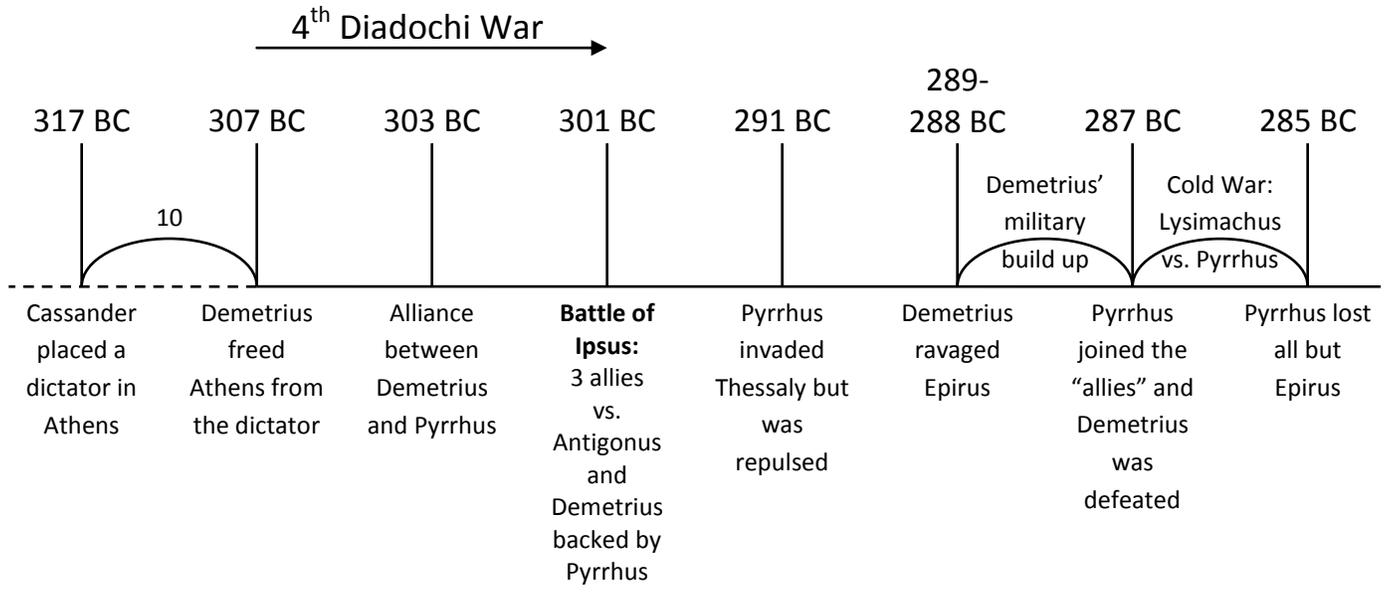

The Final World War

World War III part 5

- Review of the lines
 - Pyrrhus in Macedonia (Fourth Diadochi War)
 - Pyrrhus in Italy (Pyrrhic War)
 - World War II
 - Third Diadochi War
 - World War I
- World War III

In the past four weeks we looked at five different histories that parallel our line. We started with the alpha history of Pyrrhus in Macedonia, which included the fourth Diadochi war. Next was Pyrrhus in Italy, which was an omega history like our line. After that came World War II, which is also an alpha history, then we jumped far into the past and looked at the third Diadochi War. Lastly, we looked at World War I (an alpha history). We saw how each of these lined up with our line and told us of the fight between the King of the North and the King of the South, and in this lesson we will be combining all four of those lessons in one big summary of World War III.

