

Tony Daniels

His work for The Pro Bono Group:

“41 Years Old” - Canadian Alliance to End Homelessness (2023)

“Just Moved Here” - The Pro Radio Project (2024)

You’ve heard his voice a gazillion times. He’s everywhere. Whether it’s the main network voice for CBC Television, on a commercial for Lotto 649, or one of the many voices on cartoons such as Get Ed, Ying Yang Yo, Ned’s Newt, Jo-Jo’s Circus, Care Bears, Fisher Price’s Little People, Bob and Margaret, the X-Men, Braceface, the Avengers or Rescue Heroes. Even if you’ve never seen Tony Daniels, you’ve certainly heard Tony Daniels.

Born in Toronto, Daniels started entertaining at age 11 as a talented guitar player and singer with several musical acts throughout Southern Ontario. While playing a local show, legendary 1050 CHUM disc jockey, Tom Rivers, discovered Tony and invited him to the studios. Tony immediately fell in love with radio. It was years later, at Toronto’s Q107, that someone discovered Tony had a nearly unlimited voice range. Eventually that led to contributing as a “Voice Guy” on legendary Toronto radio morning shows such as CHUMFM’s Roger, Rick and Marilyn, Q107’s Jesse and Gene Show, Brother Jake’s Q Morning Zoo and even a stint with Howard Stern in New York.

Daniels has another rare talent: He uses his keen ear to voice-match for major Hollywood stars. Picture James Earl Jones coming to Toronto to voice a major national radio campaign. After Jones returns to the U.S., the client urgently needs to change the ad. But Jones is unavailable. So, they bring in Tony Daniels to imitate the star. Perfectly. That actually happened. And Tony has been voice-matching A list actors ever since.
