

Louder (words and music written by Pete Keating 2025)

We've all been here before
Life ain't no pillow cushion
A choice of a wall or a door
Both require pushin'

No matter how much farther we must fall
There's always just a little farther
No matter how hard you get hit
There's always just a little harder

So don't let em bring you down
Don't let em push you around
Just speak your mind now....and say it loud

If they say it's time to slow down
And leave your shoes at the door
Then just dance in the rain all through town
And track a little mud on the floor

If it ain't just what you're looking for
Than peek sound the corner
If there are still are stains on the floor
Than scrub a little harder

Yeah, we're all just a little grayer
But I don't mind, if you don't
But what gets old is the naysayer
And the news on your computer and your phone

So, if you still can't hit those bottles down
Than throw a little harder
And if the good times in you life start to fade
Just add a little color

So don't let em bring you down

Don't let em push you around
Just speak your mind now
And say it loud, and say it loud

And take it farther
And play it harder
And say it louder.... than before

As the, decades start to roll on one by one
Into one another
Just try it now and have a little fun
And be good, to each other

Tomorrow is just another day
Don't put it off another
And if it's should I go or should I stay
Just dress for the weather

And don't let em bring you down
Don't let em push you around
Just speak your mind now
and say it loud, and say it loud

So take it farther
And play it harder
And say it louder.... than before