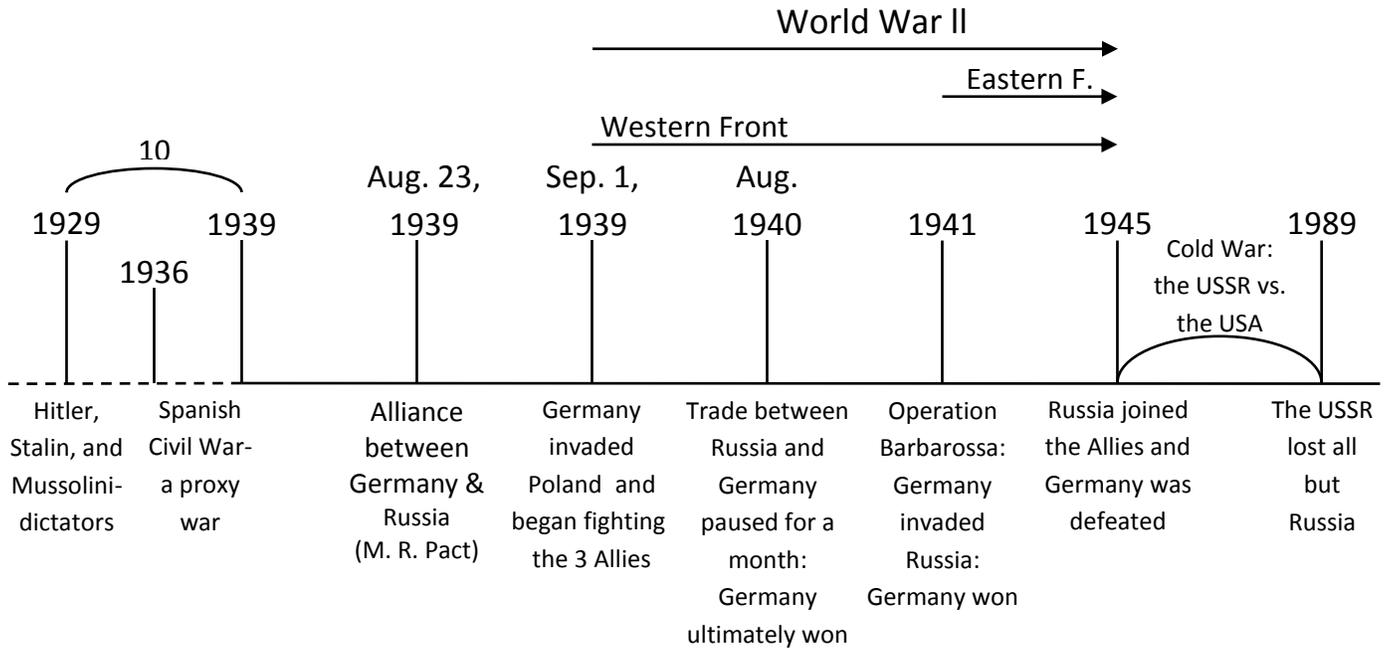

Pyrrhus in Macedonia

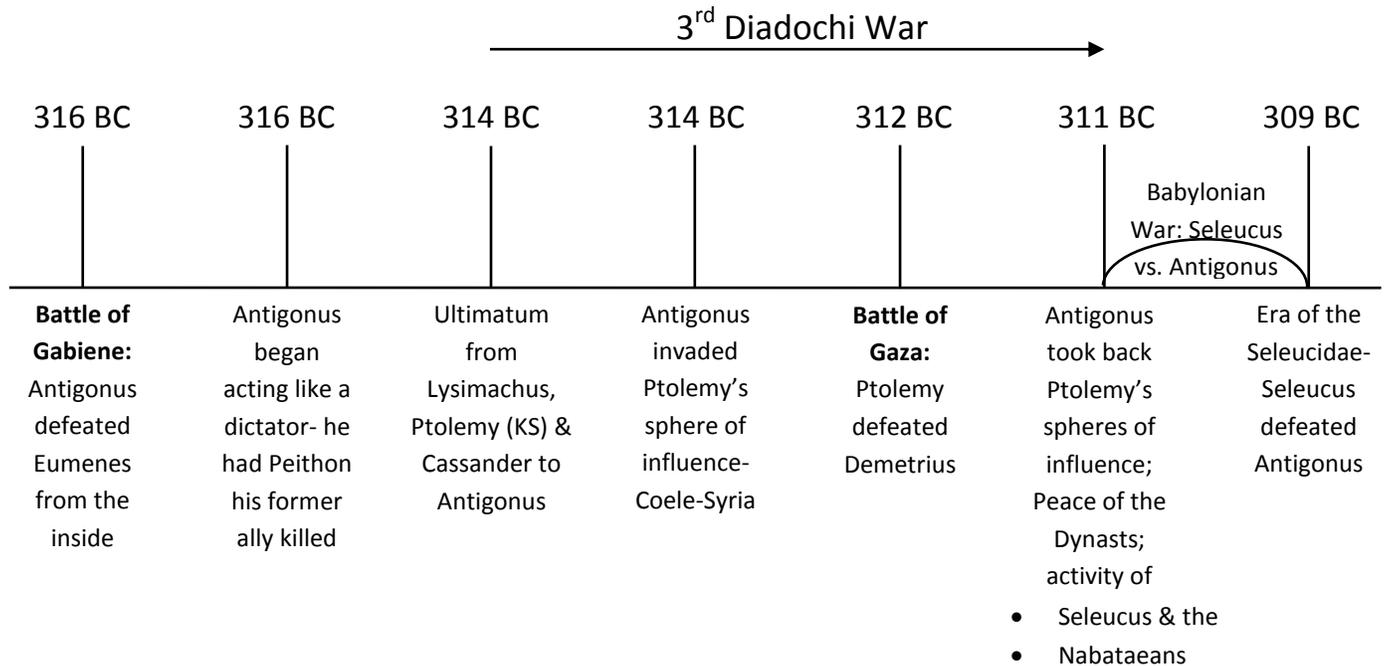

Pyrrhus in Italy

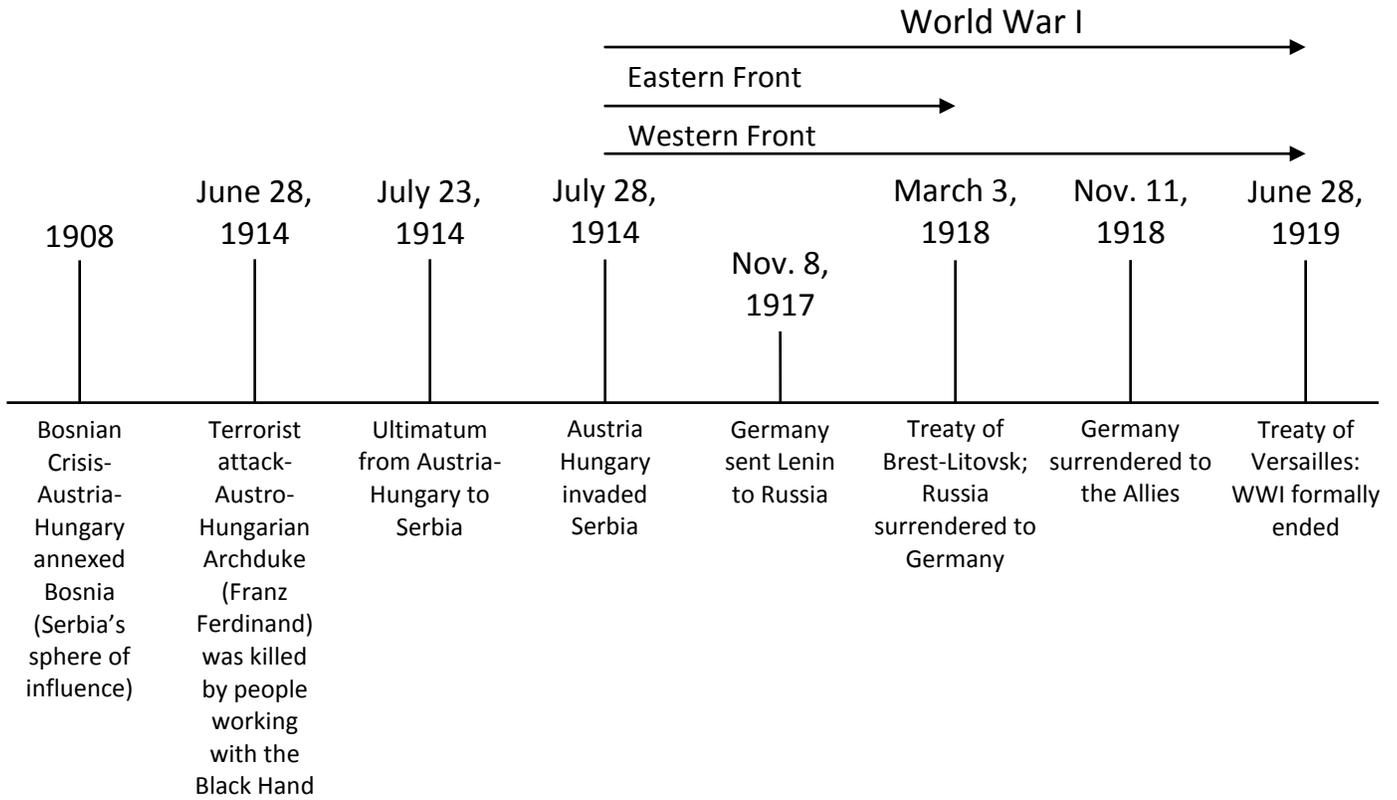

World War II

Third Diadochi War

World War I

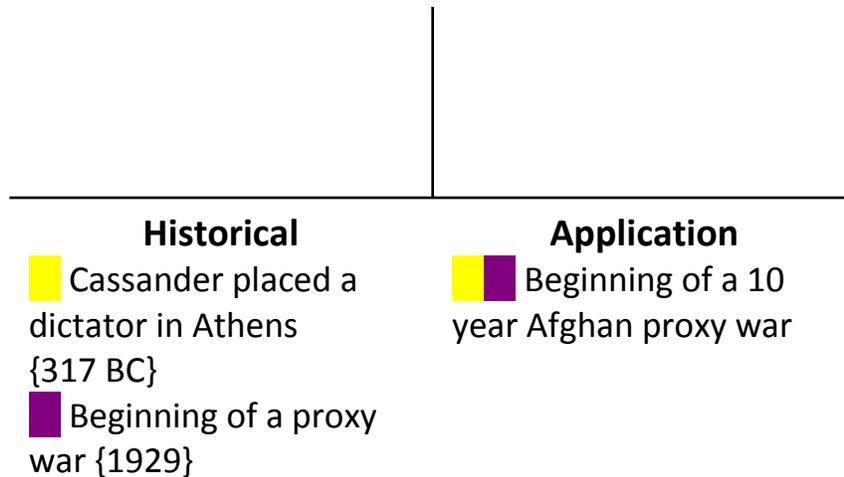

World War III

Legend

1979

From the line of the fourth Diadochi War, we marked the year 317 BC when Cassander placed a dictator in the Greek city of Athens. The dictator ruled for ten years. From the line of World War II we marked 1929 as the beginning of a ten year period with the rise of the three dictators. We lined up both of these years, 317 BC and 1929, with 1979-the beginning of the ten year Afghan proxy war and the ten year Syrian proxy war.

1989

Historical	Application
■ Antigonus (KN) defeats Eumenes (KS) from the Inside {316 BC}	■ USA (KN) defeats the USSR (KS) from the inside
■ Demetrius frees Athens {307 BC}	■ Countries begin imitating (appealing to) the United States (KN)
■ Thurri appeals to Rome (KN) {285 BC}	■ USA (KN) takes Iraq's (back by Russia-KS) sphere of influence
■ Austria-Hungary (KN) takes Serbia's (backed by Russia-KS) sphere of influence {1909}	■ End of the 10 year proxy war
■ End of the Spanish Civil War {1939}

From the third Diadochi War we marked 316 BC when Antigonus I Monophthalmus (the King of the North) defeated Eumenes (the King of the South) from the inside in the Battle of Gabiene. We lined that up with 1989 when the United States (the King of the North) defeated the USSR (the King of the South) from the inside. From the line of the fourth Diadochi War we marked 307 BC-the end of the reign of the dictator when Demetrius freed Athens. 1989 was the end of the ten years from 1979. The Pyrrhic War gave us 285 BC when the Greek city of Thurii appealed to Rome (the King of the North). In 1989, countries like Ukraine began aligning themselves with the United States (the King of the North). From the line of World War I, we marked the 1908-1909 Bosnian Crisis in which Austria-Hungary (the King of the North) took Serbia's sphere of influence: Bosnia. Serbia was Russia's (the King of the South) sphere of influence. In 1989, the United States took Iraq's sphere of influence: Kuwait. Iraq was Russia's sphere of influence. Lastly, from the history of World War II, we marked 1939 which was the end of the Spanish Civil War (a proxy war). In 1989, the Afghan and Syrian proxy wars ended.

Historical	Application
■ Antigonus (KN) had Peithon (a former ally) killed {316 BC}	■ USA (KN) invades Afghanistan (ruled by its former ally- the Taliban)
■ A Serb killed Archduke Franz-Ferdinand: a terrorist attack (June 28, 1914)	■ The terrorist attack on 9/11

The third Diadochi War tells us that Antigonus I Monophthalmus (the King of the North) had Peithon (a former ally in his war against Eumenes [the King of the South]) killed in 316 BC. In 2001, the United States (the King of the North) had the Taliban (a former ally in its war against Russia [the King of the South]) “killed” when they, the United States, invaded Afghanistan. In the history of World War I, on June 28, 1914, a terrorist group called the Black Hand orchestrated the assassination of Franz Ferdinand. In 2001, there was a terrorist attack by Al Qaeda.

2003

Historical	Application
■ Cassander, Lysimachus, and Ptolemy (KS) sent an ultimatum to Antigonus (KN) {314 BC}	■ France, Germany, and Russia send an ultimatum to the USA (KN)
■ Austria-Hungary (KN) sent an ultimatum to Serbia (who was backed by the KS) {July 23, 1914}	■ The USA (KN) sends an ultimatum to Iraq (who was backed by the KS) {July 17, 2003}

From the history of the third Diadochi War there were three allies (Cassander, Lysimachus, and Ptolemy I Soter [the King of the South]) who sent an ultimatum to Antigonus I Monophthalmus (the King of the North) in 314 BC. In 2003, three allies (France, Germany, and Russia [the King of the South]) “sent an ultimatum” to the United States (the King of the North). The line of World War I tells us that Austria-Hungary (the King of the North) sent an ultimatum to Serbia (who was backed by Russia: the King of the South) on July 23, 1914. In 2003, the United States (the King of the North) sent an ultimatum to Iraq (who was backed by Russia: the King of the South) on July 17th.

July 19,
2003

Historical	Application
■ Antigonus (KN) invaded Coele-Syria (a sphere of influence of the KS) {314 BC}	■ ■ The USA (KN) invaded Iraq (a sphere of influence of the KS) {July 19, 2003}
■ Austria-Hungary (KN) invaded Serbia (a sphere of influence of the KS)	■ The beginning of the Eastern and Western Front part 1

From the line of the third Diadochi War, in 314 BC, Antigonus I Monophthalmus (the King of the North) invaded Coele-Syria. Coele-Syria was a sphere of influence of Ptolemy I Soter (the King of the South). From the line of World War I, on July 28, 1914, Austria-Hungary (the King of the North) invaded Serbia. Serbia was a sphere of influence of Russia (the King of the South). On July 19, 2003, the United States (the King of the North) invaded Iraq. Iraq was a sphere of influence of Russia (the King of the South). We, therefore, can line up July 19, 2003 with 314 BC and July 28, 1914.

2014

Historical

- Demetrius (KN) and Pyrrhus went into an alliance {303 BC}
- Tarentum (KS) invaded Thurri (its sphere of influence) {282 BC}
- The Molotov-Ribbentrop (KS-KN) Pact was signed {August 23, 1939}

Application

- Donald Trump (KN) and Vladimir Putin (KS) enter into an alliance
- Russia (KS) invades Ukraine (its sphere of influence)

2014 lines up with many dates. Three of those dates are from the history of Pyrrhus in Macedonia, Pyrrhus in Italy, and World War II. In the history of Pyrrhus in Macedonia, 303 BC is the date that lines up with 2014. 303 BC is where Demetrius, who was the King of the North, entered into an alliance with Pyrrhus who was the King of the South. In the history of Pyrrhus in Italy, 2014 lines up with 282 BC, and that is where Tarentum attacked its sphere of influence Thurri. Lastly, 2014 parallels August 23, 1939 in the history of World War II. On that date Germany (the King of the North) and Russia (the King of the South) signed the Molotov Ribbentrop Pact. So in 2014, we know that from 303 BC and August 23, 1939, the King of the North, and the King of the South enter into an alliance. Putin is the King of the South and Trump is the King of the North so the lines tell us that they went into an alliance (didn't have to be literally) in 2014 to get Trump elected in 2016. 282 BC also lines up with 2014, in 282 BC the King of the South attacked its sphere of influence and in 2014, Putin (King of the South) invaded Ukraine, who had been its sphere of influence.

Nov. 8,
2016

Historical

-  The Battle of Ipsus: Cassander, Lysimachus, & Seleucus (3 allies) defeat Antigonus and Demetrius (KN) backed by Pyrrhus (KS) {301 BC}
-  Pyrrhus took control of Tarentum {280 BC}
-  Germany (KN) sent Lenin to Russia (KS) {November 8, 1917}
-  The invasion of Poland: Poland France, & Britain (3 allies) against Germany (KN) backed by Russia (KS) {September 1, 1939}

Application

-  The 2016 election: the Executive, Legislative, & Judicial branches against Trump (KN) backed by Putin (KS)
-  Russia (KS) sends Trump to the USA (KN) {November 8, 2016}
-  The beginning of the western front part 2

September 1, 1939 from World War II, November 8, 1917 from World War I, 280 BC from Pyrrhus in Italy, and 301 BC from Pyrrhus in Macedonia all line up with 2016 on our line. On September 1, 1939, Germany (King of the North) invaded Poland, putting itself in opposition to three allies- France, Britain, and Poland. On November 8, 1917, Lenin overthrew the Russian (King of the South) government after being sent to Russia by Germany (King of the North). In 280 BC, Pyrrhus arrived in Tarentum and began preparing for war. In 301 BC, the Battle of Ipsus was fought between Antigonus, Demetrius, and Pyrrhus (who aided Demetrius), verses Seleucus, Lysimachus, and Cassander. Since these dates parallel 2016, we should see similar events happen. In 2016, Trump and Clinton were fighting for control of the three branches of government. Trump won the executive (presidential) and began fighting the other two (legislative and judicial). This parallels Antigonus (Clinton), Demetrius (Trump) backed by Pyrrhus (Putin) fighting against the three allies (three branches). The conquering of the executive branch by Trump parallels Germany defeating Poland and beginning to fight against the other two allies. Since Trump won the election due to Russia's help, we can see that this parallels Germany sending Lenin to Russia, to take over the government. Although we don't know an application for 280 BC, 280 BC has to do with Pyrrhus, so most likely the application has something to do with Putin.

2018

Historical	Application
 Pyrrhus (KS) invaded Thessaly, but he lost {291 BC}	 The alliance between Trump (KN) and Putin (KS) breaks down
 The battle of Heraclea: Pyrrhus won {280 BC}	 The battle of Heraclea: Putin wins
 Russia suspended trade to Germany, Germany won (KN) {August 1940}

Since 2018 parallels August of 1940, 280 BC, and 291 BC, the events that happened in 2018 must be similar to those dates. In August of 1940, Russia (King of the South) suspended trade to Germany (King of the North), but Germany eventually won the deal. The fulfillment of August 1940 was the crumbling of Trump and Putin's relationship in 2018 in which Putin won (remember, World War II is an alpha history, so since Germany [King of the North] won, it's flipped to the King of the South winning). In 291, Pyrrhus invaded Thessaly, but then backed down when Demetrius came to stop him. The application is the same as 1940- the relationship between the King of the North and the King of the South crumbling. 280 BC parallels 2018 and 280 BC was the Battle of Heraclea in which Pyrrhus won. We mark 2018 as the Battle of Heraclea when Putin won a victory over Trump.

Historical	Application
 The Battle of Gaza: Ptolemy (KS) defeated Demetrius (KN) {312 BC}	 The Battle of Raphia: Putin defeats Trump (KN)
 Demetrius (KN) ravaged Epirus {289-288 BC}	 The USA (KN) surrenders to Russia (KS) – the end of the eastern front
 The battle of Asculum: Pyrrhus (KS) defeated Rome (KN) {279 BC}	 Russia (KS) “invades” the USA (KN)
 The Treaty of Brest-Litovsk: Russia (KS) surrendered to Germany (KN), eastern front ended {March 3, 1918}	 The beginning of the eastern front part 2
 Operation Barbarossa: Germany (KN) invaded Russia (KS) {July 22, 1941}

The year 2019, we know, was the Battle of Raphia where the King of the South-Russia defeated the King of the North- the United States in an information war over spheres of influence. The Battle of Gaza from the history of the third Diadochi War and the Battle of Asculum from the Pyrrhic War paralleled 2019. Both of those battles were won by the King of the South and involved elephants (which are a symbol of information warfare based on the Battle of Ipsus). Demetrius (the King of the North) ravaged Epirus (the country of Pyrrhus [King of the South]) in the history of the fourth Diadochi War and that lines up with Raphia. Operation Barbarossa, from World War II, was the end of the friendship between Germany (the King of the North) and the USSR (the King of South) because Germany invaded the USSR which is also 2019. But these are alpha histories so they must be flipped to Putin (the King of the South) ravaging or invading the United States (not literally, of course). Operation Barbarossa is also the beginning of the eastern front of World War II. But the Treaty of Brest-Litovsk in 1918, which also lines up with 2019 when Russia surrendered to Germany in World War I ended the eastern front. Here we see two stages of the eastern front, one that ended in 2019 when (because we have to flip World War I) the United States surrendered to Russia after it lost the Battle of Raphia, and the other, from World War II, that began with the Battle of Raphia and will continue into the future.

2021

Historical

- Peace of the Dynast; activities of the Nabataeans and rise of Seleucus {311 BC}
- Pyrrhus (KS) joined the allies & Demetrius (KN) was defeated {287 BC}
- The Battle of Beneventum: Pyrrhus (KS) lost {287 BC}
- Armistice day: Germany (KN) surrendered {November 11, 1918}
- Russia (KS) joined the allies & Germany (KN) was defeated {1945}

Application

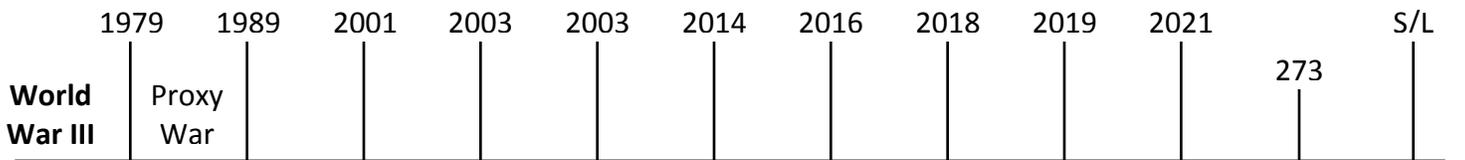

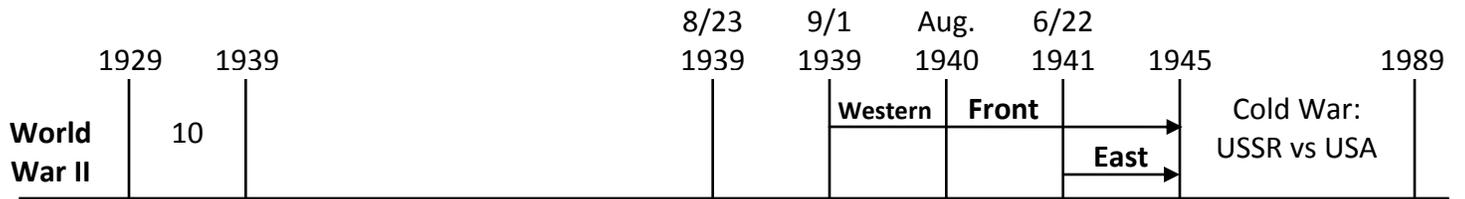

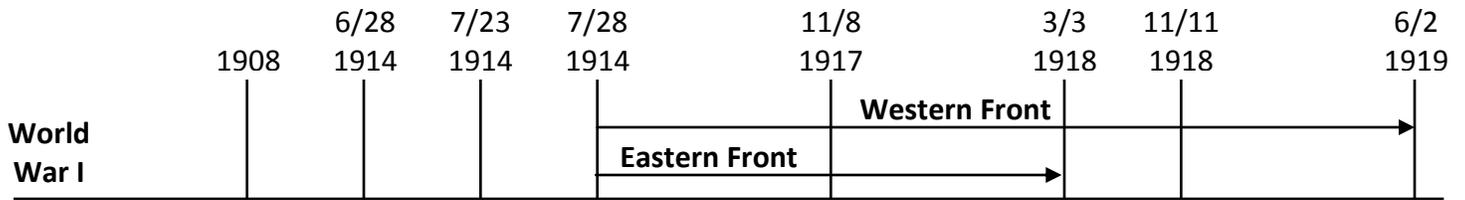

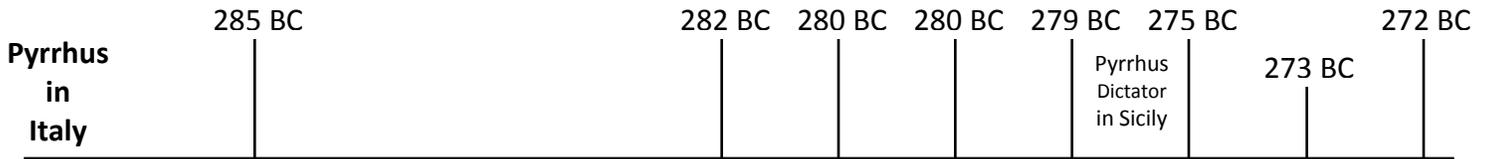

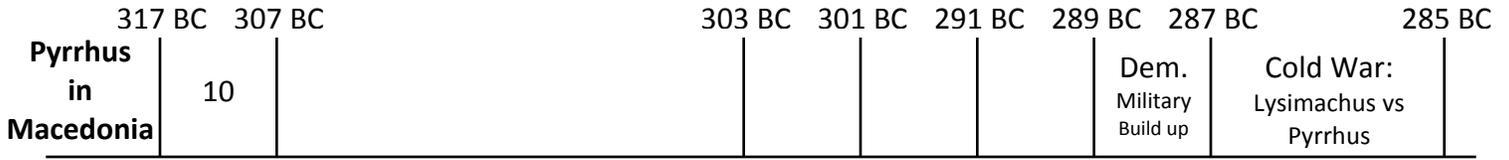

- Defeat of Russia (KS); activities of Islam and the rise of the Papacy
- Russia (KS) is defeated by the USA (KN)
- Russia (KS) surrenders

Panium is the next, major waymark on our line and like 2019 it will be a battle between Trump and Putin, except this time Trump will win. Panium is typified in the line of Pyrrhus in Italy by the Battle of Beneventum where Rome (the King of the North) won, thanks to elephants. In the third Diadochi War Antigonus (the King of the North) took all of Ptolemy's spheres of influence and then ended the war between them with the Peace of the Dynasts (a treaty) - that will happen in 2021. In the fourth Diadochi War and World War II the King of the North is defeated and the war ends, in our time, at Panium, Russia will be defeated; the war between them and the United States will be over. But World War I gives a more detailed perspective: 2021 will be the end of fighting- Armistice Day (in World War I) but it won't be the actual end of the war. At Panium, the King of the South will begin to fall after it's defeated but it won't be completely fallen until later. The third Diadochi War also tells us that in 2021 we will see the activities of Islam and the Papacy.

SL

Historical	Application
 The beginning of the Era of the Seleucidae {309 BC}	 The Papacy (KN) will be fully established
 Pyrrhus (KS) lost all but Epirus {285 BC}	   Russia (KS) dies
 Pyrrhus (KS) died {272 BC}	 End of World War III
 Treaty of Versailles- World War I ends
 USSR (KS) loses all but Russia

At the Sunday Law, World War III will be over and the Papacy will be established as a global player. We see these truths from the five lines we have been discussing. The line of World War I ended with the Treaty of Versailles which formally ended that war, although the fighting had stopped the previous year. This tells us that World War III- the fighting between Trump (the King of the North), Putin (the King of the South), and the west- will be over at the Sunday Law. World War II and the fourth Diadochi War tell us that the King of the South will lose all of its territory except the main country but it will eventually come back to power- a partial loss. Those histories are alpha histories, or histories of failure (from the perspective of the King of the North). So in our time, a history of success, the King of the South (Russia) will be totally defeated and it will not gain power again. The Pyrrhic War is a history of success and in that history (in 272 BC) Pyrrhus- the King of South died: that is an exact description of the Sunday Law. There is another aspect of the Sunday Law that these lines bring out as well. In the third Diadochi War we saw that Seleucus was established in his empire in 309 BC which parallels the Sunday Law; and also in the history of Pyrrhus in Italy (the Pyrrhic War) Rome sent ambassadors to Egypt at this same waymark. Seleucus and Rome in this circumstance and in this history typify the Papacy. At the Sunday Law the Papacy will be established as a world power like Seleucus, and, like Rome, it will start to have power over other nations.
